

BETTER PROSPECT AS FARMERS LOOK TOWARD HARVEST

of the year are not bright, official expectations being that it will remain at about the present level. Production of all crops this year is indicated at considerably above the record low levels of 1934 and because of this it may be anticipated that the average level of farm commodity prices will tend to adjust itself to the increased supplies in the latter months, the bureau of agricultural economics says. It adds that the increased marketings, even at lower prices per bushel and per pound, probably will maintain the income level.

No large increase in export demand for American farm products is expected during the latter half of the year despite trade treaties and other efforts at stimulation. Trade experts hold that while these have only a slight effect and a large potential ability to restore trade now, considerable more time will be required to break down foreign resistance to American farm exports.

Wheat production is estimated at 670,000,000 bushels compared with 496,469,000 bushels last year and 860,570,000 for the 1928-32 average. Corn production is expected to be slightly below the five-year average but considerably above last year's crop, although much of it may be soft due to poor growing conditions now being encountered in parts of the corn belt.

Oats production is forecast at 1,200,000,000 bushels compared with 528,815,000 bushels last year and 1,217,646,000 bushels for the five year average.

FILM MEN DIE IN 'SAFE' ASSIGNMENT

LOS ANGELES, July 1.—(AP)—He had flown over volcanic craters in Alaska, over the Alps, into the remote jungles of Africa and into the Arctic—yet it was "the safest kind of assignment" that led Charles Stumar, Jr., 40, ace cameraman, to his death.

A coroner's jury was to hear, probably this afternoon, how Stumar and Harrison Wiley, 35, motion picture art directors, met their deaths Saturday night when their airplane crashed on an improvised landing field near Trifunio.

The two men were employed by Universal studios and had gone to the remote landing field to inspect the site as a set for their next picture. In landing, the plane nosed over, the engine being forced back into the cabin, crushing the two men to death.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE AT WILLIAMS CREEK

WILLIAMS CREEK, July 1.—(Spl.) Prosperity has ventured to peep around the corner at Provolt. The schoolhouse was recently repainted and other repairs made with SERA funds. Last week Roy Williams, who runs the telephone exchange, put an entire new front on his house, with a porch, painted it cream and green, and put up a new fence across his lot.

This week, extensive remodeling and improving is being done on the Provolt store building, owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Deemer. The entrance has been changed to the road side of the building and the original doorway closed. All the old counters and showcases are being replaced with shelves and the store is being modernized. The walls are covered with wallboard painted white, with cream ceiling; new floor is being laid and a meat room is being constructed at the rear of the building. Chas. Pista and C. W. Roberts are doing the work.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cougle are papering and painting their house, and Lester Hill is painting his house white, trimmed in green. Erny Stone recently built a shop and work-house on his property.

FIREWORKS BAN IN NATIONAL FOREST WILL BE ENFORCED

With the official opening of the forest fire season July 1, Fourth of July celebrants and campers were reminded today by the forest service that no fireworks can lawfully be shot off within the boundaries of Rogue River national forest. All violators of forest rules will be prosecuted, according to forest officials.

All campers in the woods, whether or not in the national forest, should carry an axe, a shovel and a bucket, and these implements are required for those who camp within the forest bounds, except when camp is pitched at spots designated as forest camps. Fire permits are required with the same exception.

Motorists are required, under the law, not to smoke while traveling through the national forest, and only at safe spots when stopped. A state law prohibits throwing away any burning material while traveling along any road or highway.

Forest officials stated today that the timber is as dry already as is usually the case in the latter part of the fire season. The hundreds of southern Oregon residents who are expected to take to the woods for the Fourth are urged by the forest service to exercise the utmost caution.

TOWNSEND CHIEFTAIN DENIES ORGANIZATION IS OPPOSING MARTIN

PORTLAND, Ore., July 1.—(AP)—Oregon's Townsend Plan clubs, as such, are neither endorsing nor opposing Governor Charles H. Martin, and except in so far as officials who have taken a direct stand on the question are concerned the Townsend organizations will take no part in local politics.

Such was the gist of the radio talk given today by C. E. Hansen, state manager for the revolving pension plan clubs.

A definite statement of the Townsend adherents' attitude toward Governor Martin was promised several days ago, following the circulation of various reports that the organization was to go on record directly opposing the executive. Hansen, in his talk today, read a letter from Dr. Francis E. Townsend, originator and national leader of the plan which bears his name, in which it was asserted that clubs were to take no part in individual politics in regards to officials other than those who the Townsend organization believed had repudiated pre-election pledges to support the $200-per-month pension idea.
