

MEDFORD SENDING HUGE DELEGATION TO BOWLING MEET

Klamath Will Play Host to Southern Oregon Bowling Congress — Medford Squads to Roll April 14

Fifty bowling teams, coming from Medford, Grants Pass, Bend and Klamath Falls, will meet in the latter city for the initial meeting of the Southern Oregon Bowling Congress, now being organized by Wm. A. Barron, Klamath Falls bowling man. The teams will hold a tournament beginning April 6 and continuing through April 14, upon which date the Medford squads, 12 of them, will roll. The meet is expected to be the largest ever held in southern Oregon. Barron, who helped organize the now famous National Bowling Congress, has contacted all the enthusiasts in the four towns, and foresees even greater interest in the game in the year to come.

The tournament will be held in the Bowling Garden, in the basement of the new Curran hotel in Klamath Falls. The 12 teams already entered, and the men who will comprise the teams, are given:

- Elks: R. Pruitt, Eds. Gill, Erickson, Saylor.
 - Davis Transfer: Dunn, Corwin, Gillette, Main, Burroughs.
 - Smoke House: R. Pruitt, Eds, Antle, Main, Paske.
 - Medford Ice and Storage: Dunn, Kessler, Gillette, Corwin, Murray.
 - Eds Transfer: Eds, R. Pruitt, Antle, Saylor, DeVore.
 - Elks Brato: Webster, Husson, Burroughs, Hammond, Stilwell. Doubles: Webster and Hammond, Stilwell and Burroughs.
 - Highway Barbers: Paaks, Antle, Saylor, Rankin, DeVore.
 - Active Club: Two 5-man teams—Bruce Bauer, James Moore, Carl Simms, W. Heath, Harold Larsen, Jack Butler, Glen Fabrick. Two-man event: Moore, Fabrick, Bauer, Butler, Sims, Heath, Larson, Simms—Moore, Fabrick, Bauer, Butler, Sims, Larson.
 - City Meat Market: DeVore, Moore, W. Pruitt, Main, Kessler.
 - Main Tribune: Murray, W. Pruitt, Hankin, Paske, Corwin.
 - Kruitt's Service Station: W. Pruitt, Kessler, Murray, Dunn, Rankin.
- Doubles pairings from the Elks team and the Smoke House outfit have already been made, and include Roy Pruitt and Geo. Eds, Roy Pruitt and Fred Erickson, Claude Saylor and Walt Antle, Claude Saylor and Huch Hankin, George Eds and Jack Gill, Ron DeVore and Dr. Paske, Ron DeVore and Jim Moore, Walt Antle and Joe Main.
- Women's doubles pairings will be made before the teams leave for the tournament.

JIM LONDOS PINS EARL M'CREADY

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 29.—(AP)—Jim Londos, world's heavyweight wrestling claimant, defeated Earl McCreedy, Amulet, Sask., grappler, taking the only fall of an eight-round match here last night. Londos, weighing 310, captured the lone fall after 1:42 minutes of the sixth round. Jack Forsgren, 216, Vancouver, and Casey Kazanjan, 218 San Francisco, went four rounds to a draw in the semi-final.

Count George Zaryoff, 210, no address, took a one-fall decision from Glen Wade, 217, Lincoln, Neb. Herfman Oakes, 206, Portland, Ore., defeated Ernie Bickerton, 232, Vancouver, B. C.

Fundamentals of Bowling

By C. O. (Chuck) Collier
Nationally Known Bowling Authority

Lesson 4—Position and Delivery. Assuming the proper ball has been selected and you are holding it properly, next in importance is the delivery. The success obtained depends almost entirely on the individual. No two bowlers have the same delivery. Each one has an individual style regardless of how graceful or awkward. You probably would have difficulty duplicating any particular bowler. However, one can learn and improve by watching others who have had experience.

In answer to such questions as: How should I run? How many steps should I take? How should I swing the ball—there is only one answer—do everything as natural as possible, according to your individual style. Do not tighten up. Be free and relaxed at all times.

Practice your delivery stride without a ball, by starting 12 to 15 feet in back of foul line and slowly walking to the foul line, holding your hand as if you were carrying the ball. After you have determined the number of steps suitable to your stride, then start the same procedure over again, this time with the ball. After practicing the above position you are ready to actually bowl.

Stand erect on the approach about 12 to 15 feet back of foul line, or a distance corresponding with your style of run. Face the pins. Let the weight of the ball rest on the left hand. Take a firm grip on the ball, but do not squeeze to extent of cramping hand. Do not run, but walk fast. START WITH RIGHT FOOT, and deliver ball with left foot in front. Keep your feet apart. Bend your knees and deliver ball with hand about 12 inches above the alley bed (see photograph 6).

Prising reversal of a head scissors on the huge foreigner. Then Joe used a series of Sonnenbergs and toiled over backwards with his favorite body scissors to pin Perera.

The "Iron Man" accidentally kicked Perera's face early in the second period, starting a wild siege of slugging that lasted three minutes before Perera won the fall with an air-plane spin that Hubka couldn't stop.

Lowell Blackford, CCC youth, won the extra preliminary by pinning Rusty Stevens of Central Point in five minutes.

Promoter Lillard is lining up material for a card next week, and will probably use "Kasey" Columbo, Don Wagner and Hubka, all of whom challenge the winner of the main event.

When the hooded one let go and stood up, Healy applied a body scissor in less time than it takes to tell it to win the deciding fall.

The Marvel, who lived up to his reputation for ruthless eye gouging all through the match and gave timid Healy a good deal of punishment, objected to the outcome and at first refused to leave the ring.

He was grabbed through the ropes by Sharkey, the policeman, who slapped on a handcuff and with the aid of a few of the spectators who surged around dragged him off to the dressing room, averting a riot. One chair was heaved, but the crowd realized that the Marvel was already helpless and controlled their desire to mob him.

Hooded man, who appeared only on probation, started from the first with his "dirty work" as unethical as ever. He gouged Healy's eyes, and gave him a general working over with fists and a few flying headlocks, before applying a punishing hammerlock to win the first fall in 13 minutes. Back for the second stanza, Healy found a new trick. He twisted the Marvel's black mask around so that the Marvel could not see, then beat him with rabbit punches.

The Marvel pleaded with the Referee Ray Frisbie, but when that failed, went out through the ropes, coming back with a rake he had found under the ring. Frisbie wrestled it from him, and Healy took advantage of the moment to get a body slam for the second fall in five minutes.

In the final period, which lasted nine minutes, the Marvel bit persistently. Referee Frisbie offered Healy the match, but the San Franciscan refused to take it and pulled the surprise ending.

Joe Hubka, popular football player from University of Nebraska, treated the crowd to the fastest and cleanest wrestling seen here for some time by winning two out of three falls in the semi-final from Luigi Al Perera of Portugal. Hubka took the deciding tumble in two minutes by cleverly applying a reverse arm bar while stop Perera's shoulders in the throes of an airplane spin. The Cornhusker stiffened his body, slowed the spin to a stop, and rolled Perera over on his back for the count.

His 219 pounds bettered Hubka's weight by 11, but Perera was excellent in speed and wrestling ability. Hubka started the match fast and kept up a pace throughout that had the big Portuguese guessing. There was plenty of wrestling in the bout, and the first fall, lasting 18 minutes, saw many clever holds, chief among which was Hubka's sur-

FREAK HAND GIVES CULBERTSON JOLT IN BRIDGE MATCH

Simses Chalk Up Grand Slam in 28th Rubber On Peculiar Bidding — Culbertsons Hold Point Lead

By MAX HALL
Associated Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK, March 29.—(AP)—One freak hand and the simple but astounding way P. Hal and Dorothy Sims bid it was the subject of much controversy today as the Culbertson-Sims bridge marathon of 150 rubbers swung into its eighth session and 29th rubber with Ely and Josephine Culbertson 2630 points ahead. "One club," said Dorothy Sims, with the jack the only club in her hand. (Mrs. Sims is noted for her peculiarities).

"Pass," was all Culbertson had to say. "Seven clubs," said Sims, slowly but without hesitation. Culbertson, startled, glanced at his bulky opponent. Mrs. Culbertson, smiling slightly, passed.

Mrs. Sims Dismayed. Mrs. Sims did, too. She was tense and apparently dismayed. "By the way, Hal," queried Culbertson, arching his eyebrows. "Is this contract bridge we are playing?"

Sims thought a moment and chuckled. He shifted heavily in his chair. "I was under the impression it might be pinocchio," he answered. Mrs. Sims moved nervously, as Culbertson opened with the club deuce. Sims flipped eight clubs onto the table, including the ace, king and queen.

Mrs. Sims captured the trick with her lone jack. She went ahead to play the hand neatly, avoiding a heart finesse which she could not afford to take, although it would have succeeded. She returned a small diamond, trumped in dummy, which was blank in diamonds and then dropped the remaining trumps, discarding a spade herself on the second trump lead.

Two more rounds of diamonds picked up Culbertson's queen, making her jack good. Culbertson increased. "I still don't believe there is such a bid in any system," he said. "Even the Sims system. One club—seven clubs. Bah!"

Sims nodded agreement. "I agree heartily with you, Ely," he said. The Culbertsons have won 15 of the 28 rubbers played. The count of aces and kings has been: Culbertsons, 374 aces and 398 kings; Simses, 373 aces and 399 kings. Until the 28th rubber, in which they made the grand slam, Sims and his wife trailed by 5500 points. They picked up 2970 points on the rubber to cut the Culbertson advantage to 2530. There was only an afternoon session yesterday.

Discussing the grand slam hand, the first of the match, some of the Manhattan experts pointed out that in the Sims system a "one club" bid doesn't necessarily mean strength in clubs, only a strong hand.

COX FOULS COLUMBO TO LOSE THIRD FALL

PENDLETON, Ore., March 29.—(AP)—Casey Columbo, 21, Santa Monica, took two out of three falls from Ted Cox, 222, Lodi, Cal., in the main event here last night. With one fall each, Cox was disqualified for low hitting.

Marine Jacobs, 185, Bremerton, and Heine Olsen, 190, Portland, wrestled to a draw in the semi-final, each gaining a fall. Orin Laman, 185, Walla Walla, took one fall and the match from Dan Ruff, 190, Walla Walla.

J. Verne Shangle, chairman of the membership campaign, announced that five new members have already been signed up, and that many prospective players are being found in the drive to build the club membership to 150. A big "New Player" tournament is scheduled a week from Sunday, when all prospective members will be welcomed at the course and allowed to get acquainted with one another and those in the club.

Quarter-finals in the President's cup tourney will be finished before Sunday night, two matches from the third rounds having been completed. In these A. F. Mansfield defeated Lee Watson 3 and 2 and L. F. Wilcox defaulted to Leland Clark through illness.

HELEN WILLS MOODY

HAUING RECOVERED FROM THE BACK INJURY WHICH KEPT HER OFF THE COURTS FOR ALMOST TWO YEARS ...

SHE IS AGAIN SWINGING A RACKET

SHE'LL BE BACK IN TOURNAMENT PLAY IF HER CONDITION IS SATISFACTORY.

All Rights Reserved by The Associated Press

After 20 months Helen Wills Moody is again swinging a tennis racket—the first step in her comeback. For nearly two years she has rigidly observed her physician's orders to stay away from tennis, with the happy result that she is ready to start anew.

Mrs. Moody has mapped out a program which should, by the end of April, enable her to announce whether or not she will be able to re-enter tournament play.

The renewed activity of Queen Helen reminds one that the old question of just how she would have fared against Suzanne Lenglen, the French star, crops up in all discussions of great women tennis players. To the patriotic Frenchman there never was any doubt about the answer. Lenglen may be just a great tennis name of the past in most countries, but in France she is still the world's tennis queen.

Rates Tilden As Top. Tennis is still her great love, and her bounding, dancing form is no rarity on the Paris courts where she gives lessons to France's young hopefuls. Off the courts she is always the center of a group of young enthusiasts ready to catch her slightest observation on shot-making.

Big Bill Tilden is Miss Lenglen's ideal of a great tennis player, while she sees Ellsworth Vines as the world's next master. As one of the first great players to turn professional Suzanne is a staunch supporter of professionalism. "It is an admitted fact that today there are two or three professionals who are superior to the amateurs. That will be shown when there

NEGRO PHENOM FACES TOUGH FOE TONIGHT

DETROIT, Mich., March 29.—(AP)—Joe Louis, Detroit's unbeaten negro heavyweight, who has signed to meet Primo Carnero in New York this summer, headlines the fight card at Olympia tonight, meeting Nattie Brown of Washington in 10 rounds. Advance notice that Brown would be one of the hardest fighters he has met in his brief career in the professional ring, drew from Louis the admission that he knew he had a "tough one" to handle. "But I'll be in there doing my best," he said. Louis has won 13 fights via the knockout route and won three by decisions.
