

COUPLE CONFESS, HIDEAWAY HOUSE FOUND SPOKANE

Detective, and Patrolman L. B. Gifford.

Detectives Watch Stores Following the discovery here Friday night of 20 ransom bills of various denominations in the receipts of the Walker Bank & Trust company, detectives were placed in various chain stores of the city. Federal officers and police banked on the theory that whoever was passing the bills would attempt to change them in low-priced stores.

At 11 o'clock yesterday morning a blond woman who "had on a house dress such as any housewife might wear" offered a $5 bill in payment for a small purchase. The clerk called the cash girl, who took the currency to the cashier, where it was hurriedly checked and found to agree with a ransom number.

Mrs. Waley was arrested by Rogers and Gifford and taken to the federal building, where after a grilling, she was said to have broken and to have confessed, telling the officers where they might find Waley.

Implicates Mahan Waley was picked up at a house where the couple had been living. He too broke last night and confessed his part in the crime, the department of justice said, implicating Mahan.

Following the announcement by J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of investigation, of the capture of Waley and the woman, police of the northwest concentrated in a hunt for Mahan.

Hoover's announcement said the pair here had made a "full confession," in which they involved Mahan. Mahan, 32, was a blacksmith and mechanic before becoming embroiled with the law, Hoover declared.

He was described as "one of the principals of the case" by the federal officials, who said he is five feet 10 and 3/4 inches tall, weight 166; build, regular; hair, black; eyes, brown; complexion, medium light. Mahan was charged by the department of having at least three aliases, "William Merrill," "William Dainward," "William Morrill" and "William Dinard." He was paroled in 1934 from a two to four year sentence for grand larceny.

Formerly Mahan was reported by Ira J. Taylor, warden of the Idaho state penitentiary, as former inmates of that institution.

"Their records show they were already hardened criminals when they came to this institution," he said last night.

Waley was born in Hoquiam, Wn., his Idaho record shows, and was committed to the prison at Boise when he was 19 years of age on March 12, 1930, and released after serving 15 months of a one to 18-year sentence for first-degree burglary.

Mahan is the son of the late Samuel Rainard and is a native of Kando, N. D. He was committed to the Idaho prison in the fall of 1927 on a bank robbery conviction committed at Rathdrum, in the northern part of the state. He also won a parole.

Weyerhaeuser Gratified "A damned fine piece of work," was the way J. P. Weyerhaeuser, Jr., father of the kidnap victim, described the arrests here. He refused to permit a statement from the boy when he was interviewed at his luxurious home in Tacoma last night.

"I'm just a part of the big American public in this case," Weyerhaeuser said. "Apparently by the papers, it was a damned fine piece of work," and then added ejaculations of "First Great!"

In Salt Lake City today, federal agents resumed their tight-lipped silence. Last night, after the Hoover statement was released from the national capital, E. J. Connelley, agent in charge of the investigation here and at Tacoma, called newspaper men into conference and informed them they would have to obtain all information from the attorney general's office in Washington.

L. D. Wine, agent in charge of the local office of the bureau of investigation, was all smiles when he came to the conference.

"I haven't slept for three nights," he said, "I still have my reports to make out."

Plans for the removal of Waley and the woman to Washington will be speeded, it was indicated, although no intimation of the procedure had been given out. The couple cannot be prosecuted in Utah on any charge. Joseph Clives, Utah attorney general, said the "passing of stolen money is not a crime in this state." According to the state official, extradition papers will have to be filed.

Patrolman Gifford, questioned after the break, said he had learned through a police checkup that a man giving the name of B. E. Cole had rented a house close to the Georgetown section on March 29, paying two months rent in advance. The following day he paid $840 cash for a Ford touring sedan and obtained Utah license plates 119-795 as A. T. Davis, Gifford said.

Ten days later, Cole or Davis, left without picking up deposits which were made as a guarantee of an electric light bill.

Gifford said he believed the man to be Mahan. The car which was found here after Mahan had fled from Butte officers was of the type purchased here and carried the same license numbers.

Grants Pass Coach

LOREN TUTTLE

Loren Tuttle, member of the Oregon State college squad of 1933, is coach of the Grants Pass high school football team.

la now nearing her twentieth birthday. The father said Waley was the son of a foreman in a Weyerhaeuser plant in the Pacific Northwest, but that Waley did not work for the company as his father objected to "hiring relations."

After marrying Waley, Margaret went with her husband to Tacoma where they resided until July of last year, and then moved on to Camden, N. J.

All trace of the couple was lost by the girl's father until the girl called last Wednesday to pay a brief visit at her former home.

Cigarette Case Unfolding It was a 20-cent cigarette case which led to the breakdown of the kidnapers' "air-tight" scheme for getting rid of the ransom bank notes. Edythe Morley, 24, and Marjorie Samuel, 19, attractive clerks in the chain store where Margaret Waley was picked up, revealed the alms store climax of the $200,000 kidnaping.

The woman, hatless, and in a house dress, calmly handed the $5 bill to Miss Morley in payment for the case. With hardly a glance at the bill, Miss Morley handed the money to Miss Samuel, who took it to the cashier where it was identified. A few minutes later the customer was in the hands of justice and the first phase of the Weyerhaeuser manhunt came to a close.

"I got it at Kreska's yesterday," the woman answered when asked by Officer Rogers where she got the money.

"She didn't seem a bit excited," said one of the girls.

But perhaps Margaret Waley didn't know conviction on a kidnaping charge in the state of Washington carries a death penalty.

TOM WHITE, EX-STAR OF TIGER FOOTBALL RETURNS FOR VISIT

Tommy White, Medford high school graduate who held down the quarterback berth on the University of Washington freshman football team until a broken ankle forced him out last year, returned to Medford yesterday to visit his mother, Mrs. Minnie White, and brother Wilton.

"Tommy will not play next year, nursing his ankle for the 1936 campaign. He states that several Medford stars have indicated their intentions of going to the Washington university next fall. Burdette Kindred, powerful tackle whose kicking often saved the day for Medford last year, and Bob Hinman, big wingman, will probably report for practice in September. There is also a possibility that Russ Brown, blocking half, will attend.

A former Medford junior high player, Jim Holmes, who was here in '28, will be a reserve tackle on the varsity next year, Tommy said. Another former Medfordite is prominent on the campus, George Bennett, who took third place in the state oratorical contest in 1931 while a member of the Medford high school debate squad. He was also a member of the glee club here, and a member of the reserve football squad. Bennett is now a prominent member of the Washington glee club, and leads that organization in all their parades.

Plans for the removal of Waley and the woman to Washington will be speeded, it was indicated, although no intimation of the procedure had been given out. The couple cannot be prosecuted in Utah on any charge. Joseph Clives, Utah attorney general, said the "passing of stolen money is not a crime in this state." # WAS UNABLE TO EAT NOW FEELS FINE!

Iowa Man Tells of Wonderful Relief From Stomach Trouble.

Here is a letter of interest to many residents of Medford and vicinity. Elza R. Beck, Mt. Airy, Iowa, writes:

"I have suffered from catarrh of the stomach for a long time. I was unable to eat without food souring on my stomach and my stomach seemed raw. I had severe gas pains and was constipated. While I was in the drug store they asked me to try a bottle of Williams' S.L.K. Formula and after I had taken just one bottle I could eat almost anything and did not have those awful gassy pains and soreness in my stomach. I've tried many other medicines but no other has done the work as has Williams' S.L.K. Formula."

This wonderful medicine is the prescription of a physician for stomach, liver and kidney disorders, associated with constipation, sour or gassy stomach, distress after eating, rich head-ache, neuralgia, rheumatic pain, neuritis, biliousness, dyspepsia, heartburn, general weakness and loss of vitality.

If you suffer, don't wait. See your druggist today at Heald's Drug Store, satisfaction or your money back—(Adv.)

NEW PARDON PLEA SENT GOVERNOR IN BEHALF OF REED

Refiling of the pardon petition for Alvin W. Reed of Denver, Colo., serving life in state prison on conviction of the slaying of Victor Knott, Ashland policeman, on the night of November 18, 1931, has been made. The petition, asking Governor Martin to grant a pardon to Reed was prepared by Attorney Gus Newbury. An opposition brief strenuously opposing any clemency, will be filed by the district attorney.

A similar request was filed last December with former Governor Meier, who took no action, and it automatically expired with his retirement from office.

The pardon petition is based upon the claim that Roy Layman, "willfully swore falsely to convict me," the discovery of new evidence, alleged misconduct of a juror, and errors at law of the court.

It is alleged that Layman, a police officer of Ashland and only eye-witness of the murder, informed several persons he could not identify the slayer, immediately following the crime, but positively identified Reed at the trial. Affidavits of Moore Hamilton, of this city, and Aubrey Miles, Harry Stevenson, T. E. Patterson, and Charles Wimer of Ashland, are quoted, alleging that Layman told them he could make no identification.

The affidavits of Miss Leona Ahlstrom and Ray Murphy of Ashland, holding that Reed was at a hamburger stand, a half mile from the scene of the crime, at the time of its occurrence, are presented.

The asserted acts of a woman juror, in visiting the scene of the crime, and journeying in an auto from Klamath Junction to the murder spot, to determine the time required for the trip, are presented.

Admission by the court of evidence of a burglary in California is also given as grounds for pardon.

Reed was convicted March 1, 1932. He contended in his trial that his traveling companion, Paul McQuade and Lee Jackson, indicted for the same crime, but unapprehended, committed the murder while he (Reed) left them to locate an auto registering station.

The American Legion's amusement center, which was to have opened in the former Marsh grocery store location at 128 East Main street, Saturday evening, could not be made ready in time and definite opening date has now been set for Tuesday.

The amusement center, patterned after similar enterprises in Portland, Salem, Eugene and Klamath Falls, in Oregon, and other cities throughout the coast, will represent a considerable investment and will have a payroll of about $350 per month.

It will not be operated for private gain, according to Legion officials, but is being installed to raise necessary funds for welfare work of the veterans' organization and to obtain a permanent home for the local post.

Those in charge declare the new venture will furnish clean, wholesome amusement for the fun-loving and the investment and payroll will increase as patronage permits.

Chlorinated rubber, a new raw material for use in the paint and varnish industry, has passed the experimental stage and is being produced now in Germany.

STRANGERS MADE NIGHT VISITATIONS NEIGHBORS ASSERT

"Neighbors said 'an old couple,' apparently had been living there for several months, but dust accumulated on two broken-down chairs on the front porch indicated they had not been moved for months.

As late as two weeks ago, neighbors said, a man and a woman, described as 30 years old and blond, together with two men and a small girl named 'Wanda' had been there. One of the men, they said, 'looked to be about 21 years old.' He was tall and blond, and in a general way answered the description of Harmon Waley, who was arrested at Salt Lake in connection with the kidnaping. The woman could have been Mrs. Waley.

The third man, the neighbors said, was tall and dark, and appeared to be about 35 years old. He could have been William Mahan. Who is sought near Butte, Mont., as an accomplice in the kidnaping. The younger couple and the little girl, the neighbors said, stayed at the house sometimes during the day, and the girl, Wanda, played with neighboring children.

The neighbors said several visitors came during the night.

"We noticed them because they would drive in the alley to the garage, and would turn in our yard," they said. "Then they would have to turn around again."

They said they were not suspicious, and "never dreamed that that little boy" was held prisoner next door to them.

The house, in one of the older residential districts of the city, is surrounded by rather old, middle class and smaller homes. The kidnap house, which originally was painted brown, but now is shaded with gray, is flanked by homes of laboring people. The "hideaway" home gives all the appearance of having been vacant, and police expressed amazement that neighbors could see people going in and out without reporting to them.

One of the cars, a Ford sedan, one of the neighbors said, carried a Wyoming license, the number of which they failed to obtain.

MINIATURE TRAIN IN C OF C WINDOW

A model railroad passenger train, complete from cow-catcher and front trucks on the locomotive and the rear coupling on the Pullman car at the end, is on display at the Jackson county chamber of commerce building, in connection with a display of the Southern Pacific system.

Fainstakingly done to minute scale, the train, made by H. H. Mayberry, Southern Pacific telegraph operator of Ashland, measures nine feet and seven inches and took two years for completion. Besides the locomotive and tender, there is a mail and baggage car, a chair car, a diner and a Pullman. An observation car, to be added later, is not yet completed.

The wheels, trucks, drivers, journal boxes, cars, tracks and other details are carved from wood, and painted to represent a real train. An electric motor mounted under the locomotive turns the wheels.

The display will remain in the chamber window all week.

ROOSEVELT SCANS BASKET OF MAIL

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 10.—(AP)—President Roosevelt dug into a basketful of mail and reports at his home today.

The small study room on the ground floor of the family house demanded the president's attention soon after breakfast.

Mr. Roosevelt plans to stay here until Wednesday morning, when he will motor to West Point to present diplomas to the graduating class of the United States military academy.

No callers were on the official engagement list today.

The brief stay home offered opportunity for some rest and relaxation. After church yesterday the president motored over the family estate.

DIAMOND LAKE FISHING GOOD SAYS GUY YOUNG

Fishing is good in Diamond Lake. That is the word brought to Medford today by Guy Young, manager of Lost River, Inc. of this city, who visited the resort over the week-end with his party, and enjoyed good fishing luck.

Mr. Young was accompanied by Mrs. Young and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Stafford.

"The Diamond lake road is in excellent condition," Young said. "The trip is now an easy one and fishing is just coming into its best."

In commenting upon his fishing luck, Young reported that Dave Davis spinners seem to be the most successful lure at this time.

While American motion pictures predominate in the larger theaters in China, low-priced picture houses are supplied almost entirely by Chinese pictures.

MAN CAN TALK WITH GOD, SAYS NOTED PSYCHOLOGIST

A new and revolutionary religious teaching based entirely on the misunderstood sayings of the Galilean Carpenter, and designed to show how we may find, understand and use the same identical power which Jesus used in performing His so-called miracles, is attracting world wide attention to its founder, Dr. Frank B. Robinson, noted psychologist, author and lecturer.

"Psychiana," this new psychological religion, believes and teaches that it is today possible for every normal human being, understanding spiritual law as Christ understood it, to duplicate every work that the Carpenter of Galilee ever did—it believes and teaches that when He said, "the things that I do shall ye do also," He meant what He said and meant it literally to all mankind, through all the ages.

Dr. Robinson has prepared a 6000 word treatise on "Psychiana," in which he tells about his long search for the Truth, how he finally came to the full realization of an Unseen Power on force so dynamic in itself that all other powers and forces fade into insignificance beside it—how he learned to commune directly with the Living God, using this mighty, never-failing power to demonstrate health, happiness and financial success, and how any normal being may find and use it as Jesus did. He is now offering this treatise free to every reader of this paper who writes him.

If you want to read this highly interesting, revolutionary and fascinating story of the discovery of a great Truth, just send your name and address to Dr. Frank B. Robinson, 127 Sixth St., Moscow, Idaho. It will be sent free and postpaid without cost or obligation. Write the Doctor today.—Copyright 1933, Dr. Frank B. Robinson.—Advertisement.

"Let's have a Camel," says Mel Ott, heavy-hitting Giant outfielder, to Harold Schumacher, ace pitcher. They agree that Camels have mildness. Mel says: "I smoke all I want, yet keep in good condition. Camels are so mild, they never get my wind or bother my nerves." And Hal adds: "To my mind that settles it! Camel is the cigarette with real mildness. I'd walk a mile for a Camel!" In baseball, and in all the strenuous sports, leading athletes cite the fact that Camels are mild. And to this impressive evidence of Camel's mildness is added the experience of people in every walk of life who wish to smoke freely and keep fit.

KEEPING FIT IS JUST AS IMPORTANT TO ME AS TO STAR ATHLETES. CAMELS ARE MILD—NEVER JANGLE MY NERVES!

I LIKE TO KEEP IN TOP CONDITION, SO I SMOKE CAMELS TOO. I SMOKE A LOT. CAMELS DON'T GET MY WIND OR RUFFLE MY NERVES.

So Mild! YOU CAN SMOKE ALL YOU WANT!

I PICKED CAMELS LONG AGO. THEY ARE MILD. WITH A FLAVOR THAT SETS THEM APART. NO MATTER HOW MANY I SMOKE THEY NEVER IRRITATE MY THROAT.

I NEED TO KEEP IN GOOD CONDITION, AND I SMOKE CAMELS, TOO. THEY TASTE BETTER—AND WHEN I AM TIRED I GET A LIFT WITH A CAMEL!
