Non-Stop Flight From Mexico to Newark Ended at 9:28 P. M.—Crowd at Port Worst of Troubles

NEW YORK, May 9.—(AP)—Refreshed from a long sleep and a "nice" breakfast, Amelia Earhart stayed in her hotel suite today and discussed briefly her non-stop flight from Mexico, D. F., to Newark, N. J.

It was an unexciting trip, she said, and she experienced her "most disquieting moment" during the mile and one-half takeoff yesterday in the rarified atmosphere of the Mexican airport. The port is 7000 feet above sea level.

"Otherwise," said the aviatrix, "the trip was uneventful but enjoyable."

In the 14 hours of the flight which had carried her across the Atlantic and from Hawaii to California touched its wheels to the brightly lighted field at 9:28:50 p. m., eastern standard time, 14 hours, 22 minutes and 50 seconds after the take-off.

Police lines meant nothing to the crowd. The spectators swarmed about the plane and Miss Earhart had to abandon it to sturdier guardians.

With police cars for opening wedges, the flier slowly made her way to a hangar. Almost there, she met her husband, George Palmer Putnam, who reached her side only after prolonged football tactics by a bluecoat escort.

Husband Iked. "Mexico is more civilized than Newark," exclaimed the publisher. Miss Earhart appeared to enjoy the excitement, although she later described it as the hardest part of the trip.

She disclosed she had found the Gulf of Mexico covered by a great layer of clouds. This she escaped by soaring to 9000 feet, only to find another great range of cloud mountains built up ahead. And for more than 100 miles she flew with clouds both above and below her.

She had headwinds at first, then tailwinds, the flier said. She averaged 151 miles an hour, flying slowly enough to conserve fuel and arriving with a little left in her tanks.

The president, Dorothy Burgess, thanked the girls for their co-operation during the year.

MOTHERS, DAUGHTERS GROWING

Girls are often suffering from female irregularities. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the vegetable tonic to give your daughters at such times. Hear what Mrs. L. S. Romberger of 2718 State St., Everett, Wash., said: "When I was a young girl I took cold from going in swimming which caused female trouble. My system became very weak. I lost weight and strength and was thin and pale, but my appetite and health improved while taking the first bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I took four bottles and enjoyed good health again and have always been well ever since."

Roosevelt is going back to Hyde Park to attend the cows. The official explanation seems to be true as far as it goes. James has not been in good health and the estate needs managing.

The favored supplemental guess, however, is that his business activities were embarrassing to the White House. No relative of a president can be in business without causing embarrassment. No matter how independently a presidential son may conduct his business affairs, competitors, enemies and even friends are bound to assume that he has power and pull behind their reach.

The mere existence of such a situation usually causes a flood of sneaky stories which cannot be effectively answered or denied.

Withdrawal of James also is another indication that the administration is caulking the seams for the next campaign.

President Roosevelt first made known his attitude on the bonus in April, 1932. In an interview with James J. Montague, of the North American Newspaper Alliance, the president then said:

"I don't see how, as a matter of practical sense, a government running behind two billion dollars annually can consider the anticipation of bonus payments until it has a balanced budget, not only on paper, but with a surplus of cash in the treasury."

But in that same interview, Mr. Roosevelt also said budget deficits should not be permitted to continue for more than one year.

The final bonus law will contain a clause reimbursing pensioners for world war veterans, but no veteran needs to take that too seriously. Ten years ago the Legion was against a bonus. Ten years from now there will be a pension system.

TICKETS ON SALE FOR ANNUAL PLAY BY SENIOR CLASS

Announcement of an extensive ticket sale campaign for the Medford Senior high school Senior class play, "Clarence," was released this morning by the central office of the school.

May 15 has been set for the annual production.

Each of the 169 graduating seniors will have two tickets for sale with a standard general admission price and no reserved seats.

When the curtain goes up on next Wednesday in the local high school auditorium it will mean the completion of five weeks of rehearsals and elaborate preparations. Ten attendant actors and actresses will parade before the footlights in Booth Tarkington's "Clarence," a humorous gem that has pleased audiences for the past fifteen years.

An unusually brilliant cast has been selected by Rex E. Robinson and Robert Murphy, coaches of the production. With equally distributed lines, there is but one lead, played by Dolph Jones, a natural in the acting field.

Lucien Smith portrays Bobby, a youngster of some seventeen years, who brings many laughs throughout the play.

Verne Campbell, better known to his fellow performers as Mr. Wheeler, a tired business man, turns in a stellar performance in this role.

Betty Thorndike, as Cora, shows the decided ability gained in her three years of high school dramatics.

Donald Gray, Dinwiddie, the portly butler, clicks in this staid and stern role. Betty Vilm, Betty Dyan, Bob Young, Patricia Young, and Percy Drury also have principal roles.

A reduction in admission price will be given to holders of the Associated student body cards.

The liberals have been secretly afraid all along that Justice Roberts would desert them. They regarded the labor decision as the first confirmation of their fears.

NRA officials now privately confess their organization is in a state of "progressive paralysis," but it continues to take on new workers. Six were added in the last two weeks.

Over four hundred children from the fourth, fifth and sixth grades of the Medford elementary schools will present a program of songs and folk dances in the high school gymnasium Friday at 7:30 p. m.

The program will be divided into groups of songs sung by the combined grades and special numbers from each of the four elementary schools. A special feature of two original melodies composed by children in the chorus will be presented.

Children singing in the chorus have been trained by Miss Eleanor Curry, Roosevelt; Mrs. Eunice Smith, Lincoln; Miss Alice Cromar, Washington; and Miss Gertrude Ahlstrom, Jackson, and Mrs. Esther Leake, music supervisor. The combined choruses will be directed by Mrs. Leake and the special numbers by the music teachers of the respective schools.

There is no admission and the public is very cordially invited.

GRANTS PASS COACHES WILL SHARE EFFORTS

In view of the interest in the coaching position in Medford high school, the new system just devised by the Grants Pass school is receiving much comment here. The system provides for three coaches. The football coach is Loren Tuttle, will be assisted by track coach L. L. Dea, and basketball coach Frank Beer. In turn, Tuttle and Dea will assist Beer with his basketball work, and the football and basketball mentors will return the courtesy to Dea by helping him with track.

In former years, each man carried his own sport duties without assistance. This year greater efficiency is expected, with the result that more boys will be able to turn out and receive proper attention.

ANNA MAE FUSON LADY CHAMPION AT ROGUE LINKS

Anna Mae Fuson, holder of the women's southern Oregon golf championship, added another laurel to the wreath yesterday by defeating Mrs. D. R. Wood, 3 to 2, for the 1935 women's Rogue Valley club title.

It was a grind all the way and Miss Fuson was one down at the end of the first 18 of the 36-hole tournament, but she out-pitted her opponent, and was able to win the match play tourney on the 16th in the afternoon rounds. Mrs. Wood equalled all of the winner's drives and the two were on an even basis in their approach shots, but Miss Fuson dropped several long shots on the green that gave her an edge.

The card showed Miss Fuson's scores as 49-46-55 for the morning rounds and 46 for the completed nine in the afternoon, as compared to Mrs. Wood's 48-48-53 in the morning rounds and 48 for the completed nine in the afternoon.

In the semi-finals, Miss Fuson defeated Mrs. E. C. Jerome, 4 and 3, and Mrs. Wood eliminated Mrs. J. C. Thompson, 1 up.

Mrs. W. S. Thurlow was winner of the first flight, by virtue of her defeat over Mrs. Leland Clark, 3 and 1, in a nip-and-tuck match.

Mrs. Thurlow previously defeated Mrs. Larry Schade, 2 and 1, and Mrs. Clark eliminated Mrs. J. H. Fletcher, 4 and 3, in the semi-finals of this flight.

The consolation flight went to Mrs. E. F. Coleman, who defeated Mrs. Mark Miller, 3 and 1.

Besides these events the regular match play against par tournament for women was held yesterday, resulting in the A division, in a three-way tie between Miss Fuson, Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Jerome. Mrs. Fletcher was winner of the B division and Mrs. Miller was winner of the C division.

TAYLOR'S RIGHT IN LEGISLATURE MAY BE HIT BY RULING

The ruling further holds that it matters not a whit whether the office pays nothing much but honor.

The ruling affected seven Democratic legislators, and no harm to state or Jackson county Bourbon councils.

The position of Taylor as yet has not reached the attention of up-state political chiefs, but it probably will soon, as wheelhorses of Democracy in these parts were quick to see the possibilities of applying the attorney-general's finding to a Republican, and the only one in the state so far revealed as "doubling-in-brass." Local Democrats speak highly of Taylor's ability, but argue "what is sauce for the goose, is sauce for the gander."

They also feel that inasmuch as the county court has a majority of Republicans, they would probably appoint another Republican. A young Democratic leader said: "Taylor is a good Republican, and we would rather have him than anybody the court would appoint."

"I have not closely read the ruling of the attorney-general," Mr. Taylor said this morning. "I held the position of deputy federal court clerk, before I was elected to the legislature. It is my understanding that the ruling does not apply to me, but only legislators who accepted the positions after they were elected to the legislature. I do not come under that classification."

SAVOLDI'S KICKS FLATTEN GINSBERG

PORTLAND, Ore., May 8.—(AP)—Flying drop kicks brought Joe Savoldi, 203, Three Oaks, Mich., the lone fall in a one hour wrestling bout here last night with Baron Benny Ginsberg, 220, New York.

Another former grisman made good when Casey Kasanjian, 216, San Francisco, gained two of three falls from Casey Colombo, 215, Santa Monica, Cal.

Rights to the chin featured the victory of Frank Speers, 225, Atlanta, Ga., over Harry Demetral, 212, Chicago, Jack Nickerson, 210, Spokane, gained a fall from Jim Healy, 208, San Francisco, with an inverted body slam.
