

$27,000 SHOVEL IS WRECKED IN DRIVE OFF LAKE RIM RD

A 50-ton steam shovel being delivered to Von Der Hellen & Pearson, road contractors in Crater Lake national park, became unmanageable Friday afternoon and plunged off the Rim Road near Kerr Notch, carrying two air compressors with it down a 60-foot embankment.

Geo. H. Shore, representative of the Shaw Manufacturing Co. of Leaning, Ohio, makers of the shovel, who, according to reports from the park, was at the controls, sustained minor injuries when he jumped just before the heavy piece of machinery left the road.

In backing the shovel down the road to the compressors the machine got out of control, coasted into the compressors, sweeping them with it over the embankment.

Reports of the accident said the shovel is valued at $27,000 and the two compressors at $300 each. Extent of the damage had not been estimated yesterday, it was said.

Reports from the park said the big shovel, one of the heaviest pieces of equipment ever taken into the park, had been unloaded from a railroad car at Kerr, Ore., and taken into the park by Shore and Fred Thompson and Walter Lundberg, the latter two employed by the contractors. Shore, it was said, decided to blow the dust off the shovel with air supplied by compressors located in a wide place on the road a short distance from Kerr Notch.

The Scouts are busy from the first call in the morning to "taps" at night. Reveille is at 6:45, inspection at 7:15 and colors at 7:35 with breakfast following. Each morning a work period is a part of the program, with all participating to keep the camp clean.

Scouts have shown considerable enthusiasm for the advancement program. A large number of Scout tests have been completed during the first week. The morning swim is at 11:15 and afternoon at 4. During the week seven Scouts have been advanced from the beginners or "sink swim" class to swimmers capable of swimming at least 50 yards.

SCHOLARSHIPS TO 4 MEDFORD GIRLS BY STATE BOARD

Four Medford girls were yesterday awarded limited scholarships to attend institutions of Oregon's system of higher education, by the board of higher education. The four were Lois Speaker and Barbara Richmond Holt, to attend the Southern Oregon Normal at Ashland; Dorothy Jane Burgess to attend the University of Oregon; and Margaret E. Younger, who will attend Oregon State college at Corvallis.

The scholarships were granted only to "that group of high quality young men and women who experience real difficulty in attending college without financial aid." They are for the year 1935-1936 and exempt the recipients from tuition fees and laboratory charges amounting to $54 a year at the university and college and $18 at normal schools.

There were 145 granted scholarships out of a list of 457 applications made, according to G. D. Byrne, secretary of the board of higher education. The grants were made upon the recommendation of the high school contacts committee of the board in accordance with a new law permitting the granting of such scholarships in number not to exceed 2 per cent of the enrollment of the respective institutions.

Parul Pastov, former official of the City Soviet, was one of the condemned. Nine others, including two women, were sentenced to varying terms of forced labor.

Scheduled air lines in the United States established a record by flying 24,134,955 passenger-miles in March.

SNOW FALLS OVER MOUNTAIN AREAS

High places throughout Jackson county were whitened with snow Friday night and Saturday in a storm that brought exceedingly unusual conditions for late June.

The forest service reported that from one to two inches of snow fell in the Dead Indian and Butte Falls districts, and that it was still snowing on those places Saturday. Lookouts that reported snow on the high buttes Friday night were Heraberg, Robinson Butte, Beale Rock, Derrig's Peak, Rustler Peak, and Blue Rock.

Much of the precipitation was in form of a cold rain, which fell heavily near Wagner gap, according to the forest service. Offials said that owing to the fact that the rainfall was light in the lower country, the forest fire hazard has not been relieved.

STORES TO CLOSE ALL DAY FOURTH

Citizens of Medford and Jackson county are reminded that the stores of Medford will be closed all day, Thursday, July 4th, it was reported by Chamber of Commerce officers yesterday. Kansas supplies more volcanic ash, used for abrasives, scouring powder and soaps, than any other state—and never had a volcano.

EX-ASHLAND MAN'S WALLET IN STOLEN SUIT IS RECOVERED

OAKLAND, Cal., June 29.—(AP)—When three men in a sedan bought five gallons of gasoline at a service station today they offered C. J. Beck, attendant, two boxes of clothing as payment. Beck accepted.

After his customers departed, he searched pockets in the clothing and discovered a wallet containing $37 and numerous letters addressed to Luther Asul, Ashland, Ore. Beck notified police, who said the clothing probably had been stolen.

A checkup by Ashland city police last night revealed that Asul left Ashland about two years ago, retired on a pension from the Postal Telegraph company. No one in Ashland could be found who knows his present address. He lived for five years at the Butler apartment house. A friend there has corresponded with Asul intermittently for the past few years, but always addressed the letters to "general delivery" in various California cities.

H. Chandler Egan, nationally famous golf veteran, who once held the national title and was a member of the Walker cup team last year, returned Saturday from the Pacific Northwest Amateur at Seattle, well satisfied with his performance although he was eliminated three and two by Dick Haskell.

"It was the best Northwest tournament I have seen, with practically every strong entrant who was eligible taking part," said Egan, who has held the Northwest Amateur title no less than five times, last winning it in 1932. "I did better than I expected," he said, "and played fine golf but for a few troublesome details." Egan is entitled to participation in all Northwest Amateur tournaments through membership in several clubs affiliated with the Pacific Northwest Golf association.

ACTION ON POWER BILL THIS WEEK IS POLITICAL TEST

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(AP)—The 74th congress ended its first six months today with many members politically at sea and the bulk of the New Deal program still awaiting final action.

To what extent President Roosevelt remains master of the situation, as he had been in general since winning the opening two-month dispute over the $4,880,000,000 work relief appropriation, will be evidenced by house action next week on the utility bill.

Whatever the outcome, developments this week indicated anew that principles rather than parties may dominate 1936 campaigning. How those principles will be stated depends on New Deal fortunes from now on in the supreme court, at the capitol and economically.

With the public debt having increased to almost $28,686,000,000 since January, and the current fiscal year deficit at $3,472,000,000, it is taken for granted that the treasury situation will figure.

The tax program already is material for a major issue. Dissatisfaction with it as a budget balancing factor is evident on the one hand as a wealth distributor on the other, both for the same reason—that the levies suggested would bring negligible returns.

Resigned to hot weeks of tax debate, some house and senate quarters, contemplate with even less relish the impending decisions on the utility and Guffey coal bills, banking reform and the AAA and TVA amendments.

Political uncertainties are a reason for the current fiscal year deficit at $3,472,000,000, it is taken for granted that the treasury situation will figure.
