Covered Wagon Bread!

LET'S turn the pages of history back to the early fifties... The smoke from the homesteader's little cabin is lazily drifting across the ravine where the sound of the ax marks the gradual widening of the little clearing into a farm. As evening draws near the little thread of smoke takes on a different meaning for with it comes a tantalizing aroma—it's time to go home—Mother has baked bread. Tomorrow we offer you that same old-time delicious bread—baked as of old from the same ingredients—mashed potatoes and everything. You will like the old-time flavor and goodness—will envy the genius of the Pioneer housewife whose skill produced such goodness without the aid of modern materials and conveniences.

Covered Wagon Bread 1 lb. Loaf 8c

Burnt Leather Cake 25c-49c

A pioneer delicacy baked from the recipe furnished by Aunt Louisa Applegate.

Brown Sugar Cookies Doz. 10c

When molasses was hard to get the Pioneer housewife worked miracles with brown sugar. Here is one of them.
