

SENIORS SCORE IN TARKINGTON PLAY AT HIGH SCHOOL

High school dramatics came into its own last night when the graduating class of the Medford Senior high school presented Booth Tarkington's "Clarence." Playing before a packed house in the high school auditorium...

The plot revolved around "Clarence," a big "bum" man and retired mule-skinner from the army in the first few scenes. Clarence takes on the appearance of one quite ready for a sanitarium but in the third act...

Dolph James co-starred with Miss Mildred Drury, as Violet, the governess who also had her share of suitors. James, in his excellent makeup, showed decided skill in his handling of the many lines assigned him.

Miss Drury, although it was plain to see that her part did not give her ample opportunity to express her fine acting ability, added zest to the play that kept it from dragging.

Betty Thornike as Cora, the love-sick daughter, very excellently carried her part in her pursuit of Clarence. Verne Campbell, better known as Mr. Wheeler the tired business man, "wowed" the audience in his energetic handling of a clear used in several acts.

Lucien Smith, the amorous youngster Bobby, of some seventeen years, created a sensation with his stammering protestations of love to Violet, the governess. Betty Dyan and Donald Grey, as the maid and man-servant, gave splendid performances, and Betty Vilm as Mrs. Martyn, office secretary of Mr. Wheeler, was highly lauded in the role which she portrayed.

A bit of unanticipated humor was injected into the play at the end of the second act, while Clarence was in the midst of a saxophone solo. It seems that the curtains failed to close at the desired time and Mr. James (Clarence) was left "holding the gunny," but as the old saying goes, "the show must go on" so on it went.

Financial results have not been announced as yet.
