

MERCIFUL DEATH IS DEBATED FOR IMBECILE INFANT

Baby Girl Born Deaf, Dumb and of Frail Mentality — Physicians Declare Child Probably Will Not Live

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa.—(UP)—A six-month-old girl baby, believed doomed to be a deformed imbecile, is the center of a controversy at Pennhurst State hospital on whether the tot should be given a merciful death or be permitted to mature.

One of those favoring merciful death is Dr. J. Evans Schiele, secretary of the Pennsylvania Welfare department, under whose jurisdiction the hospital operates.

Favors Death Said Dr. Schiele: "The system under which every effort is made to keep alive a hopeless case is one of the peculiar ideas of our civilization."

"I believe the law should permit appointment of a commission of eminent physicians who would make a study of such cases and rule whether or not the child should live. In some cases the child is better off dead."

The baby is being fed milk through a tube. Dr. Walter Krause, resident physician at the hospital, maintains the child is "alive and doing well."

Oppose Physician's View Opposed to Dr. Schiele's stand is Robert von Marchzeke, former Pennsylvania supreme court justice.

"The baby has a soul. We have no right to destroy it. I do not believe the right to take life should be placed in the hands of officials."

Physicians have stated that the child probably will not live. "But as long as she is in our care we will do everything in our power to see that she gets proper attention," Dr. Krause declared.

BIG EVENING SLATED FOR EAGLES, AUXILIARY

A real evening of entertainment is anticipated by members of the Eagles and Auxiliary tonight. It was announced by officials of both organizations this morning.

Following the regular business meetings a program of magic will be given commencing at 9:00 o'clock by Elmer J. Whipple and his assistants.

Social affairs sponsored by the Eagles twice a month are becoming more and more popular, and it is believed by Elmer Carr, entertainment chairman, that a large crowd will be on hand tonight in view of the double entertainment being offered.

All Eagles and members of the Auxiliary are asked to come early to attend the business meetings as many important matters are scheduled to be discussed.

WOMEN CONTRIBUTING MORE IN HOME UPKEEP

SALEM, Ore.—(UP)—The American woman is more than ever contributing to the support of the nation, said Miss Avis Lobdell, women's personal director of the Union Pacific railroad.

Of the 10,000,000 women who are now engaged in gainful employment throughout the country, approximately 80 per cent of them are supporting dependents from their earnings, Miss Lobdell said.

"Women are willing to give up their jobs if some sort of provision can be made for the care of themselves and their dependents," she said, "but until that is done they will have to work to feed themselves and those they support."

RICHARD SLEIGHT FORMER RABBI TO SELL ART WORK TALK APRIL 19-21

Richard Sleight, graduate of Medford high school and widely known in Medford for his artistic ability, received word from the Hershey Chocolate Co. that work he submitted to them had been accepted.

According to a telephone communication from San Francisco, where he has been employed for the past several months as artist for F. W. Woolworth stores.

He telephoned his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Sleight of 40 North Peach street Wednesday night of the good news, saying he had been paid $250 for one of the drawings. It was also understood that the company would accept more of his work.

Diek has done art work for several large companies since he was transferred to San Francisco, where he has a studio in the Rosenthal building, from Portland, having been first employed there by the Woolworth Co. in June, 1933.

He was editor of the Crater magazine at Medford high school, and showed outstanding ability as an artist in that work as in the commercial field.

TEST OF TALLEY BRINGS CONTRACT FOR MOVIE ROLE

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD—(AP) It was a Saturday noon and Harry Bucquet was just leaving the studio's main gate when he was halted by a message.

Marion Talley was on Stage 23, waiting for a test. Would he go over right away, because Miss Talley had only a limited time in Hollywood and besides the stage space would be needed later in the day?

Of course he would. Harry Bucquet is M-G-M's "test director." He used to be an assistant director, but for the last two years he has been making tests, and directing on his own sometimes, as now with the "Chic" Sals one-reelers.

But mostly what he does is directing tests. Marion Talley, the operatic prima donna, was waiting in the costume of Marguerite in "Faust." With her was Herbert Stothart, the studio musical director, a piano accompanist, and the usual technical crew.

There had been no time to assemble a symphony orchestra which usually helps singers brave a test. In less than four hours the Talley test was done. In that time she had been recorded and photographed singing the "Jewel" aria from "Faust" and a Victor Herbert melody.

The test brought the contract which will bring the singer back for a picture this summer. Bucquet thinks Marion Talley was unusually courageous facing the test camera for the first time.

Many players, even seasoned in films, betray nervousness on the test stage. Testing is going on, day in and day out, at all the studios. Two or three tests a day are made at M-G-M of new prospects alone.

Then there are endless tests for players to fit a role, for costumes for makeups, for wigs. So he is used to it. But candidates for roles and contracts—"The most difficult thing for them," says Bucquet, "is the mental hazard. They know they are being tried out, that success depends on what they do before the camera in those moments of testing."

I have had actors become hysterical, actresses break into tears, under the strain. The funny thing is that these same players, once they are selected, may give fine performances. Knowing they have won out gives them the confidence that would be invaluable to them during the test.

Sometimes excellence shines, through even a bad test—they knew Robert Taylor was good material, even though his test was bad. Clark Gable thought his first test was so poor he demanded a new one—but they put him in a picture, instead. They knew.

Tuna is a rich source of several valuable health elements... health elements in which American diet is sorely deficient! Everyone needs Vitamins A and D, and body building minerals such as calcium, potassium, phosphorus and iodine. The "goiter-preventative." Tuna provides every one of these nutritive food values... in plenty!

Stir tuna flakes into this, after seasoning with 1 tsp. lemon juice. Add 1 tsp. each chopped green and red pepper, and 1 tsp. chopped parsley. Lastly add 2 well beaten eggs. Steam in a buttered pan or mold 1 hour, or set in a pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven until firm. Serve with a spicy tomato sauce (made from a can of tomato soup) and at the last minute add 3 tbs. of grated onion to the sauce.

These irresistible tuna recipes merely suggest the infinite number of ways of preparing this favorite, nourishing sea food. The packers of White Star tuna have prepared an attractive booklet of "86 Proven Tuna Recipes" which every home-maker should have in her kitchen.
