

Local and Personal

Back from Sacramento — D. R. Wood, manager of the Palmer corporation, returned Sunday by train from a business trip to Sacramento.

Burch Returns — Albert Burch, prominent mining engineer, returned yesterday by train from a business trip south.

At Community — Mrs. Laurel F. Barr of route 2, was admitted to the Community hospital today for medical treatment.

Guild Meet — There will be special business meeting of St. Mark's Altar Guild tonight at 7 p. m. at the Guild hall. It has been announced. The meeting is an important one. And all members are urged to attend.

New Baby at Crouch Home — A boy, weighing six pounds, six ounces, was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Crouch Saturday at the Community hospital. Mr. Crouch is head ranger at the Crater Lake national park.

Out of Hospital — Mrs. Helga Lund of the Applegate district was removed from the Community hospital last week and is now recuperating from a recent major operation, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Holmes, 527 Franquette avenue.

Visitors from Portland — Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hawkins were business visitors from Portland, stopping over in the city Saturday en route to Klamath Falls. Mr. Hawkins is a representative of the Century Brewery, with headquarters in Portland. Mrs. Hawkins will be remembered as the former Ingrid Holmes, secretary to the county court a year ago.

Fra Diavolo Rehearsal — All members of the cast of Fra Diavolo will meet for a general rehearsal tonight at 7:30 at the Guild hall. It has been announced.

Pythian Sisters to Meet — The Pythian Sisters will meet at the home of Mrs. Workman, 912 South Oakdale, at 8 o'clock on Tuesday, April 23.

Back from Portland — Misses Winifred Walker and Claudia Conatible returned this morning on the Oregonian, having spent Easter at Portland.

Sister Visitor from L. A. — Miss Ruth Shewalter, sister of Mrs. C. A. Whillcock, Jr., of 321 North Grape street is visiting at the Whillcock home here from her home in Los Angeles. While here she has been entertained with typical southern Oregon sports, such as fishing. She also has been visiting at the Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Whillcock, Sr., home on the old Central Point highway.

Spend Week-end Here — Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Gardner and daughters of Portland were among those from the Coast City spending the week-end in Medford. Mr. Gardner is owner and manager of the Braner Cereal Co. of that city and formerly operated such a factory here, having sold out to the Morton Milling Co. a few years ago. Mr. Gardner states he has enlarged his factory and now employs a large sales force in addition to the factory employees. While in the valley the Gardners also visited with friends and relatives in Ashland and Jacksonville.

Dr. D. W. Wiedman, educational coordinator for Medford CCC district was the main speaker at the regular luncheon this noon of Medford Kiwanis club held at Hotel Medford. His subject was "Vocational Training for Boys."

In the 28 camps of the Medford district there are 3600 men whom the government is training, he said. Medford is the "railhead for the 41 camps in Oregon, which will probably be increased to 60 under the expansion program. The speaker continued, pointing out the tremendous help to the community this will mean from an economic standpoint.

In the government's effort to "retrain" the CCC boys through an educational adviser in every camp, an opportunity is given all boys to pursue their studies. Dr. Wiedman said. In a report made to the corps area headquarters by the Medford district, the speaker said it was disclosed April 1 that there are 577 volunteer teachers and 517 courses open to the boys, who have read 30,515 books and completed hundreds of correspondence courses.

The club was entertained by the weekly Kiwanis quartet, composed of Max Pierce, C. C. Lemmon, Ted Gebauer and R. W. Frame. Paul Carpenter of the Bozeman, Mont., club, and connected with Oregon State college faculty, was a guest.

from the states and withhold returns to them if they refuse to yield to his dictates.

New "Tea Party" Hinted — Then, with a momentary pause while he flicked his light cream colored coat, he added: "There might be another kind of tea party. That tea party can work two ways, don't forget. "You strip the states of their sovereignty in one way, and they will strip themselves of their obligations to pay their debts in another."

Cites Louisiana How — He then cited his law passed last week in Louisiana as simply saying "to Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Ickes and Mr. Hopkins that if you want to lend to any bond in my state you must first satisfy a state advisory board that the fund is needed and will not be squandered."

He said the secretary of the interior had carried his troubles about Louisiana to the White House and after the visit "had grown almost profane in referring to my state."

Embodiment of music, romance, comedy and dancing, the film play stars Carl Brisson, handsome Danish star who made a direct hit with his first picture appearance in "Murder at the Vanities," and Mary Ellis, lovely singer of concert and musical comedy stage, in her film debut, with a supporting cast that includes Edward Everett Horton, Eugene Pallette and Katherine DeMille, among others.

"All the King's Horses" is the story of the king who lost his queen because he wore an ancestral beard and spent his time in conferences instead of at his lady's side.

The king secures a double to fill his throne and hurries off to Vienna to learn about life, love and gaiety—hoping to surprise friend wife. But while he is away, the queen returns and falls in love with the embarrassed and agitated double.

This tantalizing situation is finally ended happily with the king and queen in each other's arms, but not until there has been quite a turmoil of comedy situations, all of which makes the picture replete with lively entertainment.

Several new song numbers are introduced, including the already popular "Little White Gardenia" and "When My Prince Charming Comes Along."

A wonderful dance routine, "The Viennese," especially created for this production, proves Brisson's talents are not limited to singing and romancing, as he spins through the intricate routine with Beola of the famous team of Ramon and Beola.

ICKES LAMBASTS FANTASTIC PLANS OF DEMAGOGUES

Associated Press is a heritage to be cherished. Without mentioning names, Ickes also assailed the "share the wealth" plan of Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana and the proposal of Dr. F. E. Townsend of California to pay $200 a month to those over 60.

"Personally," he said, "I happen to be a man of strong convictions. Certain beliefs are obnoxious to me. I despise the demagogue who hurls his voice through the pure air to advocate false doctrines, the acceptance of which by a majority of the people would destroy this America that I love."

"I have nothing but contempt for the man of crooked intellect who deliberately sets out to fool the under privileged, who, during these last few years, have been having an especially tragic time of it, by holding out to them the hope that as a result of some fantastic 'share the wealth' scheme every man, woman and child is to have thrust into his hands the sum of $5,000 which is to come from God knows where."

"To inspire hopes that can never be realized in those who dwell in physical misery and mental despair is a base and loathsome thing. It is despisable beyond my powers of description."

"Or, take the impractical visionary, as distinguished from the ranting demagogue, the dwellers wherein, upon attaining the age of 60 are to be paid in spot cash, again from what source God only knows, the sum of two hundred dollars a month."

"And then there is the other voice of the cloistered individual whose rich but undisciplined imagination has reduced politics, sociology and banking to charming poetry which he distills mellifluously into the ether for the entertainment of mankind."

George Arliss is Hit In Craterian Film Now Showing

George Arliss has added another striking portrait to his remarkable gallery of film characterizations of great men, in his new picture "The Iron Duke," which opened yesterday at the Craterian theatre.

Wellington, the victor of Waterloo, and Wellington, the statesman, has been brought to life by Mr. Arliss in this typically finished Arliss production of Britain's great hero.

Opening on the eve of the battle of Waterloo, "The Iron Duke" has three sequences which will stand out in memory. The first is a reproduction of the Duchess of Richmond's ball, on the eve of Waterloo, from which the officers stole out one by one to rejoin their regiments and march straight to battle.

The second is the charge of the Scots Greys and Highlanders at the battle itself. The third pictures Wellington's speech in the House of Lords in which, defending himself against Lord Grey's complaint that England received no indemnities, he declares that, in seeking his pound of flesh, England would have "plunged a knife in the heart of Europe."

Each of these scenes is magnificently presented; their scale is immense, the action vivid, and costumes give them a romantic glamour. They are linked by many other scenes which give a striking picture of the conflicting dynastic and national claims which Wellington had to fight, in conferences and in private council, in his endeavor to prevent the Bourbon host for revenge from destroying his hopes of a lasting peace.

There is, throughout the entire picture, the typical Arliss touch that includes his sly humor and intense dramatic ability. And after all, the Arliss touch is individual, to say the least, and certainly if for nothing else, that alone is well worth the admission.

BONES OF MISSING GIRL DISCOVERED IN HAUNTED HOUSE

When, disappeared March 16 while a patient in Zimmetry's home.

Breaking into Zimmetry's place April 3, police found 17-year-old Elsie Miller of Rising Sun, Md., writhing in pain after three operations. The girl, whose mother was at her bedside, was rushed to a Lancaster hospital and is recovering.

Zimmetry is in the Lancaster county jail, held in $10,000 bail on charges of performing illegal operations and dealing in narcotics.

Miseller announced the investigators came upon the bones in ash piles in the dusty cellar and in dark nooks and crannies about the house, the unused modern tile garage and the barn.

Doctor Retiecut. Zimmetry, 61-year-old country doctor, whose eerie home struck fear into the hearts of the country people, ascertained he took Mrs. Lawson to Lancaster on March 19.

He and his handy man, Richard Parker, also held on a narcotic charge, persistently declined to answer further questions.

Investigators checked the story of Blanche Stone, Dr. Zimmetry's "nurse" who said she heard Mrs. Lawson crying and hearing at midnight, March 15, heard the doctor go up to her room and "then it got quiet."

Her statement that Zimmetry came downstairs and remarked, "Well, she's gone under," furnished another link. But Miss Stone says she went away from the house that day and did not return for several days. When she came back, Mrs. Lawson was gone.

Mrs. Lawson's clothes were found on a blood-stained bed.

Officers who arrested Zimmetry said they found he had served a prison term for illegal operations in 1919.

KINGFISH HINTS STATE MAY QUIT PAYING U. S. TAX

from the states and withhold returns to them if they refuse to yield to his dictates.

New "Tea Party" Hinted — Then, with a momentary pause while he flicked his light cream colored coat, he added: "There might be another kind of tea party. That tea party can work two ways, don't forget.

"You strip the states of their sovereignty in one way, and they will strip themselves of their obligations to pay their debts in another."

Cut short in his speech by a limitation of debate on the $1,000,000,000 farm tenant bill, the Kingfisher hinted for more time but Senator Pittman, presiding, did not yield.

Before taking his seat, however, he loudly denounced the administration of relief and public works, shouting: "No realm of rottenness and corruption can be saddled onto my state."

Cites Louisiana How — He then cited his law passed last week in Louisiana as simply saying "to Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Ickes and Mr. Hopkins that if you want to lend to any bond in my state you must first satisfy a state advisory board that the fund is needed and will not be squandered."

"That it's been squandered in the past. They could go down there and spend the whole $5,000,000,000 and not win the election."

"Louisiana has been the recipient of many disasters," Long said, naming floods and later the dust from the west. But the action of Hopkins and Ickes, he said, was "a new event."

Long started his attack with the remark that he had read of a statement from Hopkins to the Louisiana relief administration directing that "some things be done, and other things be not done," and had heard things of Ickes "telling of dire distress which he was about to visit on the state."

Damnation Threatened — He said the secretary of the interior had carried his troubles about Louisiana to the White House and after the visit "had grown almost profane in referring to my state."

"I think the locusts which threatened us for seven years," he said, "are now threatened with eternal damnation."

Technically Long was speaking on the $1,000,000,000 Bankhead farm tenant bill, and under an agreement reached last Friday to limit debate. He agreed to speak "only 40 minutes at this time."

He amused the galleries with references to various administration figures and "their royal prerogatives."

Postmaster General James Aloysius Farley—"Long always stressed the second name—was described as the "prime minister," Ickes as "lord high chamberlain" as well as "the chinch bug of Chicago," and Wallace as "the ignoramus of Iowa."

He even found a new title for Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA administrator, by recalling that the one time army officer had "now come to Okla. to live" under the title of "Hugh Sitting Bull Johnson, the Loh Pulkash of Oklahoma."

Several new song numbers are introduced, including the already popular "Little White Gardenia" and "When My Prince Charming Comes Along."

A wonderful dance routine, "The Viennese," especially created for this production, proves Brisson's talents are not limited to singing and romancing, as he spins through the intricate routine with Beola of the famous team of Ramon and Beola.
