KIDNAPERS TAKEN--LUMBER LOCATED

By Paul Mallon

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The best guide as to what effect the dismantling of the NRA will have on a business is a confidential study prepared by new deal economists for the guidance of officials. It indicates that a lot of people are jumping to hasty conclusions, that many prevailing notions are exaggerated.

The economists did not concern themselves with imagining future business psychology or calculating labor sentiment. They set out to find what could be reasonably expected in each major industry from scrapping the code of that industry, particularly as to prices, hours, wages, earnings.

Their conclusion was that about seven industries may be adversely affected, four or five benefited, and the great bulk presumably unmoved for the present.

The overlooked fact discovered by the economists was that the dismantling of NRA will probably affect each industry in a mild and different way because the NRA itself had a mild and different potency in each industry.

For instance, the price-fixing features were not included in most codes. Hence they were dropped recently or have not been enforced.

This is broadly true of auto manufacturing, lumber, food products, household products, machinery, and paper.

A few industries had generally higher standards of wages than the NRA standard, notably aircraft, chemicals, some were monopolistic and already had fairly good trade understandings, such as steel, aluminum, chemicals. Some have strongly organized labor groups and their labor standards are based primarily on this fact rather than NRA building trades for one.

The drug trades were never fully codified. The complicated code for motion pictures and theaters was not well enforced. The utilities have never operated under NRA. None of

Man, Wife Confess; Old Spokane House Was Prison for Boy

BUTTE, Mont., June 10.—(AP)—Escape to Canada was blocked and department of justice agents warned into Butte today close on the trail of William Mahan, who abandoned his car and $15,155 of the $200,000 Weyerhaeuser ransom and apparently resorted to hitch-hiking after he was "flushed" by a detective.

The department of justice agents arrived by airplane to join in the hunt after Butte police scattered a network of 100 officers and deputized men on roads out of here seeking the ex-convict whom Detective J. E. Mooney, 39-year old former A. E. P. boxer, recognized on the street early yesterday.

By John L. Wheeler (Associated Press Staff Writer) SALT LAKE CITY, June 10.—(AP)—From all fronts today the federal manhunters pressed their search for other members of the Weyerhaeuser kidnap gang, two of which were under arrest here.

The kidnaping broke wide open here last night when the federal bureau of investigation, department of justice, announced from Washington, D. C., that Harmon W. Waley, 24, tall, good-looking blond son of a Weyerhaeuser Lumber company foreman, and his wife, Margaret, the retiring, ditzy daughter of an old Salt Lake City family, had been arrested here and had confessed.

Suspect Escapes In Butte, William Mahan, a reputed bank robber from Washington state, fled before the justice agents, after yesterday deserting his sedan automobile on a downtown street and fleeing cross lots when recognized by a city detective, J. E. Mooney.

Only a vicious dog saved Mahan from capture, but at that he left $15,155 in ransom bills behind in a cache in the automobile. Mooney was halted abruptly in his pursuit of Mahan when the dog came between him and the fleeing man, as the latter leaped a fence and made his escape.

Two Salt Lake City policemen get the credit for the first break in the kidnaping hunt since the release of the 9-year old lumber heir near Tacoma a week ago Saturday morning. They were W. M. Rogers, a

G.O.P. GRASS ROOT CONVENTION OPENS FIRE ON BOURBONS

'Preserve The Constitution' Is Rallying Cry As Prairie State Republicans Meet In Springfield, Illinois.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 10.—(AP)—A shouting, singing crowd of prairie state Republicans launched the Middle West's vast pocket national convention—the "grass roots" conference—today to the battle cry of "Preserve the constitution."

Gathered in the Illinois State Fair auditorium, Republicans from 10 states heard Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, and unsuccessful candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1920 and 1928, and Harrison E. Spangler, Iowa national committee man, level opening shots at the Roosevelt administration.

Officials of the conference said there were 6,000 in the auditorium when the gavel fell.

Both Lowden and Spangler told the assemblage the issue for 1936 is "the preservation of the constitution" and "liberty against autocracy."

Spangler, speaking at a rostrum above an illuminated portrait of Abraham Lincoln, drew a noisy demonstration which stopped his address when he said:

"The issue today is the philosophy of Lincoln against those of Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Lowden declared the "essential forms of our government are challenged in high places."

For agriculture, he proposed out-and-out government benefits to correspond with industry's advantages from the protective tariff. The former governor departed from his manuscript to take this stand.

Jeers and cries of "hit him again" punctuated Spangler's address, when he arraigned President Roosevelt for "broken campaign pledges forgotten."

SEATTLE, June 10.—(AP)—The seafaring Pacific northwest lumber strike entered its sixth week today with the newly organized joint strike committee scheduled to meet in Olympia to outline plans for enforcement of demands for higher wages and shorter hours.

The only encouragement in the situation came from A. W. Muir, vice president of the International Carpenters and Joiners union who said conditions were "slowly but surely improving every day."

Although hopes for a settlement last week were shattered by a split within the ranks of the sawmill and timber workers' union, one break in the tense situation occurred yesterday at Aberdeen, Wash., when pulpwood cutters, affiliated with the Timber and Sawmill Workers Union, voted to accept a 50 cent increase for cutting and proportionate increases for yarding and log labor.

SALEM, June 10.—(AP)—All Oregon National Guard troops, with the exception of the 350 members of the coast artillery, were preparing today to move to Fort Lewis where they will participate in the largest military movement in the west since the World War. Oregon will send more than 2,500 officers and men to the 15-day training where it was reported 7,000 men and 600 officers would be encamped by tomorrow night.

Troops from Washington, Idaho and Montana were also converging on the American lake site, all units comprising the 41st division in command of Major General George A. White. The general left for the camp yesterday, and his headquarters here were deserted today with the departure of Brigadier General Thomas E. Rilea for the camp.

From eastern Oregon and the south, troop movements toward Portland started today. The companies in the Portland area were to move northward early Tuesday morning.

The coast artillery will camp at Fort Stevens in its 15-day intensive training period. Camp Clatsop, adjoining Fort Stevens, in Clatsop county will not be used for training purposes this year.

DOG KILLERS ARE AGAIN ON THE LOOSE

According to a report on file at the city police station the dog of Mrs. Mark Smith, 303 Edwards, was poisoned and died yesterday. This is the second time in six months that her dogs have been poisoned.

The killer is apparently particularly anxious to harm the dogs in that neighborhood for the dog of Mr. Hall at 328 was poisoned Friday night and died on Hall's back porch. Several other dogs have been poisoned in that locality in the past year.

City police are looking for the poisoner today. According to Chief McCredie, it is difficult to convict a dog poisoner, unless he be caught in the act.

The fight ended abruptly when Josephine's father, Dominick Cosentino, ran out of his house with a gun and shot Giuseppe and Rose Fontana, parents of Anthony and his sisters, Johanna, 16, and Connie, 11. Both fell dead as the children looked on.

GOVERNOR ORDERS STATE POLICE TO PROTECT WORKERS

Attempt To Keep Men From Opening Sawmill At Tillamook Brings Decisive Action By Executive.

TILLAMOOK, Ore., June 10.—(AP)—Governor Martin today promised all the resources of his office would be utilized to assure employees of the Coates mill here a safe pursuit of their jobs after a mob of 250 pickets had prevented the 40 workers from entering the plant.

The governor told Sheriff J. C. Holden and P. A. Beis, manager of the mill, that he was ordering a detail of state police to Tillamook at once.

A shower of rocks greeted the employees who reported for work today. Three automobile windshields were broken and the drivers cut by flying glass. The mill did not open and indications were that no further attempt to place workers in the plant would be undertaken until tomorrow. The pickets were identified as residents of Garibaldi, Seaside and Astoria.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 8.—To read what all these critics of our country write you would naturally think that everybody else was just sitting pretty, but France has offered their premiership to everybody over there but Chevalier and they know he is too smart to take it.
