

TOURIST TRAFFIC AT CRATER PARK SHOWS INCREASE

A growing demand of the eastern tourist for the best in hotel accommodations and dining service, and incidentally the demand is centering this year at only the most attractive vacation spots the country affords, is being met with a welcome at Crater Lake national park by Crater Lake Hotel company.

Richard W. Price, manager, who cited figures which show a remarkable increase in tourist visitations, expects, despite the lateness of the season, one of the best years since the beginning of operation of the famed Crater Lake lodge.

The demand is only for the best, according to Mr. Price. Visitors at the lodge, the great majority of whom are from the larger cities east of the Mississippi river, never "shop" for accommodations, but want and expect the utmost in service. Remarks from concession owners along tourist routes in all sections of southern Oregon indicate a similar trend this year.

During the week just past, when fine weather added to the success of business, Mr. Price stated that there was a 40 per cent increase in patronage of the lodge. Due to the lateness of the season figures have not yet reached their usual mid-summer totals, but indications are that the best business in years is forthcoming during the ensuing two months.

For several weeks past the lodge has been filled to capacity regularly as the cycle of tourist travel reaches a peak on Mondays and again in the latter part of each week. Comings and goings have kept not only the regular hotel staff busy, but have been exceptionally gratifying in the popular lodge dining room, where the food and service is one of the hotel company's most attractive features.

Travel which totaled 14,320 visitors from July 1 to July 15 only, comparing very favorably with former banner years, has brought increased business also to the hotel company's cafeteria, where overnight guests, who last week occupied every available cabin in the camp ground, take most of their meals.

Under Mr. Price's management rowboats are rented for casual pleasure rides or fishing trips on the lake. Regular launch cruises are conducted each day with a ranger aboard for a descriptive travelogue as the large boat makes its way around the water's edge, or to Wizard Island.

Fishing this year is exceptionally good. Quantities of silverhead and rainbow trout planted in the lake years ago have reached a size that gives even the veteran sportsman a thrill when they strike with a crash and give battle, taking many an angler's tackle.

A fishing license is not required at the lake under national park regulations. The limit is eight fish per day.

GEORGE C. GARRETT CALLED BY DEATH

George Culver Garrett, resident of Medford for the past 25 years, and of the Rogue River valley since 1877, passed away quietly at the family residence, 428 South Oakdale avenue, Monday at 7 p. m., after an illness of the past four months.

Mr. Garrett was born at Springfield, Mo., February 17, 1865, where he spent his early childhood, and when 12 years of age came to this section with his parents. He attended school here, and later met Miss Frances Rader, and they were united in marriage at Eagle Point, Ore., in 1891, having been married for over 44 years. Mr. Garrett, a man of fine Christian character, and a friend to everyone, will be missed by a host of friends. He was a member of the Sacred Heart Catholic church.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Sacred Heart Catholic church Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. Rev. Father Francis W. Black officiating. Interment will take place in the Skagway Memorial park. Rosary will be held at the Per Funeral Home this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

WM. BAILEY DIES IN JACKSONVILLE

William Bailey passed away at the Jacksonville sanitarium, July 22, 1935, after a lingering illness. He leaves to mourn his departure, his wife, Mrs. Mattie Bailey, who is in the Jacksonville sanitarium, one grandson, Gordon Turner of this city, one brother, J. L. Bailey of Merrill, Ore., and one half-brother, E. R. Bailey of Pennsacola, Fla.

Funeral services will be conducted from the graveside in the Medford 1. O. F. cemetery Wednesday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock, with Per Funeral Home in charge.

YOUTH IS ACCUSED OF WRONGING GIRL

Glen Watson, 19, charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor girl, arrested yesterday, waived a preliminary hearing in justice court this morning and was released on his own recognizance, pending action by the grand jury. Watson had been held on $1000 bonds, pending an investigation of the case, which is highly involved.

The complaint alleges that Watson kept the miss out all night, gave her intoxicating liquor (beer), and that representations were made the pair were married.

Ray Alexander Daniels, of Beatty street this city, was fined $5 and costs, on a plea of guilty to having improper lights on his auto.

PREFERS CITY BASTILE TO TAKING TRAIN RIDE

Either the freight train riding isn't so hot these days, or L. C. Stone, transient, like the looks of the city jail, for he's back there today after promising to leave yesterday on "the first freight train out," when given that alternative against 10 days in jail on conviction of a charge of being drunk in a public place.

Not caring to spend the 10 days in the kink, Stone promised to leave, but neglected to do so, sneaking into the transient bureau shelter here last night, and going to bed, according to city police. The night watchman at the shelter discovered him and notified the officers, who installed him in a cell to start his 10 day sentence.

LOST LICENSE PLATES AT POLICE STATION

The city police have refused a suggestion that they pair up the stray 1935 license plates that have been turned in at the police station, and announced today that they have such plates on hand, lost by motorists who don't know where to find them. The owners may have them merely by calling at the station.

CANNING CLASSES BY COUNTY HOME AGENT ARE ENDED

Last of the series of canning demonstrations held for the homemakers of Jackson county was given at the courthouse auditorium Friday, with 125 homemakers attending, representing Medford, Central, Point, Phoenix, Ashland, Trail, Jacksonville, Oak Grove and Griffin Creek communities. Visitors were also registered from La Grande, Portland and Nebraska.

The demonstration, given by Mrs. Mabel C. Mack, county home demonstration agent, included canning of meats, vegetables and fruits in the pressure cooker, and use of the tin can sealer in canning in tin. Mrs. Mack was assisted by Miss Grace Smith, rural rehabilitation agent.

Mrs. Mack also discussed the causes of food spoilage and the factors in successful canning, emphasizing sound, fresh products, two hours from garden to the can for vegetables, cleanliness, adequate heat for sterilization, and a perfect seal.

Tests for jars and lids and tin cans to insure a perfect seal were explained. To insure adequate heat for thorough sterilization of the food, Mrs. Mack recommended that all vegetables be packed hot and processed in a pressure cooker, if possible. The high temperature obtained by use of the pressure cooker will destroy bacterial spores that cannot be destroyed at boiling temperature. This is particularly true of the botulinus spore.

Due to the fact that spoilage cannot always be detected by either appearance or odor, all non-acid vegetables, meat or fish should be boiled 20 minutes after opening jar or before tasting. This rule should never be violated if the product is canned by hot water bath or other methods, and is an added precaution for pressure-cooker canning.

Tomatoes due to the acid content are classified as fruit and do not need to be reheated. In discussing common difficulties in canning, many questions were asked on how to prevent loss of liquid in the jars, causes of spoilage, time for processing and use of pressure cooker.

At the close of the demonstration copies of the new extension bulletin No. 479 on Home Food Preservation were distributed and Mrs. Mack called attention to the sections on common difficulties in canning, time tables for canning, use of pressure cooker, and methods of drying, storing and curing meats.

Canning demonstrations were also given last week at Eagle Point, Rogue River and Ashland.

TAX FORECLOSURE FILED NEXT WEEK

The decree of foreclosure for delinquent taxes, containing between 300 and 600 names of Jackson county property owners, will be filed the first of next week, according to the district attorney's office. Upon the filing of the decree, under Oregon law, the sheriff will post ten days' notice. When this period expires foreclosure sale starts.

The original delinquent tax list published last April contained 1162 names, but payments, according to sheriff Syd L. Brown, have reduced this by half. Many took advantage of the tax law provision, permitting six months grace by payment of 10 per cent. The majority of the payments, according to the sheriff's office, were in full. A considerable number of non-rented delinquents remained.

It is now estimated that the delinquent tax list is the lowest it has been in several years.

Home Renovation Booklet Offered Free By Pinkham

Working in harmony with the federal government's effort to revive the heavy industries, the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine company is encouraging home renovating and building by printing and distributing ten million booklets entitled "Let's Fix Up the House."

This is a 32-page booklet with many illustrations and an attractive cover in two colors. The first page explains briefly how home owners may borrow money for repairs under the federal housing act. The rest of the booklet contains practical suggestions for the spending of this money to the best advantage. Surely every home owner can find some new and usable idea among the many listed.

Not in the value of this booklet confined to those who own their homes. It also contains helpful suggestions for home decoration arranged under such captions as "Seven Ways to Make a Room Look Larger," "Color in the Home," "A Room for a Boy," "Lighting Your Home," "Your Bedroom Closet," etc. All these ideas are just as useful to tenants as they are to home owners. The Pinkham Medicine company, which has published thirty million booklets a year for many years expects this to be one of its most popular numbers.

"Let's Fix Up the House" will be distributed from door to door in every city of the United States and most of the towns. Approximately three thousand local distributors will be employed and the completion of the campaign will take about four months. Readers who cannot wait for the distribution to reach Medford, may obtain a free copy by writing direct to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. at Lynn, Mass.

M. E. CHURCH EPWORTH DELEGATION RETURNS WITH INSTITUTE CUP

Rev. Joseph Knotts, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church returned yesterday from attendance at the Little River Epworth League institute, held July 15 to 22, on the institute grounds on Little River, 30 miles east of Roseburg.

Rev. Knotts, Laurel Morris, Dwight Short and Marvin Burk left July 9th and spent some time in assisting to prepare the grounds. About 100 young people of southwestern Oregon were registered.

Others attending from here were Mrs. George Douglas, chaperone, the Misses Joyce and Ruth Banish, Beth Gillings, Dorothy Vandemark, Phyllis Smith and Luella Corn, and Riley Cook.

Week enders were Miss Mildred Walker, Miss Janet Trill, Bill Walker and Howard Poffenberger. Mr. Chirgwin and George Douglas furnished conveyance, each making two trips to and from the grounds.

Rev. Knotts was the evening inspirational speaker throughout the institute, and preached the institute sermon Sunday morning.

He is a trustee of the institute and member of the institute commission. Marvin Burk was elected a member of the commission, Miss Ruth Banish, secretary of the student body and Miss Phyllis Smith, treasurer.

In the awards of the institute the Medford group placed third in "camp beautiful," 100 per cent in certificate awards, and received the silver loving cup for having obtained the highest number of points in the year's efficiency schedule which is something much coveted by the young people.

The institute was one of the finest and most successful ever held and the inspiration received will mean much to the young people in their church work through the coming year.

NAB ENRIGHT ON RECKLESS CHARGE

T. J. Enright, local attorney twice convicted on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, was arrested last night by city police on a charge of reckless driving. After the police patrol car, according to the officers' report, had followed him for several blocks, as the Enright machine was "zig-zagging" back and forth across the highway, and that he (Enright) had had considerable difficulty in maneuvering his machine close enough to a gasoline pump to get fuel, shortly before his arrest.

A physician examined Enright for signs of drunkenness, and recommended to the police that the reckless charge, and not a drunken driving one, be placed against him.

Enright is cited to appear in city court before Judge Allen D. Curry, at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

RAIN A BENEFIT TO FRUIT CROPS; WILL DAMAGE HAY

The silver lining in the clouds hanging over the valley this week is that the moisture will be of untold benefit to the fruit crops, according to fruitmen today, who were unanimous in their opinion that the rain will freshen the trees, conserve irrigation water for the hotter season, and provide moisture at a time when the pears are beginning to take shape slowly.

Most of the spraying is now finished, and the growers will not spray again until just before the Bartlett crop is ready for picking, some time between the 12th and 20th of August, almost a month later than last year. The thought that a hard rain at this time would wash away the spray already applied was laughed away as "preposterous" by the growers today.

County Agent Fowler is out of the city until Thursday, so no statement could be procured as to the actual damage to hay crops caught down by the rains, but attaches at his office stated today that there was certainly some damage from that cause.

Prominent end of the valley to the other, hay was down, some of it shocked, and some freshly cut and lying in the fields. Some wheat, and other small grains, were also down, and it was feared that a good percentage of this would be damaged by mould before it could be salvaged.

TWO MEDFORD BOYS ACCEPTED BY ARMY

According to word just received from San Francisco by the army recruiting office here, Walter R. Atkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Atkins, route 2, Medford, and Wesley A. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe L. Brown, 315 Ashland avenue, were enlisted in the U. S. army for the coast artillery and medical department, respectively, in the Hawaiian Islands.

Both are temporarily stationed at San Francisco pending departure of the army transport for the Hawaiian Islands. Many vacancies for both foreign and domestic service are still available for interested young men, according to the army recruiting offices.

RED CROSS OPENS SWIMMING CLASS AT NAT JULY 29

A swimming and life-saving campaign for children and adults will be held in Medford by the Jackson county chapter of the American Red Cross, July 29 to August 7th. Persons desiring the free instruction are requested to enroll at once at the Red Cross office or Merrick's Natatorium.

The classes, open to swimmers and non-swimmers alike, will be held at Merrick's. An expert instructor will be here to represent the Pacific branch of the American Red Cross at San Francisco.

Edwin H. Carroll, director of first aid and life-saving in the Pacific area, says the life-saving service of the Red Cross observes its 21st birthday this year. In the 21-year period millions of persons have received instruction in swimming. Close to 600,000 of this number have become so proficient in their ability to swim, and to aid others in distress, that they have qualified for life-saving certificates.

The National Red Cross now has 9000 life-saving examiners, which includes practically all the leaders in swimming throughout the United States, who gladly devote their time as volunteers to the training of beginners and advanced students in the art of swimming.

Mr. Carroll points out that national statistics show there has been a marked reduction in the death rate from drowning since the Red Cross began intensive work on its water safety program.
