Optometrists Meet—The Southern District of the Oregon Optometric Association met in the office of Dr. Robert E. Lee, Wednesday evening.

First real pitching highlight of the new season fell to the credit of Darrell (Cy) Blanton of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the former International league strikeout king from Maurice, Okla., set the world championship Cardinals down with one hit, a dinky single in his second inning as a major leaguer. Blanton was last to be charged with the loss of one game.

National league slugers were included to make light of the Pirates' rookie's minor league strikeout record. They pointed out that his record of 20 whiffs in one game, made while pitching in Albany against Syracuse, was not to be taken seriously because it was made in a night game.

As for his great effort against the Cardinals—just a flash in the pan. Blanton must have to do more than that to prove he is not merely one of those "morning glories" that so often bloom in the spring.

Adds Two More Wins—Cy wasn't long in coming through with more evidence that ought to be convincing. The second time out he beat Cincinnati with six hits and to make it more interesting he fanned a grand total of 11 Red batters in turning the trick. He secured his third victory by beating "Dizzy" Dean and the Cardinals, 3 to 2.

Blanton isn't likely to approach the mark of 165 strikeouts he reared up last season in the International league but he is off to a fine start with 22 in three games.

The one big drawback in the case of a youngster coming up in the big show with a reputation for throwing fast ones just batters is that they are likely to break their own backs trying to do the same thing against the major league brand of batting. It would be better, perhaps, to forget the strikeout entirely and concentrate on the help of his fielders instead of trying to do the job by himself.

It's a grand feeling to have an ace in the hole in the form of a fast one that can be poured in when the spot demands it but bearing down continually will sap the strength of the most powerful arm in the game.

Tamulis Tantalizes A's—Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yankees was elated with the form his burly left-handed rookie, Vito Tamulis, flashed in beating the Athletics in his first start of the season. For his first two major league mound efforts Tamulis boasts a pair of victories, both over the Athletics. He defeated Connie Mack's crew in the only game he pitched for the Yankees last September.

The chunky rookie gave the Athletics eight hits and two runs in scoring his recent victory but the umpire's ruling was that he stopped Jimmy Pox after the slugging catcher had hit safely in the first eight games of the season.

The White Sox' freshman, John Whitehead, beat the Detroit Tigers 3-2 with the veteran Fred Marberry as his mound opponent.

Eldon Walkup of the Browns and Lieber of the Athletics have saved games for their teams and give promise of proving valuable in the present campaign.

Ducks Flooded Land—SPOKANE, Wash.—(UP)—Maurice Alquist, Walla Walla farmer, appealed to the State Game Commission for quick relief. He complained that ducks alighted on an irrigation stream near his farm, such numbers that they caused it to overflow and flood his land.

Pop Bottle Out Gunmen—BELLAIR, O.—(UP)—Pop bottles are just as effective weapons as firearms, believe Octavio Brescia, a grocer, when two armed men attempted to hold him up. Brescia dished up two pop bottles and lifted both men.

CCC MEN TO AID IN KEEPING SOIL FROM FLYING OFF

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(AP)—Allocation of 305 Civilian Conservation Corps camps among the states for work in the government's campaign against soil erosion by wind and rain was announced today by Robert F. Peckner, director of emergency conservation work.

Approximately one-fourth of the camps will be in the seven plain states most severely hit by dust storm; the remainder will be distributed throughout the country in areas where soil impoverishment due to erosion action by rain is a major agricultural problem.

Locations of the new soil erosion camps in some states were announced as follows: Oregon—(7)—Umatilla, Morrow, Sherman, Malheur, Wasco, Gillman, and Clatsop counties.

Idaho—(6)—Kootenai, Nez Perce, Gem, (2); Bannock counties.

Washington—(6)—Columbia, Walla Walla, Garfield, Yakima, Chelan and Klickitat counties.

'4-SPEED' SCOPE WILL SEARCH OUT SECRETS OF SUNS

PASADENA, Calif.—(UP)—"Astrosun" telescope, is being assembled at the California Institute of Technology.

It will magnify the sun's red disk in assorted sizes, big as a washbowl or small as a saucer, each degree of magnification being suited to a particular kind of sun study. Scientists hope to have it ready to train on the sun during the approaching period of frequent sun-spots, an 11-year occurrence.

At its maximum magnification, enlarging the sun to 22 inches, the telescope will be the world's most powerful of its type. Other sizes available will be 12, 7 1/2, and 4 inches.

Magnified large, the image of the sun grows correspondingly dimmer. Dr. John A. Anderson, in charge of the telescope project, explained. For certain observations of the gaseous vapors billowing up from the sun, a bright though small image is desired.

Unlike the 100-inch Mt. Wilson telescope and other instruments for star watching, the sun telescope will not be swung on a great swivel to keep pointed at its moving target. The four-story long tube, reaching from sub-basement to roof of a laboratory building, will be stationary, while a revolving mirror at the top follows the sun, keeping an image of it flashing into the telescope mouth.

Deep inside the telescope, a 26-inch concave mirror will catch the reflected and shoot it back, greatly magnified, to one of a battery of four interchangeable mirrors. These mirrors give the instrument its "4-speed" feature. Which one of the four is used to give the beam of light its final jump, determines the size the sun shall take when shunted down into the darkened sub-basement and flashed on a screen before the astronomer's eyes.

EX-MAYOR JONES IS ALSO FAVORED FOR LIBERATION

both application were deferred. An order was then issued prohibiting Fehl from applying for freedom for a six months period. Petitions, signed by hundreds of Jackson county residents, were filed with the parole board last winter, protesting against a parole for Fehl, except with the proviso he be prohibited from returning to this county during its duration.

Petitions signed by residents of Del Norte county, Calif., and the town of Rogue River and environs, were presented asked for a parole for Jones. He was the subject of the ballot that defendants to be convicted. Evidence in the trial showed that Jones was the "signal man" of the burglar and stood guard at the southwest corner of the courthouse, during its perpetration, with a hammer up his sleeve. Jones was also an "alibi witness" for L. A. Banks during his trial for murder, at Eugene.

Final word on the paroles rests with Governor Martin.

T. B. TEST CONVICT WILL BE EVANGEL

CANON CITY, Colo., May 10.—(AP)—Harry Rose, life-term convict, who was freed while his body served as a testing ground for a anti-tubercular serum, has decided to become an evangelist.

Rose is the third convict subjected to the tests, which are carried out by many observers as indicating the serum is a success, although Denver physicians who developed it have declined to comment on the results. Parole papers were en route here today for Rose's release and he soon will be as free as the other two life-term convicts who also completed the tests without apparent impairment to their health.

CANNON SALUTE BYRD ON RETURN

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(AP)—Guns boomed a salute to the Byrd expeditionary force this afternoon as the Bear of Oakland steamed up the Anacostia river to the Washington navy yard for a welcome by President Roosevelt.

The salute was 13 guns in honor of Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd. Hundreds of admirers gathered at the navy yard. Members of the Byrd family were on the deck of the president's yacht Sequoia waiting for the return of the Admiral.

Coming Sunday

Great in that flying picture of the Navy, "Hell Divers," Beery is even greater in "West Point of the Air." The reason undoubtedly lies in the story; the great interest that revolves around this old aviator and his somewhat wild-headed aviator son, Robert Young.

Two girls, Maureen O'Sullivan and Rosalind Russell, are both up in the plot message, and both do pleasant jobs, as does Young. Less Stone is a highly capable General Carter, and James Gleason turns in a splendid comedy performance.

"Cimarron" Back For Rialto Show

One of the greatest motion pictures ever produced, "Cimarron," Edna Ferber's gigantic epic of America in the making, is back at the Rialto theatre for today and Saturday, taking its place among the screen immortals even after four years of screen progress.

Richard Dix and Irene Dunne head the cast of thousands in what are undoubtedly the finest characterizations of their careers. Edna May Oliver, Estelle Taylor, George E. Stone and William Collier, Jr. are a few of the featured players.

R. E. Blanton of Marion, N. C., has a collection of guns that ranges from pre-Revolutionary flint locks to weapons used in the World war.

A distinguished supporting cast includes Sir Cedric Belfrage, Rochelle Hudson, Frances Drake and John Lee O'Sullivan.

Wallace Beery in Air Drama Now on Craterian Screen

"West Point of the Air," which opened last night at the Craterian theatre, fulfills two purposes excellently.

It is a splendid war, human vehicle for Wallace Beery, whose popularity was amply attested by an enthusiastic crowd.

Secondly, a strong dramatic story is played out against a new background, a background which few Americans know anything about, a background of utmost importance to the future of the United States.

Beery, as a grizzled old aviator sergeant, bridges the gap between the army air days of rickety "crates" or "flying coffins," as they were playfully called, to the ultra-efficient air arm of today. He does even better than his usual job. This extra magnet of excellence is undoubtedly due to the fact that aviation is Beery's great hobby. He is the most experienced pilot in acting circles, the only actor in fact, who holds a transport pilot's license.
