

'LADY FRIEND' OF KING CAROL DOING VIENNA FADEOUT

VIENNA (AP)—Magda Lupescu, King Carol's ginger-bread confidante and frequent companion, has "disappeared."

Confidential information reaching diplomatic circles in Vienna reports that "Bibi," as the romantic king calls his Jewish friend, is no longer seen shopping along the fashionable boulevards of gay Bucharest, accompanied by one of the King's aide-de-camps in civilian clothes. And King Carol, who previously made regular visits to this most talked-of woman in the Balkans, is no longer seen making his way clandestinely to her palatial home in the fashionable Chaussee section of the capital, tucked away in the back seat of a ram-shackle automobile, effectively disguised in nondescript civilian attire, with his hat pulled down over his eyes to defeat detection.

Some Rumors Denied
Some say Madam Lupescu, described by many as the most powerful feminine figure in the Near East since the days of Cleopatra, has sold her magnificent home in the Rumanian capital. It is said she decided, in agreement with the King, to keep entirely out of the public spotlight and to live permanently in Sinala, 75 miles north of Bucharest, the summer home of the Rumanian royal family. She wishes in this way, it is said, to save the King the embarrassment she has caused him in the past by living in the capital.

Others deny that Madam Lupescu has sold her house, explaining that her non-appearance in public is due to her desire to avoid notoriety and to spare her royal lover undue publicity. They say that Carol recently installed in Magda's home in Bucharest one of three magnificent radio-phonographs which the King purchased from a manufacturer of super radio sets in Indiana, at a cost of $1,400 each. The Rumanian sovereign also provided his beloved friend with a superb grand piano, in order to relieve the tedium of Magda's isolated life in her self-imposed isolation in the capital.

Home Sumptuous
Those who recently visited Madam Lupescu at her home in Bucharest describe the house as fit for the Queen of Sheba. The walls are covered with priceless Gobelin tapestries and masterpieces of painting, while the floors are laid with superb Oriental rugs of the "museum-piece" order, and the mantle-pieces and tables bristle with bronze and marble works of art. Princess Helen, the flighty Queen of Rumania and King Carol's divorced wife, never had such an elaborate palace during all the years she was in Bucharest.

In order that "Bibi" may not be too lonely when Carol is away, the King has assigned to his Jewish inamorata, as a protector and companion, one of his aides.

Still Powerful
In spite of the fact that all the most powerful political leaders in Rumania are arrayed against Madam Lupescu, King Carol's friend continues to exercise the most potent power in the affairs of the country. She is said still to be Chief of the Court Camarilla, which controls all great public undertakings, awards contracts, directs appointments and promotions in the army and government, and generally exercises the function of a super-cabinet.

More significant than anything else, Madam Lupescu has the much feared Umanian fascist organization, the "Iron Guard," behind her, although that is an anti-Jewish body. This protection is due, according to reports in Bucharest, to the fact that she has having befriended and given asylum to the Chief of the Iron Guard, Colonel Zelea Codreanu, when the latter was wanted by the police after the assassination at Sinala of the late Ion Duca, who was prime minister of Rumania.

Benson Dancers Will Appear On Distant Stages

Following the last successful recital by versatile pupils of Eve Benson's dancing studio, several requests from out of town have been received for a repeat of the entertainment, which will be given at Ashland and Yreka next week end.

A part of the program to be reproduced follows:
Ballad—a combination of serpen-tine and tap work, by seven dancers.
Jazz Toe, by a young lady who is as much at ease on the tiptoe as any-one else flat-foot.

Two tap numbers in smart style by the synopators, Geofusa and Geofine in eccentric movements.
The real French Apache which was so splendidly executed by Jewel Deter and Jimmy Foster.

Eight little Penguins will give an amusing performance, in costumes.
Acrobatic stunts together with a few movements in adagio.
Subway for Cleveland?
CLEVELAND (UP)—A civic committee was being formed here to launch an intensive campaign for a $40,000,000 downtown subway system for Cleveland. The program will be planned as a federal public works project under terms of a resolution passed by city council.
