

FOUR BILLION FOR EDUCATION URGED BEFORE TEACHERS

Government Should Assume Half of Cost Says Columbia University Professor at Convention of N. E. A.

DENVER, July 2.—(AP)—America's million teachers were told in a briefing address by Prof. Jesse H. Newlin of Columbia University, that they should number two million and their two billion dollar annual budget should be doubled.

Prof. Newlin, director since 1927 of the Lincoln School of Teachers college at Columbia, spoke to the National Education association convention.

A third of 12,000 delegates sought seats in the general session while three score allied study and discussion groups spread over this mile-high city for five days of intensive activity.

Need Enlightened Curriculum.
"Build a socially enlightened curriculum," admonished Prof. Newlin, saying, "Education should be deliberately employed for the preservation and for the realization of democracy."

"The United States," he said, "is simply able to provide, even in these depression years, four billion dollars annually for schools and can afford nothing less. The national government should immediately assume one-half of the total cost of public elementary, secondary and higher education. The contribution of the national government should be immediately fixed at not less than one billion dollars and increased over a relatively brief period of years to two billions."

Individualism Fading.
Prof. Newlin asserted "the age of laissez faire individualism is closing although the National (so-called) Liberty league and the so-called 'grass-roots' may not know it. . . . Democracy demands that human welfare be put above profits. . . . The great task of the school is no longer preparing the individual to compete for pecuniary success in a highly competitive society, for we no longer live in a highly competitive society."

"It is primary task," he said, "to give the individual a realistic understanding of society."
"Let someone raise the bogey of indoctrination, let me emphasize that this does not mean that a detailed blueprint of a new social order should be taught in the school, nor that the school should be employed as an instrument of propaganda. . . . On the other hand, the school cannot should not, and will not, be neutral in the struggle of social forces now going on in this country."
Later the educator said, "Let no one tell you it is unpractical to advocate amendments to the constitution."

Teachers Have Right.
"The teachers of this country have as much right to be heard and as great an obligation to participate in the making of vital political, economic and social decisions as have the organized farmers, or organized labor, or the United States chamber of commerce," Prof. Newlin asserted, "but our lance must always be on the processes of democracy and education, on the good will and good sense of the American people."

Meanwhile the association's legislative committee drafted a report requesting congress to enact a permanent federal aid plan expending 300 million dollars annually.

The federal aid figure represents $10 annually for each of an estimated 30 million American public school children.

This expenditure, Hall pointed out, is in addition to another 300 million dollar request for public works funds for construction of schools. That would serve as an emergency program.

The permanent fund, he explained, would be used in operating elementary and high schools and would be distributed among the states according to their wealth and numerical requirements.

15,200 IS DEATH TOLL OF AUTO IN FIRST HALF YEAR

300,000 Injured—Total Is Two Per Cent Under Same Period Last Year—Last Half Always Worst

HARTFORD, Conn., July 2.—(AP)—A toll of 15,200 deaths and 300,000 hurt in automobile crashes in the United States during the first six months of 1935 was reported today by the Travelers' Insurance company in a nation-wide survey.

The number of deaths is about 2 per cent less than for the first six months of last year, the report shows. Complete revised figures have not been received from all states.

Deaths from automobile accidents have been 34 per cent greater in the last half of the year than in the first, during the last four years. The company estimates that should this hold true this year, the total number of casualties would reach 35,000.

"Such records are available for the first half of the year," the report said, "show an increase of almost 13 per cent in the number of drivers under the influence of liquor who were involved in accidents, and also an increase of 10 per cent in the number of pedestrians under the same influence, also in accidents."

Eight thousand of those killed were pedestrians slightly more than in the first half of 1934. Nearly 3100 persons were killed in automobile collisions.

Almost 500 persons lost their lives in the collision of automobiles and trains. The percentage of such deaths is appreciably in excess of the first half of 1934.

More than 1500 were killed in the collision of automobiles with fixed objects and nearly 1500 also met death in non-collision accidents. Both totals are less than during the corresponding period last year.

ASHLAND PARADE ROUTE GIVEN FOR MORNING OF 4TH

ASHLAND, July 2.—(Sp.)—The route to be taken by the various units of the Fourth of July parade, set for 10 a. m. Thursday, was announced Monday by Dr. W. J. Crandall, chairman of the parade committee.

All the participants, from Grand Marshall Fred Homes in the front to the group of horsemen in the rear including the children, will form on Van Ness and Helman streets and enter North Main street via Helman, marching from there to the Junior high school, where they will make a reverse turn and disband at the East Main street intersection.

Although final details of the parade, including the exact number of entries, are still being worked out by Dr. Crandall and his committee, a tentative line of march has been established.

Fred Homes and his horse will lead the march, followed by Ward V. Croft and his city band. Three national guard units, several fraternal orders, the "40 & 8" train with its load of bathing beauties, the children's section, Boy Scouts and homeboys, will follow in the order named.

Dr. Crandall's committee includes Art Cooper, Robert Dodge, Lee Ryan and Capt. Clyde Young.

Dodge, in charge of the children's section, announces that more kiddies are wanted for the commercial division and are requested to sign up at the chamber of commerce.

GRANTS PASS, July 2.—(Sp.)—Roseburg's 100-piece high school band will be in Grants Pass Saturday, July 6, to participate in the Eagles' parade and to present a concert in the evening. Claud Gotshall, general chairman of the Eagles' convention committee, announced Monday.

The parade will be a highlight of the entire convention, which will be held here July 4, 5 and 6. There will be three municipal bands in the parade, besides the Roseburg high school group and more than 12 Eagles drum corps and drill teams.

The Saturday parade, which will begin at 11 a. m. at the Pulton auto court in North Grants Pass, will be for Eagles alone, with the Roseburg group and the municipal bands participating.

The line of march will be as follows: Beginning at the Pulton auto court, south along the highway to G street; west to Fifth street; south to H street; east to Sixth street; north to G street; east to Seventh street; west to Sixth street; south to the Cavanaugh Rogie river bridge.

The Fourth of July parade, Thursday morning, will follow the same line, instead of the one previously announced. This parade will be for marching bodies of all organizations wishing to participate and Gotshall urges that those intending to take part notify him at once.

MEDFORD PILOTS HAVE FLOWN FAR

Four Medford pilots of United Air Lines today were revealed as members of what probably ranks as one of the most exclusive organizations in the world—a "millionaire-air" club in which a million dollars cannot buy a membership.

To be eligible for membership in the club a pilot must have completed 1,000,000 miles or more of flying. Forty of United's 150 veterans who fly the company's routes between Medford, Seattle, California and the east already have qualified. Those flying through Medford are Ralph Virden, Heber C. Miller, Grover Tyler and Herschel V. Laughlin. Several of the "millionaire-air" members who began flying the air mail in 1918, 1919 and 1920 have well in excess of a million miles.

The average individual experience of United's entire flying staff is approximately 7,000 hours, or the equivalent of approximately 900,000 air miles.
