Modernized for "Community Value"

The two photographs show how an outmoded Montclair (N. J.) house was transformed into an up-to-date residence. The property was placed on exhibition immediately following completion of the repair work and was sold within five days. While the work was not financed under the modernization credit plan, it is a graphic example of the "sales appeal" produced by intelligent modernization. New paint, removal of the outmoded porch, landscaping, the inclusion of a side porch, and general repairs to the interior transformed a "dead" property into a much-desired structure. Several persons attempted to purchase the house soon after it was placed on exhibition.

THE EMBATTLED CRY OF AMERICA'S AROUSED YOUTH

". . . get 'em and let 'em have it!"

Starting Today!

From an oil-stained glove . . . they learned where their man was . . . who he was with . . . and the name of his hideout . . . !

From the worn heel of a woman's shoe . . . they drew a picture of the woman . . . and learned the name of his moll . . . !

And with these UN-USUAL clues, they went out and

LET 'EM HAVE IT

Fighting youth swings into action . . . alert, powerful, relentless! Heaping cold science upon flames of courage . . . determined that gangdom must go!
