BETTY COBURN LEADS McLEOD QUEEN RACE McLEOD, May 14.-(Sp.)-The contest for queen of the McLeod Strawberry Festival now being conducted by the home extension ladies resulted in a heavy vote during the past week.

Real fever-heat campaigning and voting is expected during the next few weeks, as many votes are believed to be held in reserve to spring as a surprise on the leader.

All voters are expected to be present at the pageant when the elected queen will be crowned some time in June, at which time a royal feast of strawberries, for which this district is justly famous, will be served to all who have participated in the contest.

The standing of candidates on May 13, date of last counting, was as follows: Betty Coburn 226 Evelyn Ditaworth 134 Carlton Twiss 102 Regina Smith 91 Helen Robertson 25 Dorothy McIntyre 18

Sams Valley

SAMS VALLEY, May 14.-(Sp.)-Miss Erma May returned to her school duties Monday, after recovering from a threatened attack of pneumonia. Miss Grace Bigman substituted during Miss May's absence from the primary room.

Ladies' club will meet Wednesday instead of Thursday this week for the convenience of those interested in the commencement exercises on Thursday evening. The meeting will be held at the school house, where T. Wilson will act as the hostess. Mrs. Spurlin has won the consent of Mr. Wright, the well-known poultry specialist, to be present and give some helpful information on poultry raising.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Straus, who formerly resided in the Wynark house, are now located on the Hughes place. Baccalaureate services for Sams Valley high school graduates were conducted Sunday night, when Mr. Morgan, Ashland minister of the Christian church, delivered the sermon. Mr. Morgan impressed upon his listeners the importance of service to fellow citizens, and the withholding of selfish motives throughout their educational careers.

Other numbers of the program were two hymns by the audience, two vocal numbers by the young men and ladies' choir and two special numbers by Ralph Almon and Billie Wyatt.

A pleasant birthday party was enjoyed at the George McDonough home May 5 when 17 gathered to celebrate the birthdays of Mrs. Cleo Gilchrist, Miss Helen Williams, Mrs. Nora Williams and James McDonough.

Commencement exercises for Sams Valley high school will be held at the auditorium Thursday evening, May 16. Dr. Redford, president of the Southern Oregon Normal school, will give the address. The 1935 class includes Misses Elaine Hush and Ruth Galloway, Burke Burson, Melvina Smith and Merrill Martin. Class colors are pink and yellow.

KINGFISH SUFFERS FROM ILLUSION OF GRANDEUR IS VIEW

North Carolina Senator Blasts Louisiana Before Crowded Chamber-Postmaster Farley Defended

WASHINGTON, May 14.-(AP)-Asserting that Senator Long (D. La.) was suffering from an "illusion of grandeur," Senator Bailey (D. N. C.) declared in the senate today: "It is about time the American people are told that chicanery, trickery, fraud and corruption are not tolerated in this body."

The North Carolinian sharply criticized his Louisiana colleague in defending Postmaster General Farley against renewed charges leveled against his official conduct by Long. Bailey, engaging in a brisk exchange with Long on the floor, characterized the latter's accusations as unfounded.

Before a packed senate and crowded galleries, Long had stated he could produce witnesses to prove that Farley had been a party to a "diabolical fraud" through "manipulation of government contracts."

He read an affidavit made to him April 23 by Helen Humphreys, a former employe of James A. Stewart & Co., New York contractors, in which she swore she could testify that Harry D. Watta was given a contract with that firm because he had claimed he could get business for it through Farley.

It was further charged that Farley had managed to "grab all the papers and correspondence between Ikes, Green and Glavin." Long asserted as to this it was no wonder he could not get a quick report from the interior secretary on his resolution requesting that he latter furnished the investigation any information he could find in connection with a purported inquiry of Farley's connection with PWA contracts.

Background Traced Bailey, who had waited weeks to answer Long, traced the background for what he termed these "extraordinary performances" by Long. The North Carolinian said Long had made seven speeches in a short space of time in the senate assailing the treasury, interior, navy, justice and post-office departments and "did not hesitate to repeat the character of the president of the United States."

"There's something more involved here than that of discrediting James A. Farley," he said, adding that in his search for the reason he came upon "every man a King." Long's book advocating share the wealth.

Bailey said that was the first of three volumes; that the second would be "Every Man a Kingfish" and the third, "Every Man a Sucker."

Speaking sarcastically, Bailey said: "Of all of us here he alone is pure and true and the only friend of the people."

Long, he asserted, was constantly "barking" at the administration without "treating anything."

"He won't shut up with other dogs," said the speaker. "He hunts alone and can't see anything. He shouts, 'Come share my position, my coon and my squirrel,' knowing he has none of them."

Frederick Guetzlaff spent last week in Portland visiting relatives and heard the Lawrence Tibbett concert.

NEW GOLD MINING PROJECT STARTED ON SARDINE CREEK

(Continued from Page One) yet been made, Mr. Dusenberry said that an option agreement has been adopted whereby the property may be sold, leased or operated on a royalty basis, depending upon the results obtained in the first few weeks of production.

The land was thoroughly prospected by experienced mining men who turned in an exceedingly favorable report. Dr. Clancy told the Mail Tribune, adding that the earth was virgin so far as the production of gold was concerned. The prospectors made tests on both sides of the creek, going as far as the roadway on one side. This entire area will be developed if conditions warrant, Dr. Clancy said.

The dirt is being scooped up by an oil-burning steam shovel which has been purchased from the California Oregon Power company. The washing machine, constructed on the premises, the sluice boxes and a tailings belt constitute a single, compact unit.

Three electric motors run this machine, while a fourth motor pumps the water from the creek. Later water may be pumped from Rogue river. A power line has been run to the site of operations from the Copco transmission wires along the roadway.

The equipment is entirely mobile, a factor which eliminates the expense and delay in trucking. Although unusually stout, the washing machine is mounted on skids and can therefore be pulled forward as the stream shovel advances.

An endless belt dumps the rocks which are first thoroughly washed, and then the rear so that no time or labor will have to be devoted to the removal of tailings. Operations have begun at one end of the property and the movement will be entirely forward and to the side, it was explained by Mr. Dusenberry, who is assisting in the development.

One sluice box, which runs down along the outside of the washer, is now being used, but it was said another will soon be added. A novelty is that instead of being made of wood or wire screening the filter are composed of rubber and fabric, fashioned from old automobile tires. This is said to be more efficient.

"I have great faith in the project," Dr. Clancy said, "but am making no predictions until I see the actual results."

A skeleton force of six men is now employed, with Mr. Jones in charge of operations. This will be materially increased if tests measure up to expectations and at least two shifts will be put on the job, Dr. Clancy said.

Codes Crown Schools PHILADELPHIA.-(UP)-High schools have become so crowded here because of industrial codes, that teachers are doing almost twice as much work. THREE MILLION FUND FROM PWA TO REBUILD CAPITOL IS INDICATED

SALEM, May 14.-(AP)-Federal funds for construction of the main transmission lines for power from the Bonneville dam and an allotment of $3,000,000 for construction of a new capitol building were strongly indicated today by Representative Walter M. Pierce in a letter to Governor Martin.

In his letter, Pierce former governor of Oregon, said "I must write you a word and tell you how much I sympathize with you in the extra burden thrown upon you" shoulders by the recent burning of the capitol. The added burden of having a capitol to build is a problem. I am delighted to know the board members are working with you, and I hope they may continue to do so.

"On the morning after the fire I had the master up with PWA for an allotment of money to rebuild our capitol. Everybody promised help. I do not think there will be any trouble in getting an allotment of three million dollars for building the capitol."
