VICTORY ASSURED FOR CULBERTSONS IN BRIDGE MATCH

Nothing Short of Vulnerable Grand Slams in Each of Six Remaining Rubbers Can Aid Sims Team

By Tom Hagenbuch Associated Press Staff Writer. NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP)—The 150-rubber bridge battle between the Ely Culbertsons and the P. Hal Simses comes to its close tonight with the twin mantle of victory already draped on the shoulders of Ely and Josephine Culbertson.

They hold such a lead over Hal and Dorothy Sims that nothing short of vulnerable grand slams in each of the six remaining rubbers of the match would bring the Simses out on top. Sims entertains no hope that such a bridge miracle will come to pass.

13,970 Point Lead At the end of the 140th rubber last night, the Culbertson lead amounted to 13,970 points which means that the Simses would have to average a plus of 1400 points on each of the remaining rubbers to win.

Although Culbertson professed to have some fear he might be defeated, he was obviously elated that victory was definitely within his grasp.

Eleven rubbers were played yesterday and six of them went to the Culbertsons. Nevertheless, the Simses made a net gain for the day of 750 points.

Insurgents 25c Stake The two principals decided to play for a stake of 25 cents a point, just 40 lives things up.

Sims had a plus of 2610 points for the afternoon session and Culbertson had a hand over $682.60. It was one of the few bright spots of the match for Sims.

The Culbertsons have a total of 121,600 points to 107,630 for their opponents.

Last night's bridge resulted in frequent sets, due principally to desperate bidding by the Simses.

TEST FOR HUSKY CREW TOMORROW

BERKELEY, Cal., April 12.—(AP)—Whittington hopes of producing the world's champion crew of 1936 will be given their first test tomorrow when the sophomore varsity from Seattle races California on the Oakland estuary.

No one knew how to compare the two crews, although the Huskies were given a possibility of coping all three races while it was generally agreed the Bears would have to win in the varsity event if they are to win at all.

California's 1934 intercollegiate champions are still at Berkeley, but only one of them will be in the shell meeting Washington tomorrow. He is Carroll Brigham. All the other champions were shoved off their slides by Jayvees, sophomores or juniors for transfers.

GOLFING TYROS EAGER TO ENTER SUNDAY TOURNEY

Much enthusiasm is evident among the city's beginning golfers, according to Verna Shangle, chairman of the membership committee for Rogue Valley club, regarding the guest tournament which is to be held at the course Sunday. More than 100 are expected to participate.

One of the most popular features promises to be the lunches to be served by the club by Alma Lee of the Polar Freeze. It is widely known that lunches she prepares are delicious, and the club feels fortunate in securing her services. This feature may become a permanent asset to the club, officials said.

In addition to the guest tournament, the finals of the president's cup golf tournament will be held, starting at 9 o'clock in the morning and progressing for 36 holes. The second nine will start at 1 o'clock.

This contest is between R. B. Hammond, Sr., and E. L. Childers, who emerged from the semi-finals last week end, after a field of more than 30 players was eliminated over a period of several weeks. The finals promise to be a battle, as both Hammond and Childers have been hitting off great golf this spring.

Everyone who plays golf is welcome to attend the guest tournament which is being held to allow newcomers to get acquainted with one another as part of a program to build the club membership to 150. The guest tournament, played under blind bogey rules to insure all players an equal chance for the prize, is for men but women will also play during the afternoon.

Sailor Franz Pins Marine Two Falls

PENDLETON, April 12.—(AP)—Sailor Franz, 190-pound San Diego wrestler, won two out of three falls in a main event match here last night from Marine Jacobs, 170, of Bremerton.

Mike Sterlich, 215 pounds, won two out of three from Don Wagner, 225, of Corvallis.

COLUMBO, HUBKA PIN THEIR MEN ON ARMORY MAT

Casey Colombo, versatile Californian, learned a few clever tricks in wrestling from aggressive Ted Thyne of Portland, and used one of them to win the deciding fall from the veteran in the main bout of the tug and buff program last night at the armory.

After Thyne had taken the first fall, by slugging his young opponent from a position outside the ropes, Colombo decided that turn about is fair play, so when Thyne rubbed him in the final period, Colombo, who was outside the ropes this time, gave the Portlander such a rabbit punch to the chops that a body press was all it took to win the fall. Timekeeper Viv Beach clocked it in just five minutes.

Columbo, the gentleman grappler, at first didn't know how to treat the Portlander, who is old enough to be Casey's father. He started by applying some of his most effective holds, but soon found that Ted could squeeze out of most of them with little trouble. Thyne was tough from the first, and his bruising shoulders gave Colombo a nosebleed when the first tangle came.

The smooth-wrestling Californian put an end to rough stuff in the second canto, by bringing a few of his spectacular somersaults into play. Casey was far too fast for his opponent and knocked him all over the mat before applying a body press for the fall after seven minutes of wrestling. According to "Wickie" Wickstein, announcer, Colombo weighed in at 216 and Thyne at 207.

In the short and simple opening bout, Joe Smolinski of Poland, having lost the first fall to Joe "Iron Man" Hubka via somersault and a leg-ancher body press, decided to show the fans what a pansy the Masked Marvel is, and went to eye gouging with such gusto that Referee Ray Friable gave Hubka the second and deciding fall after two minutes of maltreatment.

Smolinski, 207, might have proved a good match for the 204½-pound Cornhusker had he been content to wrestle, but he persisted in slugging and thumbing the popular Nebraskan's eyes. The large attendance of fans threatened to rise up in arms against Smolinski, but were soothed between grunts and groans by the tunes of Dinty Moore's orchestra.

Glen Standley, 140, took nine minutes to win a ten-minute preliminary, which was a battle of arms, legs and flying hair by applying a body press on Risty Stevens, 142.

Promoter Lillard is negotiating to bring Jagat Singh, big-time Hindu to Medford for an appearance on next week's card.

HOLLYWOOD TRIMS PORTLAND, 4 TO 3, BY AID OF HOMER

By the Associated Press. The Oakland ball club allowed the San Francisco Seals their first victory of the season yesterday and thereby dropped back amongst the also-rans and left Los Angeles with the only perfect average in the Coast League today.

The Oaks lost 3 to 4, on their home field. The Seals won in the eighth when a single, a double and an error by shortstop Molesworth gave them two runs. Outfielder Keys hit a homer in the next half of the inning.

Lou Garland hurled Los Angeles to a win over Sacramento. In the most brilliant mound work of the season he allowed only two hits.

Coming from behind in the fifth with a four-run rally, Seattle downed the San Francisco Missions, 10 to 5, and took the series, two games out of three. A double by Jerry Donovan with the bases loaded started the rally. The Missions used four pitchers and the Indians three in the free-hitting, loosely-played fray.

A homer by Ray Jacobs in the ninth gave Hollywood a 4 to 3 win over Portland. The Stars tied the score in the eighth with a run by Rightfielder Wirthman. Both Hollywood's other runs were homers, one by Jacobs in the fourth and another by Richard Doerr in the third.

Winners of the play-off will each receive a sterling silver cocktail cup, donated as prizes for the Scotch foursome tournaments by E. Raymond Driver.

BRAIN ROBOT OF UNCANNY POWERS NEARLY FINISHED

PHILADELPHIA—(UP)—Partial operation of the world's largest differential analyzer, a super-calculating machine, has been demonstrated at the Moore School of Electrical Engineering at the University of Pennsylvania.

The huge mechanical "brain," 30 feet long and weighing three tons, has a "memory" somewhat similar to its human counterpart, but is able to solve problems far beyond the mathematical capacity of humans.

Work on the machine was started more than a year ago by 100 CWA workers under the supervision of Irvan Travis, of the Moore school faculty. Travis designed the analyzer, using the same principles followed by Dr. Vladimir Bush, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who designed the first machine of its kind four years ago.

Travis, however, has produced a much larger instrument which, when fully completed, will have two and one-half times the "mental" capacity of Dr. Bush's original.

The machine solves problems through ingenious applications of simple physical and geometrical laws, co-ordinated through gears, wheels and mechanical amplifying mechanisms. After related mathematical equations have been solved, the machine "memorizes" the results.

Other variables in the equations then can be solved, after which the machine reaches back into its "memory" to produce accurate answers, recorded on paper and completely tabulated.

PUEBLO FIREMAN'S HEART GOES BAD

LOS ANGELES, April 12.—(AP)—Jim Flynn, old time heavyweight prizefighter who once knocked out Jack Dempsey, was taken to a receiving hospital early today suffering from a heart attack.

The 55-year-old ex-fighter has been suffering from a cold.

"The nurse told us it seemed like Jim's heart was going bad on him, so they took him to the hospital," said friends at the hotel where Flynn lived.

Known as the Pueblo fireman, Flynn's knockout victory over Dempsey was scored during the latter's early rise to ring prominence. Dempsey subsequently came back to put Flynn out.
