

ROOSEVELT EYES SUGGESTIONS FOR SPEEDING RELIEF

Mayors of Leading Cities Draft Plans for Co-operation in Program—Work Where Needed Is Aim

By THOMAS J. HAMILTON, JR. Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, April 11.—(AP)—Detailed methods of speeding the $4,000,000,000 work drive were canvassed by President Roosevelt today as mayors of leading cities drafted plans for cooperation in the jobless relief program.

Mr. Roosevelt held his appointments list to a minimum to give special attention to recommendations for pushing the new work relief law into full operation.

The executive and advisory committees of the United States conference of mayors gathered in closed session.

Speed Is Objective

They said since the relief load is centered primarily in the larger industrial cities, they hope to develop a plan under which the cities might effectively cooperate with the government in shifting 3,500,000 employable from relief rolls to jobs on "useful projects" with a minimum of delay.

This objective was in apparent harmony with administration desires to make work where the workers are and to avoid large movements of jobless.

Those attending the mayor's meeting included Mayor Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee, president of the conference; Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, New York City; Mayor E. J. Kelly, Chicago; Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield of Boston; Mayor Howard W. Jackson of Baltimore; Mayor George D. Regole of Denver, and City Commissioner R. E. Riley of Portland, Ore.

Accounting Sought

The senate appropriations committee approved a resolution by Senator Couzens (R. Mich.), calling upon the relief administration to account for the expenditure of $2,909,910,000.

Chairman Glass said the action was taken after Couzens said that unless the accounting were obtained, the country would be faced with "the greatest scandal that ever shook the government."

The resolution now will go to the senate for action.

So far as possible, the president said, employment under the $4,000,000,000 work fund would be provided in the localities in which the destitute jobless live. It was indicated this policy was based on a desire to avoid the expense of building workers' barracks and homes which later would have to be abandoned.

Must Develop Work

This stand left it up to assistants to develop more projects in populous centers where dam construction, soil erosion control, reforestation, water conservation, rural electrification and the like are impossible.

One-half of the relief problem now is concentrated in eight densely populated states. The most recent relief census showed there were 3,485,000 workers in the cities, all of them suited to share in the work relief program if jobs can be devised. The number of employable persons on relief everywhere was placed at 5,000,000. About 1,500,000 of these are in families which have more than one member able to work, leaving 3,500,000 to be employed in the drive now starting.

To Present Play Next Sunday Eve At M. E. Church

"Challenge of the Cross, a play written by Charles A. Marsh, will be presented at the First M. E. church the evening of Palm Sunday, April 14, under the direction of Lucile Schoppert. The play is to be given by Reverend Knott's Alpha Sigma class of the church.

The cast of characters consists of the following: First Disciple, Katharin Walker; Second Disciple, Beulah Fisher; Third Disciple, Dorothy Waldron; Fourth Disciple, Georgia Holloway; Fifth Disciple, Blanch Burke; Sixth Disciple, Dorothy Hall.

Music will be furnished during presentation of the play by a quartet composed of Andy Severson, Eleanor Poffenberger, Mary Ann Gates, and Orla Severson.

Marvin Burk will be in charge of the lighting.

MASONS PREPARE FOR BIG MEETING IN K. F. SATURDAY

Final arrangements have been made for the big southern Oregon Masonic meeting to be held in the Masonic temple in Klamath Falls on Saturday. About 400 Masons will be present from all of southern Oregon, with approximately 60 from this city planning to attend.

The meeting will be in the nature of a district get-together, and was called by E. M. Wilson of Medford, who is the most worthy grand master of the Grand Lodge of Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons of Oregon. There will be a huge reception, and invitations have been sent to the grand masters of both California and Nevada. There will also probably be between eight and ten Oregon grand lodge officers present.

The program, which will last all day, will include registration of guests, a school of instruction conducted by Weston F. Shields, deputy grand lodge instructor from Medford, reception of grand master and other grand lodge officers, and an address of welcome from Judge Arthur D. Hay of Lakeview.

Early in the afternoon the M. M. degree will be conferred by the Ashland lodge, followed by musical entertainment; an address by Grand Master Wilson, remarks from distinguished guests, and other interesting features.

The group will meet at 6 p. m. for dinner in the banquet hall, served by the Eastern Star social club, with music by the Klamath Union High School orchestra.

At the evening session the Kiwanis male chorus and trio of Klamath Falls will entertain with several numbers, and the introduction of distinguished guests will take place, followed by an address from the grand master of Oregon. Another address, "Why Masonry," by R. Frank Peters, senior grand warden of Oregon, from Hillsboro, will be a feature of the evening program.

Climaxing the evening's program will be conferring of the M. M. degree by the Medford lodge. As a final windup to the occasion, a tour of the Modoc Lava Beds national monument, the scene of the Canby Indian massacre, will be conducted by Don C. Fisher on Sunday, April 14.

METAL ATTAINS HIGHEST LEVEL IN NINE YEARS

Nevada's barren desert country were hopeful for a return of the "good old days."

In Reno mining authorities said the new silver price would make it possible for many old properties, closed down for many years, to be reopened.

"It's a big step forward," Charles Higgins, veteran prospector and mining editor, declared.

Most Tonopah mines are now being operated by leasees, some of them working for a small daily profit. To them each boost in the price of the white metal means a chance to add to their earnings.
