

MARTIN'S ACTION IN STRIKE GIVEN STOCKMEN'S OKEH

Attempt to Unite Grange and Radical Elements
Seen in Baer Incident —
Group Pledges Support

SALEM, June 7.—(AP)—Approval of Governor Charles H. Martin's recent prompt and so far successful effort in handling the serious strike situation, as contained in one of three resolutions commending the governor, adopted by the Oregon Cattle and Horse Raisers' association at a recent meeting at Enterprise, copies of which were received at the executive offices today.

The other resolutions commend the governor for interest shown "in the livestock industry of eastern Oregon by his assistance in the passage of suitable land bills, and his cooperation in highway improvements in this section of the state," and for his action in denying a pardon to Walter E. Baer, an alien against whom government proceedings are pending.

Pledge support.

Pointing out that "the Portland waterfront strike of last summer resulted in millions of dollars losses to the agricultural and livestock industry of eastern Oregon," and asserting that "such strikes retard agricultural and industrial recovery," which "can be equitably arbitrated without costly delays and violence," the association pledged its support to Governor Martin in his future efforts to maintain law and order and promote recovery.

Sees Grange-Red Link.

In the petitions for a pardon for Baer, sponsored by Grange and labor leaders of the state, the association sees "an attempt to embarrass the governor and an apparent attempt to unite agricultural interests with the radical or red element," the resolution endorses the action of American Legion officials in bringing the matter of Baer's three convictions and terms in the penitentiary to the attention of Pomona Grange.

Because the federal government is seeking the deportation of Baer under the law "that aliens who have committed two or more crimes and who have been convicted for the same shall be deported," the association expresses its approval "of the stand taken by Governor Charles H. Martin, and recommend that deportation proceedings continue."

would have done the same, I hope to see my three little ones on the other side."

He mumbled a prayer as the cap was adjusted.

With an escort of Delaware state police, the bodies were taken to Frankfort for immediate burial.

Just before she was taken from her cell, Mrs. Carey requested that her body be taken through the town of Omar, past her mother's home.

Saw Brother

The couple's crime was the slaying of Robert Hitchens, Mrs. Carey's brother, for the $2,000 insurance on his life.

The warden's announcement of the execution came at about 6:18.

See surrounded the Sussex county jail yard and the high board fence built to hide the gallows from view as the doomed mother and son were led from their cells to death.

As they marched the hundred paces from their cells with their spiritual advisors—The Rev. Richard K. Whyte, Episcopal rector of Georgetown, and The Rev. J. C. Bolton, Methodist pastor of Frankfort—they repeated the 23rd Psalm and "the Apostles Creed."

On the ascent to the scaffold, the Lord's prayer was said. On the scaffold, the ministers offered final prayers.

Mrs. Carey wore a new black dress with a tiny ribbon of white at the throat, black hose and slippers. Her son was dressed in a blue-black suit, a white shirt and a black tie.

Warden Drops Trap

Hugh G. Smith, warden of the prison, sat in a windowless booth, out of sight of the hangman's noose, and pulled a rope that slid the bolt holding the double doors of the trap.

Only the legally required jury of 12, Sheriff Robert G. Glendon and Dr. A. C. Smoot, prison physician, witnessed the hangings.

They had read their Bibles "from cover to cover," their spiritual advisors said.

Mother and son dozed a little during the night, spending nearly all their last hours with the two clergymen and with their attorney, Frederick Whitney, who drove away from the prison about 5 a. m.

About 2 o'clock Mrs. Carey and Howard ate cake and ice cream.

Mrs. Carey was led from her cell, apparently very frightened. She was pale but made no outcry and did not weep as she walked between two guards to the scaffold and up the steps.

Mrs. Carey's body was cut down as soon as she was pronounced dead, and the rope replaced. An identical procedure followed a few minutes later as Howard stepped from his cell.

GRANTS PASS HAILS DISABLED VETERANS

GRANTS PASS, June 7.—(AP)—Grants Pass welcomed the Disabled American Veterans of the World War in 14th annual state convention today. Although registrations fell far below expectations, state officers said the sessions were starting satisfactorily. Officers will be elected tomorrow. About 80 had registered by noon.

In the early days of Virginia, ministers of the Church of England were paid by the government.
