

GLOBE ENCIRCLING AIR RACE PLAN OF FRENCH AERO CLUB

Success of London to Melbourne Contest and Absence of French Machines Spurs French Enthusiasts

PARIS (P)—A new international air race—this time around the world—is the dream of the French Aero club. Spurred by the brilliant success of the London-Melbourne race and humiliated by the absence of French machines from that test, French air enthusiasts are hopeful of again putting France's wings high in international ranks by a breath-taking global dash.

The French project, which has received the support of the International Aeronautic Federation, is being studied. A full report will be made at the September meeting of the federation in Yugoslavia.

So eager are the French to make the race a success that they have provided for more than two years of organization and it will be early in the summer of 1937 before it can be held. Meanwhile the cooperation of national air bodies, including the United States, will be asked before the final date, route, prizes and rules are determined.

To drawing the plans for the race the London-Melbourne flight and the experiences of Wiley Post in his two world tours, are playing important parts.

All of the routes now under consideration will take the racers to the United States with Nome and San Francisco key points on at least three of the proposed courses.

Three routes under consideration are as follows:

- (1) Paris, Bagdad, Hanoi, Tokyo, Nome, San Francisco, New York, Harbor Grace, Paris, 19,850 miles.
- (2) Paris, Moscow, Irkutsk, Tokyo, Nome, San Francisco, Panama, Buenos Aires, Natal, Dakar, Paris, 25,320 miles.
- (3) Paris, Bagdad, Hanoi, Tokyo, Nome, San Francisco, Panama, Buenos Aires, Natal, Dakar, Paris, 27,690 miles.

Since the chief water hops are well over 1,600 miles each, it has been suggested that all planes entered shall be capable of flying 2,400 miles without landing.

Other suggestions now before the club are that the planes shall carry a crew of three, shall be equipped with radio and shall transport 220 pounds of mail.

APPLAGATE CCC CAMP WILL BE TRANSFERRED EASTERN OREGON SOON

BIG APPLAGATE, April 8.—(Spl.) Company 926, Civilian Conservation Corps, stationed at Camp Applagate, will be transferred, probably this month, to Camp Jordan Valley in eastern Oregon, according to orders received a few days ago from the 9th corps area headquarters in San Francisco. Men in alpha camps at Talent and Star Ranger station, and all recruits removed from camp headquarters at present, have been ordered to be back in camp within the next few days. Local forest service attaches will remain here, and it is understood will continue their duties with a new company to be transferred to Camp Applagate.

The 100 men in camp, most of whom are from Portland, are looking forward to new experiences in Jordan Valley, which previously did not possess a CCC camp. It is reported that the work program there will be given over to a reclamation project, and that the camp will be entirely under supervision of the army without forest service direction. Men who are credited with overtime work here will not be extended the privilege of using this time in the new camp.

Camp Applagate was established two years ago, and has ranked high among camps of the Medford district in all phases of work.

NIGHT CLUB MEN FIND PATRONAGE SHY IN SPENDING

New York Hot Spots Cater to 470,000 Each Month—Bargain Hunters Leave When Prices Given Boost

NEW YORK.—(UP)—Half-way thru their biggest season since the war, night club operators are reconciled to the fact that the tremendous flow of patronage is no gold rush. With a combined seating capacity of 470,000, the Manhattan hot spots are well populated six nights a week. But the mere presence of paying guests does not indicate heavy profit, as it did in the days of cover charges and corkage fees.

The "$1.50 dinner" is the chief contributing factor to the club owners' headaches. Designed as bait for new customers, who would theoretically occupy the chairs during the slack early hours and buy numerous drinks, the cut-rate meal won immediate acceptance by hordes of tourists.

Bargain Hunters
The bargain-hunting patrons occupy ring-side seats at a gross fee of about 30 cents an hour. When a few of the large night haunts gave their price schedule a tentative lift they found that the canny customers took their trade across the street.

The cost of hiring entertainers, with codes and a slightly more active demand than last year, is somewhat higher. The items of rent, staff salaries, light and heat remain fairly constant. The only way a club owner can cut expenses is to skip on food and drinks and there is too much "comparison shopping" among his customers to allow him much leeway.

Ghetto District
Allen street, in the ghetto, has become the southernmost outpost of the expanded night life. Six miles north, at the opposite end of the island, the Harlem jazz clubs presided over by the standard hi-de-lo practitioners are having a better-than-average season even at reduced prices. The mortality rate of night clubs in the Black Belt is shockingly high.

With price the paramount issue in night life, the small-time bon vivant is getting a run for his money.

CATERPILLAR BURNED ON STAR GULCH ROAD

BIG APPLAGATE, April 8.—(Spl.) Fire, which started from the exhaust of a No. 50 forest service caterpillar as it was being cranked, resulted in partial destruction of the machine Wednesday, which was being used here in grading the Star Gulch-Thompson Creek road. Gasoline was spilled on the machine as the tank was being filled, causing the blaze. The caterpillar was valued at $4000, although it is believed that $900 will cover cost of repairs.

URGE DOG OWNERS TO RESTRAIN PETS DURING GARDENING

Contributed
The city dog ordinance provides that during the months of April, May and June all dogs shall be confined on their owners' property and not be permitted to run at large. Dog owners have a very definite responsibility to their neighbors in relation to their animals. Your dog should be trained to respect other people's property. He has no license to dig up their gardens or molest garbage cans. He cannot be allowed to prey upon sheep, cattle or chickens. He must not cause a disturbance by unnecessary barking either by day or night or permitted to be a public nuisance.

Dog owners should try to remember always that other people cannot possibly have the same affection for your dog that you yourself have and that they therefore cannot have the same tolerance for his misdeeds.

You are judged by the behavior of your dog and he is made to suffer through your short coming. Because you do not want to, personally, supervise your dog's exercise, you have no right to turn it adrift from your house and leave it to its own resources. The public has a right to expect that your dog will be always under control and the Humane Society asks that the dog owner respect the city dog ordinance and watch their dogs carefully during this garden making period.

The Humane Society is cooperating with the city in the enforcement of its dog ordinance and will patrol the entire city during the months of April, May and June.

FISHERMEN SIGHT SEA SERPENT OFF NETTLE ISLAND

PORT ALBERT, B. C., April 8.—(AP)—Appearance in Barkley sound of a sea serpent, which may be Victoria's famous "caddy," is the chief topic of conversation among west coast salmon fishermen. It has been seen on three different occasions by three different fishermen, all of whom had close-up views.

Jack Patterson first saw the serpent several weeks ago when he was trolling in the channel near Nettie Island. He thought at first it was a cedar tree with its wide butt showing high above the water, but when it dove suddenly and reappeared closer to the boat, showing its horse-like head, Patterson pulled in his lines and left. Fearing the ridicule of his fellow fishermen he said nothing of the incident until recently.

An Indian next ran across the serpent and had a fairly good view as it sported in the water a short distance from his boat, but it remained for a Swedish fisherman to give the best description of the strange animal. He chased it for half an hour with his trolling launch and was at time so close that he was able to make a sketch of the head which resembles that of a horse with a long, under curled upper lip like that of a camel. The body was similar to a huge snake, with the addition of large flapper fins, and it wriggled under the water much as a snake does when swimming. He judged its total length to be about 30 feet.

HOOVER AND SMITH ON SAME PROGRAM TONIGHT

CORVALLIS, Ore., April 8.—(AP)—R. H. Hull, professor of engineering at University of Idaho, was today elected chairman of the Pacific northwest section of the American Association for the Promotion of Engineering Education.

President Hoover and his 1928 opponent for the presidency, former Governor Alfred E. Smith, are on the program as speakers tonight at the opening of the Salvation Army's campaign for $500,000.

With an excess precipitation of .39 of an inch for the month, the weatherman forecast still more rain for tonight and Tuesday. Fifteen hundredths of an inch of rain fell in Medford during Sunday, and .16 during the night. Precipitation for the season, however, remained .17 of an inch below normal.

Snow fell last night in the foothills, and five inches of new snow was reported at the summit of the Siskiyou at 5 a. m. today. The foothills were covered lightly with snow that was not expected to remain long.

Orchards were not materially benefited by the rain, as enough moisture has already fallen to assure development of the crop, and the added moisture only added inconvenience to orchard operations.
