NAZARENE PASTOR INAUGURATES HOLY WEEK TALK SERIES

Beginning a series of Holy week messages, Fred M. Weatherford, pastor-evangelist of the Church of the Nazarene, spoke from the topic, "Palms, salvation and Brickbats" Sunday morning in part he said: "Jesus started His triumphant procession from the city of Jericho, headed for Jerusalem. There was a great multitude of people going before and after Him in the parade. They were so elated in their praise to the King of Kings that they threw their coats down and cut off palm branches and strew them in the path of Christ, shouting Hosanna in the Highest."

A remarkable incident enroute, which transpired was the time out Jesus took to minister to a humble beggar, blind Bartimaeus. When the blind man heard that it was Jesus who was passing by, he called after Him. This is a marvelous example of acting upon the power of truth. Bartimaeus tried to hinder the blind man, but that did not stop him. He drew off his coat and started for the Christ, when the procession came to a standstill. Jesus always stops to minister, especially to the spiritual needs of man. On this event it was both spiritual and physical.

"Bartimaeus loudly cried in pleading his need. Confession always lends strength to resolution. It supplies doubt and gives assurance. It also serves to burn the bridges behind and entrenches one in his new position. "Blind Bartimaeus was a sufferer pleading for mercy, and mercy he found, at the hands of the benedict Christ, who said, 'Thy faith hath made thee whole.' "Following his healing, he joined the multitudes on their trek to the Temple City. On entering Jerusalem, the whole city was moved and they inquired of Him. The declaration of His simple gospel under the anointing brings out the same inquiry today.

"Jesus entered into the temple and found His house of prayer being desecrated, so He immediately overturned the tables of the money-changers who were using the House of God by robbing and exploiting the tourists, in their medium of exchange. "The Scribes and Pharisees took exception to the spiritual program and the overthrow of church corruption. The Scriptures declare 'they were sore.' To this day Christ only endorses the genuine, sincere efforts in the promotion of gospel truth. Mere programs do not find a place of acceptance as a substitute for gospel truth, as is evinced by the fruits of effort."

There was one profession of faith at the conclusion of the message.

LEGION AUXILIARY PRESIDENT VISITS UNIT AT ROSEBURG

Ten members of the American Legion Auxiliary, unit No. 15, of Medford attended the Southern Oregon conference at Roseburg April 15. The meeting was in honor of Mrs. Albin C. Carlson, national president.

The Roseburg veterans' hospital was visited and a luncheon meeting was held at Umpqua hotel at which Mrs. Carlson was principal speaker. Those who had the opportunity to hear Mrs. Carlson expressed the wish that every man, woman and child could have heard the forceful and inspiring address given by this patriotic leader.

Mrs. Carlson, from Willmar, Minn., was elected national president last October at the close of her third year as chairman of the organization's national child welfare committee. Since 1931 she had directed the auxiliary's vast activities for relief of needy children of world war veterans and for the improvement of conditions for all underprivileged children.

She took charge of the auxiliary's child welfare program at a time unemployment was beginning to have serious results for children in the homes of jobless veterans and other unemployed. Through three critical depression years she has led the auxiliary in its efforts to prevent children from bearing the brunt of the economic conditions by being deprived of adequate food, clothing, education and care. Under her guidance the child welfare work has gained a national reputation.

Mrs. Carlson's service work began during the world war, when she spent the entire war period in Red Cross work, taking special training in the making of surgical dressings and later instructing in this work. She served as county chairman of the Red Cross.

Besides her American Legion auxiliary and Red Cross activities, Mrs. Carlson organized the Girl Scouts in Willmar and has headed the group ever since. She served as president of the Willmar Parent-Teachers' association and is one of the board of directors of the Minnesota Crippled Children's association. She is prominent in the guild of the Episcopal church in Willmar.

Mrs. Carlson is the wife of the former mayor of Willmar. Her eligibility to a auxiliary membership comes through her brother, Grant H. Hesa, who served in the 327th Infantry, 82d division, and was wounded both at St. Mihiel and in the Meuse-Argonne.

DRY HEAD SCORES STATE RUM PLAN

CORVALLIS, April 16.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr., of Methodist Church, South, denounced Oregon's state liquor dispensary system for making all citizens partners in the liquor business, in a prohibition address here last night.

The bishop said liquor interests give the chief credit for repeal to President Roosevelt. He made the statement that the president's picture now adorns the walls of hundreds of saloons and beer parlors. Bishop Cannon predicted a return of prohibition within 10 years or less.

SCHOOL CARNIVAL CLEARS $100 FOR WASHINGTON PTA

The annual school carnival held Friday night at the Washington school, sponsored by the Washington school P. T. A. unit, was pronounced a success from both a social and financial standpoint. More than $100 was cleared, it was announced today. Tickets sold totaled 3,007.

Fifty percent of this amount, or $50, will be given to Boy Scout Troop, No. 8, sponsored by the school, to help send a member to Washington, D. C., the latter part of August, to attend the national boy scout jamboree. The rest of the money cleared will be used to carry on school activities next year.

The various attractions were well patronized and met with much approval. The minstrel show, directed by Miss Cromar; the puppet show, conducted by Eugene Bennett, assisted by Vena Hober; the dinner, under the supervision of Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Clegg, who extend thanks to those who contributed food, and the other attractions.

Margaret Wiesenberger and Austin Murray won the costume prizes. In the opinion of Mrs. Maybelle Henderson, Miss Estey Flynn and Ray Henderson, who judged the parade. Mrs. Jack Heyland, general chairman of the carnival, extended her appreciation toward the following for contributions toward the success of the affair: Chamber of Commerce, Economy Groceries, Timber Products, Western Auto Supply Co., The Mail Tribune, and the News broadcast.

Richard Seymour Has Leading Role On London Stage

"Broome Stages," a new play being produced in London, will have Richard Drake Seymour, formerly of Medford, in one of the leading roles, according to information received here from the young man, who is now in England.

During the past winter Mr. Seymour has been in New York, appearing in the stage production of "Foolish Rush In," and at the close of that play, was signed to a contract by William Brady, the well-known producer. Mr. Seymour was quite delighted at the decision to produce the play first in England, so the latter part of March he sailed on the Ile de France, in the roughest crossing in the history of the ship.

"England is lovely just now, with all the spring flowers coming out, and strangely enough, I've only seen one day of the famous fog—but I suppose I'll get lots of it later," writes Mr. Seymour.

Oregon Weather. Fair tonight and Wednesday; somewhat warmer in the interior Wednesday, but with local frosts Wednesday morning; moderate north-west wind off the coast.
