

CAPITOL COLUMNS NOT CONSTRUCTED FOR MOVING, FEAR

SALEM, May 23.—(AP)—Salvage of the dozen stately columns left standing when the old capitol building was destroyed by fire, would be almost prohibitive in cost, F. G. Leary, in charge of the wrecking operations reported to the state board of control here today.

The board had requested the columns be saved for use in a columnnade for the capitol grounds.

Leary, upon investigation, reported to the board the columns were made of brick with a covering of plaster. He stated he did not discover any metal uprights to hold the columns intact. He recommended one be taken down to ascertain the advisability of saving the others.

In the meantime the threatened appeal to the state supreme court to restrain the board of control from destroying the walls of the capitol has not yet made its appearance. The Marion county taxpayers league announced it would appeal from the Marion county circuit court in its suit. The lower court had dismissed the action and refused a permanent injunction against razing the building.

As soon as the SERA crews clearing away the debris from the ruins are ready, the walls will be brought down through the use of dynamite, Leary announced.

PETROLEUM INDUSTRY HISTORY GIVEN LIONS IN INTERESTING TALK

At the meeting of the Medford Lions club Wednesday noon at Hotel Medford, Mr. Reinhart of the American Society of Automotive Engineers was the principal speaker. He gave a most interesting and instructive talk on the development and history of the petroleum industry, particularly relative to gasoline engines and gasoline, coupled with a practical demonstration of the principle of detonation and contrast between cheap and high grades of gasoline.

He stated that about 80 years ago gasoline was run into sewers, when the first oil well was drilled, as oil on practical use, and traced the gradual improvement and development of gasoline as a motor fuel.

Shangles' and Newberry's attendance teams are running a neck and neck race for honors in the contest which closes at the end of June. All members are urged to attend regularly.

It was announced that the Medford club would have at least a delegation of four at the state convention at The Dalles on June 2, 3 and 4, and that Ted and Evelyn Shrader and some of their pupils will furnish the entertainment at the convention sponsored by the Medford club, and which will also be of great publicity value to Medford.

The club voted to attempt to secure the 1936 state convention for Medford and is leaving no stone unturned to bring the convention here, and will make every effort at this convention for success along these lines.

Next week at the weekly luncheon annual nomination of officers for the ensuing year will begin. All members are especially urged to attend.

Mr. Bannell urged the membership to attend the banquet for Major Armstrong and Major Owens at Hotel Medford at 6:30 this evening. The membership showed much enthusiasm and a large number stated they would attend.

Stenographer Crack Shot
BAKERSFIELD, Cal.—(UP)—Criminals should have a vast respect for Miss Leona Kloverdale, blonde stenographer for Sheriff Ed Champagne. She is the best shot on the sheriff's force. Using a regulation .38-caliber police

Baby Puts Pair in Hospital
REDONDO BEACH, Cal.—(UP)—

There should be some apt quotation about the mightiness of the hand that holds the nursing bottle. Ray Shannon, Jr., aged one year, tossed his bottle at his small sister, Kathleen, with such force that it bounced and hit his mother on the temple.

Mother and sister went to the hospital for repairs while Ray went on with his meal.
