FORMER RICHEST MAN IN BALKANS DIES IN POVERTY

Alexander Pokol Who Gave Rumanian Rulers Crowns of Solid Gold Had Career Like Fiction Character

By F. C. M. Jahn United Press Staff Correspondent VIENNA — (AP)—Alexander Pokol, once the richest man in the Balkans who presented King Ferdinand and Queen Maria of Rumania with crowns of solid gold, died in complete poverty in Budapest recently.

The story of his life reads like fiction. Pokol, 45 years ago, was a simple school teacher in the little town of Borpatek, Hungary.

Decades before this district had been a gold mining center, the gold fever never had died out there. A handful of gray-bearded diggers, who will not be discouraged by hundred-fold failures, still persist in the hope that, one day, they will strike a rich vein of the precious yellow metal.

Dovny Gold Claim The young schoolmaster seemed immune against the fever until he married a poor peasant's daughter whose only dowry was a gold claim which the family had considered valueless and therefore long ceased to exploit.

Pokol, trusting blindly to his luck, not only invested his whole wages in the exploitation of the claim, reserving only a small part to cover the bare necessities of life of the young couple, but he even contracted debts with a wealthy grocer to pay the two men whom he had engaged to dig.

When the debt had run up to several hundred guilders and no trace of the precious metal had been found, the grocer lost his confidence in the promised golden harvest and told Pokol, when he came for a new loan: "This is the last guildler I will risk in your enterprise; henceforth do not expect another red penny from me."

With this last guildler, exactly as in a cheap hotel, the school-teacher made his luck.

The Strike On the eve of the day on which he had decided to give up, his workmen struck a vein of gold, two fingers thick.

Overnight the poor school teacher had become a millionaire. This was in 1894.

Pokol gave up school teaching. He built himself a magnificent castle near his home town, bought a palace in Budapest and kept a racing stable. Whenever he came into a restaurant, nobody else was permitted to

At Crater Lake—J. Carlisle Crouch, chief ranger for Crater Lake national park, was attending to business at the lake over the week-end.

Arrives from South—Mrs. C. W. Wood of Needles, Cal., arrived by train this morning to visit in Medford and vicinity until the end of July.

Visit Diamond Lake—Mr. and Mrs. Roland Hubbard and family returned to Medford early this morning after an enjoyable week-end at the Hubbard summer lodge at Diamond Lake.

Fitzgerald Visits—Jack Fitzgerald, formerly of this city and now with the California Oregon Power company at Yreka, Cal., was a visitor here over the week-end.

Lee Port Arrives—Lee Port arrived over the week-end from Oregon State college, to spend the summer vacation at his home in southern Oregon. He is a sophomore at college.

Move to Seattle—Mrs. H. W. Persons and children have moved to Seattle, where Mr. Persons, formerly superintendent at Fisher's bakery, has accepted a position as branch manager of the Consumer's Yeast Co.

Motor to Lake—Miss Ethel Wilkinson of Crater Lake national park section, her mother, Mrs. Joseph Wilkinson, Miss Ethel Kelley of Rock Island, Tex., who is visiting here for the summer, and Miss Adabee Seiler, motored to Crater Lake yesterday, reporting today a fine trip.

Back from South—Mr. and Mrs. Orlis Crawford are home from a delightful two week auto tour in California and New Mexico. They were in San Diego the opening day of the fair, and saw the gates open to receive the first visitors. They called on Geo. Reeva, formerly an employee of the First National bank here, who runs a Firestone super service station at Alhambra, Cal., and also on Mrs. Crawford's sister, Mrs. Clyde McParren, at Los Angeles.

Kind to Poor To the poor he threw gold and silver coins. Sometimes when he had given away all the money in his pockets, he would tear off one of the gold buttons from his coat and give it to a beggar.

He was known far and wide as the "Gold King of Siebenbruggen." In recognition of his important contributions to patriotic and charitable undertakings, Emperor Francis Joseph conferred upon him the title of Baronet Pokol of de Nagylona.

When the output of his mine began to diminish, Pokol sold it in 1916 to a Swiss consortium for the sum of 1,200,000 Swiss francs.

Trusting in a second stroke of good luck, he invested the greater part of this sum in buying up other gold claims. But Fate did not smile again upon him.

Following the war, in 1921, when his district had become part of Rumania, the munificent "Gold King," although his fortunes were already on the decline, presented his new sovereigns with a pair of solid gold crowns weighing together six pounds.

Sold Properties Operation costs of his new mines, which remained sterile, and the inflation swallowed up the rest of Pokol's fortune, who never had been a good business man. He was compelled to sell out his properties one after the other.

The premature death of his beloved son, who was councillor at the Rumanian Legation in Berlin, was another hard blow for the dethroned "Gold King."

In a second rate hotel of Budapest, whether he had come to seek relief from illness, Pokol, once one of the richest men throughout the Balkans, died in complete poverty at 71.

OPERATION COSTS OF HIS NEW MINES, WHICH REMAINED STERILE, AND THE INFLATION SWALLOWED UP THE REST OF POKOL'S FORTUNE, WHO NEVER HAD BEEN A GOOD BUSINESS MAN. HE WAS COMPELLED TO SELL OUT HIS PROPERTIES ONE AFTER THE OTHER.

THE PREMATURE DEATH OF HIS BELOVED SON, WHO WAS COUNSELLOR AT THE RUMANIAN LEGATION IN BERLIN, WAS ANOTHER HARD BLOW FOR THE DETHRONED "GOLD KING."

IN A SECOND RATE HOTEL OF BUDAPEST, WHETHER HE HAD COME TO SEEK RELIEF FROM ILLNESS, POKOL, ONCE ONE OF THE RICHEST MEN THROUGHOUT THE BALKANS, DIED IN COMPLETE POVERTY AT 71.

TRUCK WRECKED BY WILD SWAY

Under peculiar conditions, a large freight truck, carrying general freight for the California-Northwest Forwarding company, was wrecked just north of Central Point this morning about 6 o'clock. The truck was traveling from Los Angeles to Portland, driven by a man named Harris. As it left Central Point it met another freight truck, southbound.

In swinging over to avoid a collision, Harris' truck left the pavement, swinging wildly to the right. He managed to get the machine back on the road, but the momentum carried him far to the left, and then back, as the truck swayed badly. He could not gain control of the machine, and the body and load broke clean away from the frame.

The body went into the ditch on one side of the road, and the chassis into the ditch on the other side. Neither Harris nor the relief driver with him was badly injured, although both received minor cuts and bruises. It was said today that the cost of repairing the machine will be slight.

Building Permits

Permit issued Saturday to H. W. Morrow, 53 N. Bartlett, to remodel and repair at an approximate cost of $200.

Famous Novel Now On Craterian Bill Pleases Audience

The age-old question of "ignorance versus education" forms the basis for the gripping plot of "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," the pictureization of the famous Edward Eggleston classic, which opened yesterday at the Craterian theatre.

The story deals with the trials encountered by a youthful Civil War veteran who takes the position of a schoolmaster in a small Indiana village. Ralph Hartsock, the schoolmaster, comes to Flat Creek with a band of ex-soldiers which propose to take up government lands in a newly opened reserve. They find that they have been defrauded by a group of wily community leaders and decide to camp in the creek bottoms near the village while young Hartsock takes the position of schoolmaster.

Hartsock finds that most of the residents of the community are held in ignorance and bondage by a chosen few. So successful is he in bringing enlightenment into the section that his crafty enemies decide to have him put out of the way by a gang of night riders, and the picture climaxes in an exciting battle as the soldiers take up arms in his behalf. Intwoven in the gripping plot is a beautiful romance between the schoolmaster and Hannah, a pretty blond servant.

Norman Foster, in the title role, presents his finest performance, while Charlotte Henry is also excellent in the part of the bound girl. Other members of the cast who must be commended for fine presentations are Sarah Padden, Otis Harlan, Russell Simpson, Wm. V. Mong, Fred Kohler, Jr., Tommy Bupp, Wallace Reid, Jr., George Hayes and Joe Bernard.

BORDERTOWN with BETTE DAVIS

The Sin-Wrecking Enchantress of "Human Bondage" MARGARET LINDSAY

Positively Ends Tonight! SHIRLEY TEMPLE

"BRIGHT EYES" with JAMES DUNN IANE DARVELL

Coming Tuesday

One of the strongest characterizations Paul Muni has brought to the screen comes to the "Bordertown" tomorrow when "Bordertown" opens a three-day run.

Set for the most part in a resort town on the border—a picturesque community, wild and lawless, rendezvous of rogues, gamblers, outcasts, adventuresses, millionaires and bored women, the picture shows Muni as an ambitious youth whose hope for a career in law is shattered when he attacks an opposing lawyer, and next shows him rising to riches and power as proprietor of a night club and gambling resort.

Two women play a vital part in his life; one a gay adventuress, the wife of Eugene Pallette, his partner. Bette Davis plays the role, so much in love with the younger man she murders her husband in the hope of winning his affections.

Margaret Lindsay is the other woman, a rich and bored society woman who takes a passing fancy to him, much to her regret later.
