Miss Green Wed To T. R. Leonard In Home Ceremony

The beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Fredette, 1111 West Fourth street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding last night when Maureen Green and T. R. Leonard were united in marriage by the Reverend W. R. Baird.

The artistic decorations of the home, which consisted of bluebells, roses, columbine and sweetpeas, added considerably to the very pleasant occasion.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Green, well known Medford family, and was attractively dressed in a pink ensemble with a corsage of pink roses and lilies of the valley. She is a popular member of the younger set of Medford and has a host of friends in the city.

Mr. Leonard is one of Medford's young business men, and also enjoys a large friendship here.

Mrs. M. P. Dunn acted as matron of honor and Jasper Reynolds was best man.

Mrs. R. H. Green, mother of the bride, wore a blue and white ensemble with a corsage of sweetpeas and forget-me-nots.

Besides the bride and groom, those attending the ceremony included: Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Green, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Fredette, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Stuttsford, Mr. and Mrs. Justin Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Marshall, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Daily, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Cary, Miss Lena Heath, Mrs. Rena Collier, Mrs. M. E. Royce, Jasper Reynolds, Jerry Young, Gene Narrengan and A. H. Banwell.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard left for California for a honeymoon trip, after which they will return to Medford to make their future home.

Helen Jane Dixon And William Hines United In Marriage

On Wednesday afternoon, at St. Mark's Episcopal church, at 4 o'clock, Miss Helen Jane Dixon became the bride of William Bailey Hines of Yakima, Wash.

The bride, a petite blonde, wore a lovely lace dress made in simple shirt waist style with tiny peaked cape in matching lace. She was preceded down the aisle by her cousin, Mrs. Virginia Wade, who wore a Kate Greenaway costume in pink taffeta and net, and scattered rose petals before the bride from a tiny pink-trimmed basket.

They were met at the altar by the bridegroom, and beneath a bower of pink and white roses, sweetpeas and Queen Anne's lace, Rev. E. S. Bartram read the simple but impressive ring ceremony of the Episcopal church. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Royal Bebb sang the solemn bridal hymn, "O Perfect Love."

The wedding march was played by Dorothy Bugeaux, William Thorndike and Frank Dixon acted as ushers.

Following the ceremony the bride and bridegroom greeted their friends in the vestibule of the church. Friends leaving the church the bride threw the bouquet. It was caught by Opal Harvey.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Wilson Wait, uncle and aunt of the bride, entertained the bride party and a close group of friends at a beautifully appointed wedding supper. The bride table was decorated in white and a huge bride's cake formed a centerpiece.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Volney Dixon of Medford, and is a graduate of the local high school. She is a descendant of two pioneer families of southern Oregon, being the granddaughter on her father's side of Hiram Dixon, who came to Oregon in 1833 by wagon train, and on her mother's side from Dr. Joseph B. Wait, pioneer physician of Medford.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hines of Yakima, Wash.

The marriage is the culmination of a college romance, as both attended University of Washington, from which institution Mrs. Hines was graduated in 1932. She is a member of Sigma Kappa, social sorority, and Mr. Hines of Zeta Psi fraternity. Mrs. Hines is employed in the high school at Prospect, Ore.

Immediately after the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Hines left by motor for a honeymoon trip to Seattle, taking the coast route. They will spend a short vacation on Vashon Island, and will attend the graduation ceremonies at University of Washington.

Mrs. Hines wore for her going away costume a green velour with white accessories.

After June 16 they will be at home at Yakima, Wash.

Few Care to Follow in Footsteps of Parents—Billy Burke's Daughter Interested in Business Phase

By HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD—You can count on your fingers the children of movie stars who have chosen to follow in their parents' footsteps. There's the Fairbanks son, Russell; two juniors are Fairbanks and Noah Beery; Taylor Holmes' son, Phillip; Will Rogers' Mary; the sons of Carlisle Blackwell and Erich von Stroheim.

There may be a few others working for Hollywood fame, but by far the majority of Hollywood sons and daughters want to grow up to be doctors and aviators, baseball managers or just housewives.

These movie children either do not like the work their parents do, or care for the lives they lead, or they lack the ability or personality, or perseverance, or all three, that their fathers and mothers have.

Golf, or Aviation.

William Powell, Jr., thinks golf would be a swell career, but Father Powell is trying to persuade his 11-year-old son that business pays better. Young Bill has shown no inclination to try either the stage or the screen. Jack Holt's 16-year-old Tim, an all-around athlete, never has shown any interest in the picture, except to see his father's screen.

Don, the eldest of Joe E. Brown's sons, now in college, wants to have a business career—indeed, he has said, that has nothing to do with things theatrical. Joe E. Jr., the younger son, wants to be a baseball manager and eventually a club owner. In this he does "take after" his father, but the bent is toward athletics, not dramatics. He already is manager of the high school baseball team. Billie Burke's 18-year-old Patricia is more interested in the business and production ends of the theater, like her father, the late Flo Ziegfeld. Acting does not appeal to her.

The five Cantor girls very likely will follow in Mother Ida's footsteps and not in Father Eddie's. (Any way they haven't their father's eyes). Barbara Stanwyck's little Dion and Barbara Ann Harding's Jane are almost never seen inside studio gates. When Marlene Dietrich's daughter played small role in one of her mother's films, it was the exception to the rule. Friends say Marlene does not want her Maria to be an actress, but that if she shows an inclination later for either the stage or the screen, the baby will not be discouraged.

THIRD COVER SPRAY FOR MOTH CONTROL ADVISED BY AGENT

Apple growers should apply a third cover spray for the control of codling moth worms, which should be completed by June 17, according to the advice of L. G. Genter, entomologist of the Southern Oregon Experiment station, and H. G. Fowler, county agent.

The following materials should be used: One gallon light summer oil emulsion, one-half pound spreader, two pounds arsenate of lead to 100 gallons of water.

Chemically treated bands should be on the trees shortly after June 15, in order to give best results.

In the case of pears, most of the worms attempt to enter the fruit through the calyx or blossom end and very few gain entrance through the side. For this reason, the sprays which are now on the trees should give protection until the second brood worms appear. However, where there is a very heavy infestation, it may be advisable to apply a third cover spray, using three pounds of arsenate of lead to the one hundred gallons of water.

CHANGE COULEE DAM TO HIGH STRUCTURE

SPOKANE, June 5.—(AP)—E. O. Conner, Spokane attorney, said he received word from Senator Lewis Schwellenbach (D, Wash.) today that Secretary Harold Ickes had signed an order changing the foundation of the Grand Coulee dam from a low to a high dam.

"This means, beyond any doubt, that the $70,000,000 plus high dam will be built," said Conner. "It means new contracts will be called for to care for the greatest construction project in the west."
