

CIVIL CALENDAR IS ARRANGED FOR TERM OF COURT

The calendar for civil suits at the Medford court, starting Monday, was arranged this morning by the court and attorneys. It is probable that the first two weeks of the term will be occupied with civil and equity matters. No criminal cases will be set until after the report of the grand jury, also scheduled to convene next Monday. A new petit jury has been drawn, comprising 31 names, and has been directed to report then. The grand jury is scheduled to investigate four major cases, at its coming session. They are: Perry Alonzo (Joe) Hulbe, aged 36, charged with a charge of threatening to commit a felony with a dangerous weapon. Hulbe is alleged to have threatened to kill a state police officer when the latter came upon him and his son-in-law in the timber. Frances Millard Sallee, Yankee creek district resident, charged with a statutory offense involving a seven-year-old Central Point girl. John Roth of Bangor, Maine, transient, charged with manslaughter, for the alleged slaying, during the course of a trivial quarrel, in the "Jungles" May 11, at Ashland, of J. J. Schmitz, sometimes known as Smith, a fellow-transient. Both claim he acted in self-defense when he struck Schmitz over the head with a heavy piece of scuffling. Joe Wilson, charged with involuntary manslaughter for the death of Francis Fraley, 12-year-old boy bicyclist, on the Jacksonville highway May 19, as the result of an auto accident involving the auto driven by Wilson.

BILLION DOLLARS IN PROJECTS FOR RELIEF APPROVED

(Continued from Page One.) From one-fourth to one-half of the $4,000,000,000 has been earmarked by congress, including some projects of costly nature such as highways and elimination of grade crossings. Mr. Roosevelt and his principal aides—Frank Walker, Secretary Ickes and Harry L. Hopkins—conferred at length last night on the problem of finding just what cheaper local projects. Particular attention was given to Indiana and Alabama, whose state directors were here. The President said both states presented very comprehensive plans. This was regarded as somewhat indicative of approval of their work programs. He explained the $4,000,000,000 fund has been cut up into state allotments and will be carried through on this idea. Early announcement of the allotments to states is in prospect. He has laid down the rule that state programs must provide for taking off the relief rolls all of the employable unemployed.

POSTPONE FIELD MEET JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOLS

In respect to the late Mrs. Eugene Thordike, whose funeral was to be held this afternoon, the track meet which was scheduled for Van Scoyoc field between Medford and Ashland Junior high schools has been postponed until tomorrow, Coach Ray Henderson announced. Besides trackmen from the two junior high schools, several entrants are expected from secondary schools of the valley. On Friday, a track meet among the four grade schools of the city will be held at Van Scoyoc field.

HOUSE OVERRIDES ROOSEVELT VETO BY 322-98 VOTE

ment in this way," the senator insisted, "will not only be helpful to the soldier but to business." The president had acknowledged that payment would help consumer business, but said the money would be going back into banks without helping the heavy industries, which increased activity would be most beneficial. Senatorial comment was almost unanimous that the veto message was strong, but from the reaction of Patman bill advocates that there was no outward evidence that any notes had been swung to the administration.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt warned congress in vetoing the Patman bonus bill today that if enacted into law it would invite "an ultimate reckoning in uncontrollable prices and in the destruction of the value of savings."

Such a result, he declared in an unprecedented message he read to the house and senate, "will strike most cruelly those like the veterans who seem to be temporarily benefitted."

"The first person injured by skyrocketing prices is the man on a fixed income," he said. "Every disabled veteran on pension or allowance is on the fixed-income list. This bill favors the able-bodied veteran at the expense of the disabled veteran."

Does Not Create Wealth. "Wealth is not created nor is it more equitably distributed by this method. A government, like an individual, must ultimately meet legitimate obligations out of the production of wealth by the labor of human beings applied to the resources of nature."

Every country that has attempted the form of providing its obligations through taxation, because of increased costs, caused by inflated prices, new issues has followed near issue, ending in the ultimate wiping out of the currency of the afflicted country."

He said the argument that spending $2,000,000,000 for bonus payment is the best way of hastening recovery is "so ill-considered that little comment is necessary."

Spent on Sound Principle. Every appropriation of new deal congresses for recovery purposes he contended, "has been predicated not on the mere spending of money to hasten recovery, but on the sounder principle of preventing the loss of homes and farms, or saving industry from bankruptcy, or safeguarding bank deposits, and most important of all—of giving relief and jobs through public works to individuals and families faced with starvation."

He argued that "the veteran who suffers from this depression can best be aided by the rehabilitation of the country as a whole." In advancing this contention he mentioned the fact that the same view had been expressed several years ago "by the distinguished senior senator from Idaho."

"I believe the welfare of the nation, as well as the future welfare of the veterans, wholly justifies my disapproval of this measure," the President concluded.

HERE'S INSIDE ON THE GARBO FOOT; IT'S 'BEE-U-TIFUL'

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD.—(AP)—It was to be expected that Garbo, as befits a semi-legendary figure, would move slowly toward the realization of a desire, slowly and with due majesty. Now it appears that the next step in the billboards progress of the Special actress will be "Garbo Dances," an inevitable sequel to "Garbo Talks" and "Garbo Smiles."

In "Anna Karenina" Greta will dance. In two previous films she has portrayed a dancer and has not danced. In "Mati Hari" one saw Garbo dance, true, but the Garbo rhythmics were supplied by a young woman who since has become something of a screen personage in her own right, June Knight. In "Grand Hotel" Greta was a famous dancer, but except for a light fluttering around her room, done by Garbo and no double, she was not required to demonstrate her lightness of foot.

As "Anna Karenina" Greta does a dancing double today. Prancesa Braggiotti (Mrs. John Lodge) was to serve as Garbo's dancing alter ego in the long ago. Just as June Knight had in "Mati Hari." But Garbo had said already she would do this number in person. She had taken lessons in the mazurka, and she would dance.

Her instructor was Chester Hale, dance director. Hale had not met Garbo before. He was nervous, he says, when he awaited her arrival for the first lesson.

She arrived, wearing slacks and a sweater. Hale's pianist had concealed by moving the piano to the wall. That was to insure Garbo's privacy she is supposed to crave. The setting was made to order for Garbo—she would be as alone as is possible when one is learning the mazurka from an instructor.

"I am Miss Garbo," Hale quoted her. "What shall I do?" "Let's go to work," he said. Greta shed sweater and slacks and was ready, in shorts and blouse.

Hale, who like Garbo works for Metro, expresses himself as impressed with her dancing ability. His first impressions, he says, was of "her absolutely open mind and her frank simplicity." As she progressed through her first lesson she lost her "evident shyness" and "shortly was attacking the steps with "enormous enthusiasm and intelligence."

He has many flattering things to say about Garbo's dancing, including this: "She has the true dancer's foot—perfectly beautiful, slim and as finely shaped as her hands. She has a beautiful arch and a well-pointed toe."

Blasts To Loosen Snow In McKenzie

BEND, Ore., May 22.—(AP)—Dynamite blasts will reiterate in Central Oregon this week as state highway crews attempt to push their way through the solidly-packed snow on the McKenzie pass.

The Division Engineer K. D. Lytle said yesterday the snow was more solid than expected and that powder will have to be utilized even before the workers clear the way to the 35-foot drifts in the big cut.
