

SCOUTS WILL GAIN RICH EXPERIENCE AT BIG JAMBOREE

Imagine inflating the back of the shoulders, of your shirt by blowing into the tube, and thereby securing sufficient buoyancy to support in the water no less than three persons. But this is only one of the new wrinkles developed by the national health and safety service which will be shown at the 30,000 Boy Scouts encamped at their Washington Jamboree, this August. Another method by swimming rescuers, of using things nearest at hand in cases of emergency, will be that of inflating a pair of cotton trousers, and so turning them into a life preserver that likewise will keep three, and perhaps four, people afloat in the water.

The demonstrations in canoeing will be, perhaps, the most thrilling of all. Most people think that only Esquimaux can turn their kayaks entirely over in the water and bring themselves bobbing safely up on the other side, but, at this Jamboree the Boy Scouts will witness exhibitions calling for even greater skill, such as showing how one person, from a canoe two miles off shore, can recover the supposed body of a man from the bottom, and without the loss of the canoe.

Dr. James E. West, chief Scout executive of the Boy Scouts, says that there will be a hundred such intensely interesting demonstrations in the lore and practices of scouting to enrich the knowledge of the 30,000 Scouts who will attend the Jamboree.

Each region and each council is planning to show something unique. In one of these exhibits it is planned to show the visitor every ounce of Scout fire that man has built. Scout who sees one-tenth of the Jamboree camp will take a thousand ideas with him to the troop back home. He will see the performance of many specialists. Texas and Oklahoma have among their delegates some of the best ropers in the country. Maine Scouts are bringing a leader who is the champion wood-chopper of the world.

New Pontiac Adds Equipment To Fill Physician's Needs

Pontiac Motor company has announced "The Doctor's Special" which consists of a coupe with medical equipment to take care of the needs of professional men.

A patented, portable medical case with space for carrying all of the instruments and supplies needed for residential calls is provided. This case fits into a special compartment, right back of the driver's seat. The case is so constructed that the compartment so arranged that all glass containers, bottles, etc., are held upright and secured by metal spring clips. Fragile ampules are carefully protected.

In making public this coupe for medical men, A. W. L. Gilpin, vice president and general sales manager of Pontiac Motor company, said that the company's decision to provide this specialty equipped model was based largely upon an occupational survey of 1933 Pontiac owners.

"A recent analysis of 1933 Pontiac owners by occupations shows that professional men comprise the second largest group of purchasers," said Mr. Gilpin. "In view of the comparatively small percentage of professional men among motor car owners as a whole, the high percentage registered among our owners prompted us to follow up this preferential advantage and provide the doctor a car fitted up for his professional use."

LUMBER INDUSTRY AGAINST NEW NRA

WASHINGTON, June 19—(AP)—Fetters of the lumber industry to accept the new NRA was predicted today in lumber circles.

The prediction was based on the resolutions recently adopted and submitted to the president of the Southern Pine association against extension of the national industrial recovery act. Requesting the president to permit NRA to die, the association, one of the largest in the lumbering industry, made it clear that if NRA were revived that group would have nothing to do with it.

"The action of the Southern Pine association clearly reflects the attitude of the majority of the industry," a lumberman, who asked that his name be withheld, said. "When NRA was first started there was no industry in the country more thoroughly sold on the idea. It seemed the answer to the problems of cutthroat competition which had been harassing the industry for years. There has been a marked change in that attitude."

Swartzlow, naturalist and geologist of the University of Missouri, now stationed at Crater Lake national park, was the main speaker at the regular meeting of the Active club at the Hotel Medford last night. Dr. Swartzlow, who spent several weeks at the Lava Beds national monument in northern California last summer, gave a vivid word story of the interesting Indian war waged in that territory in the early days of the settling of this country.

He described the Modoc war held there, the Bloody Point massacre, the intermittent fighting to return the renegade Captain Jack and his followers to the reservation, and the conditions surrounding the historical spots in the Lava Beds. In the six weeks that he was in the district, studying and exploring, Dr. Swartzlow discovered many points of interest hitherto unknown.

WILLOW SPRINGS VOTES HERD LAW

At a special election held in the Willow Springs precinct, the measure to prohibit stock running at large in the district was carried by a vote of 49 to 12. The registered voters of the precinct is 152, and 61 voters went to the polls.

According to the district attorney's office, the next step will be the formation of a herd district as soon as the law will permit.

A technical question relative to the validity of the Willow Springs district recently arose. A justice court jury, by a verdict in a stock violation case, acquitted the defendant and held that the herd district was abolished by the vote of the people of the county, on a county-wide herd law. The attorney general held the vote did not abolish districts already created. The special election was held to clear the atmosphere and speed the formation of another herd district.

WHEAT CROP AIDED BY COOL WEATHER

Cool weather of the past week has been beneficial to the wheat crop of the Rogue river valley, according to County Agent Robert G. Fowler.

"A hot spell would have curtailed the wheat crop here," Fowler says, adding, "the cool weather helped the kernels to fill out."

In some sections of the valley, the wheat has started to head.

First harvesting of oats and barley is now underway in some districts. Fowler says there will be an average crop of both these grains in the fall varieties.

A large crop of raspberries is predicted by the county agent, who reports the raspberries are just beginning to ripen underneath, and will be ready for picking in another week or ten days.

Cherry shipments in small lots continue to California markets. Reports to the county agent from the Ashland district, show a light crop of cherries.

Hockley Eyes Sewage Bids

As the city is still awaiting word from C. C. Hockley, state PWA engineer, on the possible awarding of contracts for construction of the new sewage disposal plant, no action was taken last night on this matter.

An abstract of the bids recently submitted has been forwarded to Engineer Hockley, and is under consideration in his offices and in Washington, D. C. Attorney Farrell said this morning word is expected within a short time.

Due to increased costs since application for the project was filed by the city, bids submitted were slightly in excess of the amount applied for. City officials pointed out today, however, that by adopting certain alternate construction plans, the bids can be kept substantially within the original price.

Haskins Gets License

Other matters to come before the council included approval of a Package Store class "B" license for Leon B. Haskins, to be applied to his pharmacy at 134 West Main street, allowing him to sell package wines. J. F. Police McCredis issued a two weeks' warning that if not paid before this time, arrests will be made July 2.
