

PONTIFF PROTESTS NAZIS' TREATMENT YOUNG CATHOLICS

VATICAN CITY, May 7.—(AP)—Pope Pius yesterday voiced strong protest against Nazi Germany's treatment of 2000 young Catholics who returned to their fatherland after an Easter pilgrimage to Rome.

The pontiff's protest came in the course of an address to 150 other German pilgrims.

He expressed the hope that they would receive "better treatment" than their youthful predecessors.

(The official Observatore Romano last week printed reports from Germany that the 2000 German Catholics returning to their native land were treated as political suspects, subjected to close questioning, stripped of their mementoes of Rome and held for a time in a concentration camp.)

His voice resonant, the Pope said: "They wish in the name of so-called positive Christianity to dechristianize Germany, and they wish to conduct the country back to barbaric paganism, and nothing is left undone to disturb Christian and Catholic life."

"We hope," his holiness adjured the listening Germans, "that upon your return to your country you will be treated better than those pious and splendid young (men), devoted and faithful to the church and to their country, who not long ago came to see me, their spiritual father."

"We remember them and speak to them with the honor due them from the Catholic and the civilized world."

Al. G. Barnes Circus On It's Way Here

DIXIE WHITTAKER AND RUTH

The circus is coming! The famous Al. G. Barnes Wild Animal Circus, one of the world's largest amusement enterprises, will exhibit in Medford, Saturday, May 18, tents near Jackson school.

More than 200 acts representing the best circus talent in the world will be seen with the big show this season. As a prelude to the circus proper, the management announces that "The Fiesta of the Rio Grande" will be given. This amazing presentation is made up of practically everyone with the circus. There are scores upon scores of men, women, horses, and other animals, beautifully costumed, in the arena for this opening spectacle, and all who love fairy lore, far exceeding in magnificence, brilliancy, gorgeousness and beauty anything that has ever been presented by this circus, will not be disappointed. There will be scores of dancing girls, many trained singers, the enlarged military band under the direction of Prof. Charles Redrick, and still this great production is but one of the many features carried with the Al. G. Barnes Circus this year.

The Dazzling Burbanks, The Canastota Family, The Bennett Family, Family, Mabel Stark and her tigers, Captain Terrell Jacobs and his lions, and elephants are numbered among the many and Walter McLean and his four great headliners with the show this year.

The clean, businesslike methods and the magnitude of this great organization, traveling on its special rail road trains have always made the Al. G. Barnes Circus welcome visitors in this community.

There will be two performances given, at 2 p. m. and 8 p. m., with the door opening an hour earlier to allow visitors to view the great zoo that is carried this year.

THREE PIONEERS DIE IN ASHLAND

Southern Oregon lost three of her beloved pioneers last week, when the grim reaper stalked through Ashland, taking Mrs. Julius Koch, 72, Mrs. Lottie Hash, 74, and William L. Johnson, 97.

William Johnson came to Oregon in 1860, settling near what is now the town of Talent. He had lived in southern Oregon since. Of his six children, four are now living. Those living are Mrs. W. M. Howard of this city, W. O. Johnson, Merrill, Ore., and Misses Rita and Effie Johnson of Ashland. He died at Ashland Friday.

Lottie Hash moved with her family to Ashland to live in 1893, and has lived there continually since. She died Sunday morning.

Mrs. Julius Koch was born in County Tyrone, Ireland. In 1868 she came to southern Oregon in 1865, having lived in Ashland since 1921. She died Saturday.

Education Class Plans Map Drill

The emergency education class which meets tonight at 7:15 in room 4 of the senior high school will continue study of the American Indian. Map drill will be on the United States. Frank Geddis will present an interesting story of the derivation of present state names from Indian origins. Pupils whose maps were exhibited in Portland at the O. S. T. A. convention last December are requested to bring them so that they may be exhibited at the emergency education program and exhibit next week. Work on the booklets is progressing and it is planned to have them completed by that time also.

The emergency education classes are all free and visitors are welcome.

DIPHTHERIA OFTEN HAS COMPLICATION

R. E. Green, M. D., issued a statement today as his contribution to the combined opinion of Medford physicians regarding immunization from diphtheria. His statement, dealing with results of the complications arising from diphtheria, and made as part of the observance of child health week, follows:

"The complications of diphtheria are not usually observed involving the heart, kidneys or the nerves. The renal complications usually occur early in the disease and consist of inflammatory conditions that are ordinarily not serious, though may sometimes lead to fatal results.

"The heart complications appear later as a weakness of the heart muscle; these are the most dangerous of all. The nerve complications appear last of all as palsies of varying severity of many parts of the body; they are only occasionally dangerous to life, complete recovery being the rule."

CHORUS OF OPERA SHARES IN CREDIT

No small share of credit will be due the chorus for the success of the opera Fra Diavolo at the Craterian on Wednesday. All members are trained singers and most of the names on the roster are familiar to Medford people as soloists who have been favorably received many times. It speaks well for the harmony and co-operation of the cast that this group has worked so faithfully and unselfishly towards the success of the show, submerging individuality in the creation of a balanced ensemble.

The chorus is the foundation, the background, and the atmosphere of opera, upon its precision and performance rests the success or failure of a production regardless of the ability or brilliance of the principals from the first rousing number at the rise of the curtain to the smothering finale as the curtain descends. The ensemble numbers in Fra Diavolo are sure to call forth from the audience rounds of appreciative applause. It can be added that the chorus in looks is just as attractive as its singing which is high praise for its appearance.

FEED, BEER WITH ELKS' FIGHT CARD

Ernest Scott, secretary of Medford Elks lodge, announced today that in conjunction with the CCC smoker at the Elks temple Thursday night there will be a feed and beer. Although there will be a small charge to defray expenses of bringing the CCC fighters to Medford, those in charge promise that the card will be well worth the price of admission, and the largest crowd of the year is expected. The main event, for which the fight committees has been angling for some time, is drawing considerable interest and will be a fast bout.

GIRL KILLED IN COQUILLE CRASH

MARSHFIELD, May 7.—(AP)—Allen Richards, 17, of Englewood, was fatally injured last night in an automobile accident at Coquille.

A report to police here said the automobile driven by Preston Packwood of Marshfield, swerved into a bridge rail at a highway curve south of town, and that the girl fell against the door and halfway out of the car, and was dragged against the bridge rail. She died 30 minutes later in the Coquille hospital.

TWO DEAD IN FAMILY ROW OVER BASEBALL

ABERDEEN, Wash., May 7.—(AP)—Two men were dead here today because one insisted the other should not play baseball.

Peter Voss, 50, ambushed his stepson, Antone Masako, 21, at the home, slugging him over the head with a club as he returned from a twilight league game. Masako died at midnight from a fractured skull.

A half hour later Voss was found dead, a bullet through his head.

SEATTLE TO PLAY DUCKS THIS WEEK

If Bill Klepper's Seattle ball club doesn't start climbing up from the nether regions pretty soon, it isn't going to be for lack of practice. The Indians manager still believes in the good, old-fashioned idea of practice makes perfect, so he didn't give his men a rest yesterday after all.

FOUR-HORSE TEAMS CREATE EXCITEMENT ON DALLES STREETS

THE DALLES, May 7.—(AP)—The appearance of the first automobile here more than 25 years ago created but little more interest along Main street than did the passing of two-four-horse teams, each drawing a great wagon and trailer. On the harness of the lead team were little bells which tinkled melodiously as the proud percheros, curveting a bit, passed in review.

The horses were drawing fir poles, cut from the Mount Hood National forest on Mount Hood flats south of here. The poles were being taken to the Floyd Daniels cattle ranch in the fifteen-mile district, to be used in building cattle branding corrals.

Pioneers who saw the passing cavalcade recalled that in former years, when The Dalles was the assembling point for wheat and wool from the inland empire, brought here to be shipped to Portland by river steamers, scores of such teams might be seen at once on the city's streets.

Salem To Vote On Refunding Bonds

SALEM, May 7.—(AP)—The Salem city council last night set June 30 as the date for a special city election, at which time the voters will be asked to approve the issuance of $185,000 in general obligation bonds for the funding of general fund warrants of the city. A second issue of $22,000 for materials and costs in connection with storm sewer work will be proposed at the election.

SPORT SLANTS

The business of "smoking up" a heavyweight match for the world's boxing championship is under way. If you care to get a bit of free publicity here's your chance—kick in with your bid to stage it just as every promoter in this broad land is doing. Foreign and domestic promoters and "would-be promoters" bid in outlandish figures with hopes of staging the bout, but willing to lend their names to help keep the proposed fight on the sports pages in return for a bit of free advertising.

As for the bout itself—the principals, the promoter, and the scene of action, that's all pretty well settled by this time. Champion Max Baer will defend his title in June against James J. Braddock—and the Madison Square Garden folks will stage it in the Long Island City bowl. Max Baer and his manager, Ancel

Hoffman, ridiculed the proposed match with Braddock when the New York commission first named the Jersey thumper for the position of No. 1 challenger. Braddock, in Baer's opinion, lacked the appeal to make the bout financially worth while.

They about face.

Once they were convinced that it must be Braddock or no one this June, Baer and Hoffman changed their tack and instead of running down Braddock have turned to singing the praises of James J.'s devastating right hand punch.

Perhaps it was the word of fatherly advice Jack Dempsey whispered into the ear of the clowning Max that made the champion see the error of his ways and convinced him that the way to build up the gate was to "build up" one's opponent.

At any rate just when Braddock was all set to publicly call Max to account for his belittling remarks the champion did the unexpected, as he generally does, and tossed verbal bouquets at his opponent to be.

The remarkable comeback of Braddock is one of the most amazing in ring history. Less than a year ago he was consigned to the flinty scrap heap. Promoters turned a deaf ear to his pleas for a ring opportunity to earn the necessities for his brood of three youngsters.

Will History Repeat?
Out of the ring for nine months he finally was granted a chance in one of the preliminary bouts in the Corera-Baer championship card last June. Braddock came through by knocking out the highly touted Corn Griffin and followed that success up with victories over John Henry Lewis and Art Lasky.

All of which brought him up to the point where he shares the position of leading challenger with Max Schmeling. Since Schmeling cannot, because of previous engagements, come over here to meet Baer in June, the way is paved for Braddock.

When Jack Dempsey pounded George Carpenter to the canvas at Boyle's Thirty Acres, one of the bouts preliminary to the championship event, showed a youngster named Gene Tunney in a winning effort against one Sailor Burke. You know well enough what this same Gene Tunney did to Dempsey when they met a few years later.

I'm not hinting that Braddock will lift Max Baer's crown but merely suggesting that history has been known to repeat itself.
