Appreciative Audience Hears Girls' Vesper Hour

One of the most enjoyable programs of National Music week, was the vesper service presented Sunday May 12 by the orchestral ensemble of the Girls' Community club, under direction of Alice Holmback.

The large and appreciative audience was greatly surprised and pleased at the finished performance of this group of young girls making their first public appearance. Much credit is due Miss Holmback for her capable leadership as well as her generosity in giving her time and the benefits of her musical abilities towards this civic project.

Local artists assisting as soloists and making the program exceptionally well balanced were: Mary Anne Gates, soprano; Betty Evanson, pianist; and Dorothy Gore, violinist.

It is to be hoped that this musical will become an annual affair. Any young girl wishing to join this orchestra may do so by communicating with Mrs. E. E. Gore, who acts as supervisor for the club.

'DON'T WORRY' ADVICE FOR RETAINING YOUTH

SALEM, Ore.—(UP)—Dr. John McLaughlin, earliest white settler of the Oregon territory, cradled her in his arms and called her "little white lily" when she was stricken with a serious illness as a child . . . she has been through four major depositions and still has faith . . . and she wants to live to see the outcome of the Roosevelt administration.

Thus did Mrs. Abbie Hatch Parrar, who recently celebrated her 85th birthday, sketch her life rapidly for Salem friends. She has been a resident of the capital city for 72 years. Mrs. Parrar was born in Oregon City, and came to Salem from there.

"Don't worry. That is the way to stay young," is her motto.

SINCLAIR CLAIMS COUNTRY HEADED FOR BANKRUPTCY

"He has permitted the business men of the country to persuade him that they can bring back prosperity and put the unemployed to work again. His fate in 1936 depends upon how much longer he pursues this notion."

"That the pick-up in business is illustrative can be proved by the simplest calculation. The best claim made for it is 25 per cent, and if you compare the amount of money the government is throwing into circulation with the total spending power of the people, you find it bears just about that percentage."

"In other words, all the extra money the business men are getting today is money which the government has borrowed from them, and then loaned out to banks and railroads, or given away to farmers and veterans and unemployed workers to spend. For a year I went up and down the state of California, explaining exactly that point to the people."

"We are traveling the same course we saw Germany travel, to inflation and national bankruptcy."

"The question for the people to decide is if they will stand more suffering and lose their liberties, and be ruled by dictatorship. If we Americans don't want this to happen, we will have to get busy at once and find a way to end this depression by putting the unemployed at work under a system of production for use."

On the eve of the convention, Sinclair reiterated his distaste for any third party movement.
