PASADENA, California, March 19.—"Ruggles of Red Gap" shows why Charles Laughton is a great actor and why Charles Ruggles isn't.

These two men supported by Mary Boland, Zasu Pitts, and Roland Young could make a good comedy out of Uncle Tom's cabin, so with what Harry Leon Wilson in one of his best books has supplied them with a wonderful evening's entertainment.

This Ruggles of Red Gap is given at the Paramount theatre since Grauman's Chinese theatre in Hollywood has ceased being the movie show place for visiting tourists.

Yе Smudge Pot By Arthur Perry. "I may be an idiot, but I am not a cheerful idiot."

"Are we going to let the wind and water destroy the future property of this Nation?"

"SECRET WOULD." (SF Examiner). She and her son went to the bureau of relief.

"The weather continues tough on spring bonnets, almond blossoms, and the short lamb."

"The administration hopes to 'equalize the national income rates, and separate the sheep from the goats.'"

"And now we shall have Johnson's reply to Coughlin's reply to Johnson's reply to Coughlin."

"Portland boasts three or more radio stations. Their programs on the opening day for the state basketball tournament at Salem listed about everything but the results of the state basketball tournament."

"Considerable mining is going on in these parts, creating a number of charming tentative millionaires, with pistol pockets full of rocks."

"H. Flewiler, the demon baker, has returned from a trip upstate. En route he fulfilled a life's ambition to ramble through a door."

"The recall of the Lane county representative, because of his inability to stand on both sides of the Townsend plan will result in a little more definiteness on the part of politicians."

"Governor Martin left yesterday for eastern Oregon by auto, and ran into what was first mistaken for an army of disappointed Democratic office-seekers, but turned out to be a snowdrift."

"The Missouri girl, 20, who wanted to hang a condemned murderer, for a 'thrill' and 'see how it feels to hang a man,' is a business college student. She took a course in accounting—but not for herself."

"Three Recovering From Poison Food." PORTLAND, Ore., March 21.—(AP)—Hospital attendants said three persons made critically ill by food poisoning which had taken the life of one woman, were in an improved condition today.

"Mrs. Josephine Tanti, 52, died yesterday. Those ill are her husband, Carlo Tanti, 51, their daughter, Angeline Tanti, 31, and Chester de Avila 24, a neighbor."

Personal Health Service

signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene not to disease diagnosis or treatment will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

MILD CHRONIC LEAD POISONING

Fairhall and Heim made a thorough study of lead weighted silk fabrics and found no evidence of lead poisoning from this source.

Lady Likes Calcium

Is it absolutely necessary to rest off from calcium lactate for two months? I have been taking it for three months, and it has practically cured my migraine.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Some cattlemen here breed their stock and when about two-thirds of their time is up sell them for slaughter.

Have you any leaflet about rheumatism?

Answer—Send 10 cents each (not stamps) and stamped addressed envelope for booklet "The Ills Called Rheumatism."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, March 21.—Street begging has almost vanished from the metropolis. A year ago there was scarcely a block that did not include several stretched palms or a "Say Cap" while from a doorway.

Grover Waples continues to be the champion lunch and dinner attendant as well as the town's best dressed man.

Thingumbobs: Eddie Guest started writing poetry as an office boy when his boss, Karl Harriman, gave him a rhyming dictionary.

Competing in the 21st Highlanders' meet last night, Cunningham breezed through to an easy victory over Venke, his 19th in 20 clashes, and shattered the Canadian indoor mile record by more than a second.

I like the autograph on a picture this late Richard Wamburn Child gave fellow writer, "T. J. Without whose encouragement I would not be the author of 'The Pickler' I am today."

Joseph L. Casey of the Butte Falls district serving 90 days in the county jail for unlawful sale of intoxicating liquor, was yesterday granted a suspended sentence on condition he "leave the state at once with his family and remain away."

Oliver Miller has given up his Paris apartment looking out on the ancient, cobbled and romantically bare Place du Palais Bourbon.

Comment on the Day's News

GERMANY defies the treaty of Versailles, and announces that she will re-establish compulsory military training.

THAT is to say, instead of ENDING war, as it might have, it seems to have soon the seed of future wars.

HITLER, for whom this writer has no admiration, says: "When Germany laid down her arms and submitted to humiliating conditions in 1918, she hoped to serve humanity."

He's absurdly wrong there. When Germany laid down her arms in 1918, it was because she was licked and had to submit.

"No real pacification followed." He's nearer the truth there. The rest of Europe, instead of seizing the opportunity to disarm, armed itself more heavily than ever.

THIS writer, who is frankly an isolationist, believing that the less we have to do with Europe's quarrels the better off we shall be, is glad the United States is bound by no agreement to enter into Europe's quarrels whenever somebody starts a fight over there.

IN ONE column of the front page we read of destructive floods along the Mississippi. In another column we read of dust and sand storms whipping over the wide plains of the Middle West, bearing away tons of topsoil.

The moral is plain. The water is running off when it ISN'T NEEDED instead of staying where it ought to be until it is needed.

Why? Well, the answer is reasonably plain. The natural carpet of grass that covered the country drained by the Mississippi in the days when the buffalo roamed these great plains has been largely destroyed by over-grazing and bad management.

It's up to us to restore by good management the grass that was destroyed by bad management. That is one of the purposes of the Taylor grazing act, with whose objectives most stockmen are in sympathy.

Chief Little Wolf, the redskin wrestler, continued his lunge through the ranks today after a victory over "Dynamite Gus" Sonnenberg, the ex-champion.

The chief hurled Gus out of the ring once and followed it up with a flying tackle that sent both combatants sailing out into the crowd.

Ties Old to New

James D. Burns of Condon, former Gilliam county judge, was the only old member left on the Oregon liquor control commission after Governor Martin in January, 1935, accepted two resignations.

Ben Shrank, who was seriously injured February 14 at Elk Creek COO camp, was taken to Roseburg hospital ten days later, where it was revealed he had a fractured hip.

George Crawford is painting the interior of the store at the Big Oak service station.

Bob Cass, who died very suddenly, was buried March 16 at Butte Falls.

Tom Vestal, John Hankins and Roy Bilderback left March 17 for Eureka, Cal., to work in a lumber camp.

George Crawford is painting the interior of the store at the Big Oak service station.

An entertainment will be given at the Reese Creek school house Friday evening, March 22.

Your local correspondent is pleased to have the opportunity of giving to the public announcement of the first beauty salon parlor in this vicinity, at the Oaks, on the Crater Lake highway, Saturday, March 23.

There will be open house from 10 a. m. to 12 noon, March 23. Everybody welcome.

Next Tuesday, March 26, is the day upon which the big vaudeville being sponsored by Boy Scout Troops 8 and 17 will be presented at the Washington school.

The boys are working hard to present an entertainment of marked merit. Besides vaudeville acts there will be minstrels, jokes, a skit by the boys of the troops, a magician act and an orchestra for dancing.

What a trip to Washington will mean to the lucky scout need hardly be pronounced, for most everyone has imagined himself taking such a trip, but to be able to do so when one is young, when everything is new, and when life has its greatest savor is a priceless thing that Medford people may give to the Scout Troops, while at the same time enjoying themselves at the vaudeville and entertainment.

One boy from each troop will be sent to the jamboree, that boy to be selected by a committee of men appointed for each troop. Selection will be made solely on merit, and the name of the lucky boy will probably be made public late in June or early in July. The Jamboree will start on August 21 at Washington, D. C.
