Rogue's Roost Opens to Prominent Guests From San Francisco

The attractive Nion Tucker summer lodge on Rogue river, "Rogue's Roost," was opened during the week by Mr. Tucker, and yesterday Mrs. Tucker joined him there, arriving in the afternoon by plane from San Francisco. Miss Nona Tucker is also at the lodge, having arrived with several guests on the Shasta yesterday.

The guests are Tod Powell of the San Francisco Examiner, Michael Tobin and Robert W. Tobin, Jr., of San Francisco.

Mr. Tucker and his guests will devote the week-end to fishing and attending the state trap shoot here. The Rogue river is becoming increasingly popular as a site for summer homes, with many Californians coming each year. Of all the lodges now on the river, it is said that none are more attractive than "Rogue's Roost."

Officers and Wives Add to Entertainment of Week's Calendar

Always busy in the social calendar, officers of the civilian conservation corps headquarters staff, and their wives have added many interesting events to the week's entertainment.

Beginning the week last Sunday evening, Captain and Mrs. Herman J. Melring invited guests for a buffet supper and evening of bridge, as one of a series of parties being planned this summer. Invitations were received by Major and Mrs. Clare H. Armstrong, Capt. and Mrs. Wm. C. Ryan, Capt. and Mrs. Hjalmar James Key, Dr. and Mrs. John Rose Murray, Capt. and Mrs. Clare Wallace and Lieut. and Mrs. Roy Craft.

Summer flowers lent color and beauty to one of the charming events of the mid-week, when Mrs. Leroy Cronkrite and Mrs. Francis Smith entertained twenty-six at a bridge luncheon Tuesday at the Cronkrite home. Centerpieces of the large table was a bowl of water lilies which shared their loveliness with other arrangements of flowers about the room.

Mrs. Clare H. Armstrong, Mrs. W. H. Driscoll and Mrs. D. E. Wiedman received prizes at the six tables of cards that were in play following luncheon.

Guests were Mesdames Armstrong, G. R. Owen, Ernest William Grunn, Glenn James Key, C. L. Fritze, Albert T. Anderson, Wm. C. Ryan, Mattison, Henry Pace, R. C. Mulholland, T. M. Higgins, W. H. Driscoll, D. E. Wiedman, Guy Sanders, Myron Root, Robert H. Colwell, Andrew Hemstreet, Fred W. Greene, Roy Craft, George Woodall, Clara Wallace, John Ross Murray, Herman J. Melring, Quentin R. Davis and the hostesses.

Walter Leverette Returns From East With Miss Doreen

After a two weeks' trip to St. Louis, Mo., where they attended the graduation of their daughter, Miss Doreen Leverette, from Principia college, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Leverette returned to their home in Medford Wednesday evening.

Besides Doreen and their son, Bruce, who had accompanied his parents east, Mr. and Mrs. Leverette were accompanied on the return trip by Dave Hellyer of Los Angeles, who attended school with Miss Leverette at Principia. He will be a guest of the Leverettes during the summer.

The trip to St. Louis, by train, was described as being uneventful, although they were held up for several hours by storms while traveling through Nebraska.

In St. Louis Mr. Leverette took delivery of a Chrysler Imperial Airflow, in which they all enjoyed motoring back via the Lincoln highway. Although they stopped for a time in Yellowstone national park, they reached Medford in five days, traveling through eastern Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. Leverette, Doreen, Bruce and Mr. Hellyer left yesterday for Lake o' the Woods, where they are spending the week end at the Leverette's summer cabin.

Wives of Trapists Enjoy Bridge and Luncheon at Hotel

While trapshooting enthusiasts from all parts of the far west competed at the Medford Gun club yesterday in the third day of the Oregon State trapshoot, many of their wives who accompanied them here enjoyed a charming bridge luncheon at Hotel Medford.

Fifty-five were present, gathering in rooms decorated with yellow summer flowers and contrasting green foliage.

Hostesses were Mrs. Joseph Terry of San Francisco, whose husband is a representative of the Winchester Arms manufacturers, Mrs. O. O. Alenderfer, Mrs. Jack Porter and Mrs. E. C. Jerome.

Harts Entertain Portland Guests

Arrival of the summer vacation season is of much interest to the many friends in Medford of the bride, the Levereite, from Principia college, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Givan and children of Portland, who were expected to arrive Saturday night. They will spend the week-end visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hart.

The Misses Carlton Return From Beach

After a delightful few days vacation at Gold Beach, where they enjoyed the coast scenery and the exhilarating ocean climate, the Misses Carlton returned to their home near Medford the latter part of the week.

Study Club Enjoys Pre-Vacation Meet

The Travel Study club held a pre-vacation meeting at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Burr on Monday afternoon. The study topic for June was "Panama Canal," and Mrs. F. R. Hagarty brought an excellent paper on that subject. She held of the history and development of the marvelous, gigantic engineering project, which eventually joined the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and proved invaluable to all nations. Of special interest to her hearers was her account of the heroic efforts courageous men put forth in the accomplishment of the greatest of American or European engineering enterprises, of their conquest of yellow fever and malaria by sanitation and by elimination of the mosquito.

Mrs. Hagarty also referred to the difficulties encountered and the tremendous death rate resulting from the building of the first railroad across the isthmus in 1855.

The club was happy to have as guest speaker Miss Mary Martha Sweeney, who had enjoyed a trip to Panama. Miss Sweeney was a pleasing speaker and gave her hearers a feeling of pleasant participation. She entertained the members with an interesting account of her trip through the canal, climatic conditions, customs of the people, ruins of Spanish architecture, plantations and their tropical products.

Of special interest and value was her description of the canal with its three sets of locks, which lift vessels above the sea level. She said that this miracle of engineering construction is capable of carrying the largest vessels yet built, but 30 years hence it will be necessary to enlarge it to meet transportation demands.

Elliott Leaving Today For Visit in Washington
Charles Elliott and his mother, Mrs. Margaret Elliott, are leaving this morning on a motor trip to Dupont, Wash., where they will spend a few days visiting. They will return to Medford via the coast route.

Dorothy Dickey Will Be Wenonah Club Hostess
Dorothy Dickey will be hostess to the Wenonah club on Thursday for the last time this season at the home of Mrs. Frederick Johnson, 2322 East Main, enjoying a covered dish luncheon and excellent program.

During the business meeting the following were unanimously elected to serve during the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Frederick H. Johnson; first vice-president, Mrs. Jack Spalding; second vice-president, Mrs. Myron Root; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Charles W. Lemery; Mrs. Laura West as past president will serve with the officers ex-officio.

Mrs. Glen Fabrick delighted the members by giving a most fascinating and vivid description of interesting places she has visited during the past few months. Combining directness and enthusiasm with a keen sense of humor, she made it possible for her appreciative listeners to get glimpses of interesting parts of Hawaii, the Samoan Islands, Australia, New Zealand, the Malay States, China and Japan. She spoke particularly of the Island of Bali, just east of Java as being a spot of unusual charm, as yet untouched by modern civilization and where the women turn out most exquisite hand work.

Souvenirs of her trip including intricately carved woods and ivories, bakelite, jewelry, fans, embroidered silks, and water colors, made the room look like a colorful Oriental bazaar, and were greatly appreciated by all present.

The club adjourned for the summer, having completed an interesting year's work and anticipating an equally interesting one beginning with the fall meeting.
