

HILLAH SHRINERS SPRING CEREMONY ASHLAND, MAY 25

Extensive Program Arranged for Annual Meeting—Parade at 7:30 Will Be Featured for the Public

With a flash of color and blare of drums, Hillah Shriners will gather at Ashland Saturday afternoon, May 25, for a spring ceremonial that promises to be an outstanding one for the southern Oregon temple. The program, replete with golf tournaments, parades and brilliant initiatory work, is being perfected under the direction of Hillah's newest past potentate, Ole Alenderfer, and his committee members and the Ashland army has been selected as the scene of the banquet, ceremonial work and general festivities.

At 1:30 p. m. the masonic and noble artists who wear the fea will enjoy the annual spring golf tournament on Ashland's attractive course. The doors of hospital rooms at the army will swing wide promptly at 5 o'clock and at 6 o'clock the banquet hall will be opened with a delicious buffet supper.

So that Ashland citizens may view the colorful throng, a parade will begin from the army at 7:30 o'clock, featuring the brilliant uniformed units of Hillah Temple, the divan, candidates and nobility. At 8 o'clock the nobles will gather in the army, where the evening's program will be introduced with a concert by the Hillah band and drills executed by the Hillah patrol and drum corps. The formal reception of officers and visiting dignitaries will then follow after which the ritualistic ceremonials will hold the stage.

At 10 o'clock the "second session" initiatory work will begin, followed by a social session. Committees for the ceremonial, appointed by Potentate Floyd Whittle, are as follows:

VOCATIONAL CLUB WILL LAUNCH NEW LECTURE SERIES

With the initial series of classes conducted by the Young Men's Vocational club, branded a "complete success," the organization will launch a second series of group lectures on Monday, May 27, according to announcement today by Frank Hull, organizer and supervisor of the club. Much valuable and interesting information has been secured by business men who are heading the vocational movement. From questionnaires completed by young men who finished the first series of classes, it was found that the personnel of these classes averaged 21 years of age, with some members up to 30 years. It was the consensus of all who participated in the first series of lectures that much helpful information had been secured by the young men which will prove invaluable to them in planning their future fields of endeavor.

Because of the success of the first classes, it is planned to launch the second series on a more ambitious scale, augmented by a fruit packing school which will be organized this summer affording young men an opportunity to learn this phase of the fruit industry. Mr. Hull voiced his appreciation to the business men of the city who contributed their time and efforts to the Young Men's Vocational club during the first course of lectures and paid a high tribute to the splendid work of Dr. William F. Roney, who has acted as coordinator for the club and to James Keys, former office lieutenant, who filled the office of assistant coordinator. Upon the completion of the recent series of classes, the young men who have participated expressed a unanimous desire for the continuance of the vocational movement in Medford.

GRANGE CHAPTER BACKS MARTIN IN ACTION ON BAER

SALEM, May 21.—(Sp.)—The Eagle Creek Grange in Clackamas county, where Governor Martin made an address last Saturday, in resolution expressed its objection to the action of the state grange executive committee in participation in the fight against deportation proceedings of Walter E. Baer. The resolution was made public today through the executive department. Recently members of the grange executive committee appeared at the hearing in the governor's office seeking a pardon for Baer so that he could remain in the United States. Immigration authorities are seeking his deportation to Germany on the grounds of moral turpitude. The governor denied the pardon. The resolution of the Clackamas grange organization, signed by M. C. Glover, master and former state master, continued: "Be it further resolved that we insist that in the future our state grange executive committee concern itself only with those things that are of vital interest to agriculture."

ISOBELL STUART GIVES INTIMATE STUDIO GLIMPSE

Miss Isobell Stuart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Stewart, of 217 Apple street, will return this week to the excitement, fascination and drudgery of her position as script girl with Paramount Pictures in Hollywood.

Medford friends of Miss Stuart, who has been vacationing with her parents here for the past two months, have been much interested in her first hand accounts of production technique and personalities of America's movie capital. Miss Stuart has been employed as script girl on the Paramount lot for the past six years. The script girls are detail checkers, assigned to a picture for its full course of production, and responsible for the elimination of the discrepancies in the actor's dress, and make-up and other phases of detail which critical cinema goers are quick to deride.

Returning to her position about June 1, Miss Stuart will be assigned to an unnamed Burns and Allen comedy. She worked with this radio and movie team on one of their previous pictures and finds Gracie Allen, wife of George Burns, just as affable and charming off the set as she is unconventional and "screwy" when in character. Recent pictures upon which she has worked include "Car 99" shown at the Bialto here last week; "Wings in the Dark," with Myrna Loy and Cary Grant; and Bing Crosby's "Here Is My Heart." Bing is a happy-go-lucky, practical joking fellow, pleased but not impressed with his own success.

Work on western pictures is the most interesting and exciting. She recalled an amazingly serious argument between two "extra" riders on a western location one evening after production had ceased for the day. Both in high spirits, they debated with heat the proper technique for "falls." One was an exponent of the "hand-on-the-head" school and the other advocated the "hand-on-the-back" thesis. Each had taken about 15 falls during the day's shooting, and neither was any the worse for wear. Retros are paid from $10 to $75 for "falling" from horses during the wild riding scenes in the western thrillers.

Picker-inflamed young people are strongly advised against trying their worldly goods in a red bandanna and striking out for fame and fortune in Hollywood. A recent change in casting methods for extra parts has made it impossible for a novice to break in and earn a living in this work. There was a time when anyone "who knows

HIGH MUST SEEK NEW BONDSMEN

(Babe) High of Ashland, with his brother, George, under a prison sentence of four years, and at liberty on bonds pending an appeal to the state supreme court, was making arrangements for a new bondsman today. The two High brothers were found guilty last winter of setting fire to the Balfour, Guthrie barn, near Ashland, January 4, 1933, for the purpose of collecting the insurance. Two accomplices entered pleas of guilty.

One of Robert High's bondsmen withdrew last week, because of business reasons. High's attorneys said, making it necessary for him to procure a new one to remain at liberty. The defendants have until July 1 to file their transcript on appeal with the high court.

SCHERMERHORN'S PAROLE HEARING SLATED FOR FALL

Gordon L. Schermerhorn, former sheriff of Jackson county, serving three years in state prison, for conviction of ballot-theft, is scheduled to come before the state parole board for parole hearing at its first meeting after he has completed a year of his sentence next August. Schermerhorn will not be eligible for parole until then.

An unconfirmed report indicates that friends of Schermerhorn are now seeking his conditional pardon. Schermerhorn, when sentenced last August, was given assurances of the court and the attorney-general's office that they would recommend a parole when he had served six months. This time expired last January. No action was taken. The state board ruled that Schermerhorn was not eligible until he had served one-third of his term.

The court in passing sentence upon Schermerhorn, characterized him as "a willing dupe" of Agitators Banks and Fehi, now his prison mates. Denial of paroles yesterday by Governor Martin, to E. H. Fehi, former county judge, and Walter J. Jones, former mayor of Rogue River, both serving four-year sentences for vote-stealing convictions, was not unexpected in local official circles. Both were eligible for parole last November.

Fehi enjoyed a short break from penitentiary routine last week as a defendant and witness in the Niedermeyer, Inc., interpleader hearing here. He confidentially anticipated parole, he informed acquaintances.
