

STEIWER ACCUSES DERN OF NEGLECT WESTERN DEFENSE

No Earnest Effort to Obtain Appropriations for Columbia River Defense Is Claim of Congressman

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(AP)—A statement by Senator Steiwer, Oregon republican, that the chief reason the Columbia river area "has gone without defense is that the war department has made no earnest effort to obtain the necessary appropriations," rested today as the senator's latest word in his controversy with Secretary of War Dern over defense stations on the Columbia river and Oregon.

Steiwer made the charge yesterday in a letter to Secretary Dern. It was a reply to Dern's statement that "congress has consistently refused for years to appropriate in the army appropriations bill for such projects."

Secretary Dern then went on to say that the army chief of staff "has very comprehensive plans which would take care in a most generous way of all the suggestions you have."

Unstified with the secretary's explanation, Senator Steiwer replied that he did not know "of any act by congress in recent years which either expressly or impliedly has refused to appropriate money for the defense of the Columbia river area."

And he continued, "the chief reason that this area has gone without defense is that the war department has made no earnest effort to obtain the necessary appropriations."

Would Withhold Support "It is probably needless to add," Senator Steiwer continued, "that I do not feel justified in continuing my support for enormous appropriations for national defense when I am advised . . . that there is actually nothing in the program for the protection of this important area, which now is completely lacking in adequate defense."

Ye Poet's Corner

Spring Song.

There's a song in the air that rivals the breeze,
Of bands that play on the street,
There are echoing notes from small feathered throats—
Nature's rhythm, wild and sweet!
There are colors rare splashed here and there
That shame the skill of the hand.
The first blossoms, too, all strive to come through
To take their own gallant stand.

The warm soft rays of the sun, these days
Bring a blush to the maiden's cheek;
And the gentle breeze that stirs through the trees
Bends the grass that grows by the creek.
The rainbow trout splash gaily about
Aware of the season's change.
There's a song in my heart that seems to be part
Of this life on the open range.

There's a song in the air! There's a song everywhere!
A song that lives and breathes:
It lives in the trees, the hum of the bees,
And the sigh of the gentlest breeze.
What is this song that lives along
And takes from life its sting?
From others apart—it's a song of the heart—
The song of the coming of Spring!

TRILLIUMS.
King Winter's war with Spring is done—
She used her woman's wile and won.
White Trilliums fly gay truce—flags now
From barricades of briar and bough;
They flaunt great joy from secret bays,
From tree-root hollows and crumbled logs.
Their myriad dancing banners bring
Glad tidings: "Joe King Flees! Hail Spring!"

Spring, The Artist
Nature's springtime canvases are done
In green and gold
And blue and white, the way it is
I never have been told,
Or why she paints so hastily, unless
she fears to lose
The urge which guides her brush.
She spreads her green so rapidly, you
almost see it run
Across the fertile vales and up to greet the sun
A-top each hill. You find it flung on house-walls—
(Alright, call it vines, then, if you will!)
She sketches hard brown pathways
in, and plans to leave them so.
But green fades past the edges where
it was not meant to go,
And trickles round the boulders, and
over garden plots.
It stains hedgerows and orchards
alike with verdant spots.
Her dye-pots overturn at times, spilling
pools of gold
For daffodils and Crocuses. Blue violet unfold
Wherever drops of indigo have sunk
beneath the mold.
With blue and white she lightens up
the grey, besuggled skies,
And everywhere she splashes white,
a trail of Arbutus here,
Or Daisies dot the landscape, or
snow-drop's waxen sheen.
No tulip-pinks or poppy-reds intrude
upon the scene
As yet, for tho she knows gay hues
and keeps them close at hand,
She lays on blue and white for skies,
and green and gold for land.

Use Cereals In Preparing Tasty "Economy" Dishes

By Barbara Brooks

THE ready-to-eat cereals which we are all so familiar with as a breakfast dish are rapidly establishing an important place for themselves in American cookery as ingredients in the main dish or the dessert, for lunch or for dinner. So true is this that the knowing housewife could scarcely get along without several varieties on her pantry shelves, to be drawn upon in preparing the meat dish, a baked dessert or perhaps the vegetable piece of resistance.

One of the chief advantages of the ready-to-eat cereals is that they have proved themselves invaluable in combination with inexpensive cuts of meat, contributing to the finished dish an added and distinctive zest. The following "economy" dishes are easy to prepare and your whole family will find them delicious.

Mock Pate de Foie Gras

1 pound liver 1 cup corn flake crumbs (fine)
1/2 pound salt pork 1/4 cup milk
1 medium onion 1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 eggs (beaten) 1/2 teaspoon salt

Boil liver. Put liver, salt pork and parsley chopped fine in chopper twice. Add the eggs, corn flake crumbs, milk and seasonings. Turn into greased pudding dish. Cover or the waxed paper over the top. Steam for about three hours. Serve hot or cold. Yield: 8 servings.

Corn Flake Stuffed

Line a buttered pudding dish with corn flakes. Cover with a layer of very thinly sliced apples, sprinkle with sugar, a little cinnamon and with pieces of butter. Fill to top with alternate layers, covering with a layer of corn flakes. Cover dish closely. Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) until apples are soft. Serve with hard sauce, lemon sauce or cream.

Planked Round Steak

1 tablespoon fat 1/4 cup chopped parsley
1 tablespoon chopped onion 1/4 cup milk
2 eggs (beaten) 1/4 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt 2 cups corn flake crumbs
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce 2 slices bacon

Sauté onion in fat. Beat eggs and add remaining ingredients. Mix thoroughly. Form a flat loaf on a plank, shallow baking pan or platter. Place strips of bacon across top. Surround loaf with boiled potatoes. Bake in a hot oven (425° F.) about 40 minutes. Garnish platter with whole buttered onions and carrots in spinach nests. Yield: 10 servings.

REFRIGERATION RAMBLINGS

The sunny days of spring bring their own problems. We want to be outside from early morning to the last minute of the evening. And being outside all day develops such a ravenous appetite and leaves no time to prepare hearty meals and keep the house in nice condition! Also, the seasonal battle of food preservation begins. Throughout the winter season, just a little care will suffice, but the warmth of spring is what spoils food. Food thrives upon and we are forced to use construction methods if we wish to be thrifty and enjoy fresh, crisp springtime edibles.

Let's make a plan and stick to it throughout the warm weather, at least, whereby we may get the maximum pleasure and convenience out of our refrigerators.

First—Defrost regularly. To cut down the use of electricity and get the quickest action in cooling or freezing, the freezing compartment should have only a thin coat of frost. Whenever about one-fourth inch of frost has gathered or the coating becomes glazed, defrost. A thick coat of frost is the enemy of quick refrigeration. This frost is the result of evaporation from uncovered foods or the result of having the door open a lot, the moisture being taken from the food or the air. So, efficiency suggests that we cover our foods and open the door only when necessary.

Cleaning—Before a refrigerator is thoroughly chilled it is well to remove all shelves and pans and wash them with hot soapy water. Rinse the food compartments with warm soda water. This should be done regularly so as to keep the cabinet odorless and shining in every nook and corner.

Storage—One of the greatest conveniences of your refrigerator is safe storage. Since this quality is so valuable, surely you do not wish to waste space by filling the cabinet with carrot tops and the soiled and wilted outside leaves of lettuce, cabbage, etc. Large containers with small amounts of this kind that are wasteful of space. The only satisfactory container is one that is transparent. There are so many small jars, bottles and more standard containers on the market that there is no reason that we should use only large containers for the refrigerator. A few small ones that may set around here and there will take care of the foods and leave space for much more storage. Of course, an air space should be allowed in this food storage. Crowded shelves destroy the efficiency of the refrigerator as far as preservation of food is concerned. If too much food is crowded into the cabinet the temperature may be lowered to the extent that the temperature may rise above the safety point.

Quantity Purchasing—Special sales, usually offered over the week end, are great money savers. In fact, the upkeep of the electric refrigerator may easily be cared for in this manner—savings accumulated by quantity purchasing. There is one type of quantity

● That EXTRA flavor of Golden West is because it's Thermo Roasted. More delicious cups... to you!

Remember that a little salt or lemon juice will bring out flavors in frozen desserts and that too sweet combinations will not harden.

Ginger Ice Cream

1 can condensed milk (not evaporated milk),
1 cup water,
1/2 cup finely chopped crystallized ginger,
1 cup whipping cream.

Combine the milk and water thoroughly, add the chopped ginger and chill well. Fold in the whipped cream and freeze to a stiff mush. Remove and beat two minutes, then complete freezing.
