

LOGGING TIMBER THIS SIDE BUTTE FALLS, NEW PLAN

When the workmen have the equipment in condition, probably in about two weeks, the new Medford corporation, succeeding the Owen Oregon Lumber company, will start work in cutting and hauling timber from the tract this side of Butte Falls according to an announcement made yesterday by James H. Owen, manager of the new company.

The old camps above Butte Falls, where most of the good timber has already been cut, will not be reopened, Owen stated. One of the old camps has already been abandoned by the timber company, and long since occupied by the South Fork CCC camp. A complete clean-up of the timber on this side of Butte Falls will take approximately two years, Owen said. When that is cleaned up, it may be decided to run a main line across Butte creek, tapping new territory, but no definite move has been decided upon as yet, he admitted.

While preference will be given to former employees, Owen stated, some new men will have to be hired, because of the fact that old workers have scattered to new sites since the closing of the big mill last year.

SALLEE CASE NOW IN STATE COURT

County Clerk G. R. Carter shipped a heavy transcript in the case of State vs. Melvin Franklin Sallee, from his office to the clerk of the supreme court, Friday afternoon. Judge Norton, for the second time, refused to authorize the court reporter to make a copy of the evidence at county expense, but granted the defendant an additional 40 days in which to prepare his bill of exceptions.

M. O. Wilkins, attorney for Sallee, is leaving Sunday morning for Eugene where he will confer with associate counsel in the case, as well as Lane county members of the Sallee family, and then on Monday give the case further attention in the supreme court, and the supreme court library.

It is the intention of the defense in the case to crowd the final hearing in the supreme court at just as early a date as the rules of the supreme court will permit.

FORMER BELOVED VALLEY WOMAN IS CALLED BY DEATH

Word was received here yesterday that funeral services were conducted at Callahan, Cal., Thursday, for Viola V. Jackson, former well-known and beloved resident of the Rogue River vicinity and mother of Clifford F. Jackson, of Medford, who passed away last Monday in San Francisco.

Mrs. Jackson's sudden and unexpected death is adding to many in the Rogue River valley who remember her as a loyal member of the Christian Science church and a prominent figure in the Rogue River community, where she made her home for nine years. She was visiting a son, Elmer Jackson, in San Francisco at the time of her death.

She was an active member of the Enterprise Grange, a member of Daughters of the American Revolution and was affiliated with the Rebekah Lodge. She was also a member of the Civil War Veterans of the City of Callahan, a relative of John Warren Bingham, a veteran who was also one of the first to enter the California gold rush of '49.

As there is no Christian Science church in Callahan, the Christian Science services were conducted in the Congregational church. Interment was in Callahan cemetery.

Besides her husband, Frank Jackson, of Rogue River, and her son, Clifford Jackson, manager of the Piggly Wiggly store, she is survived by one daughter, Agnes Oliver of Redondo Beach, Cal. and three other sons, Capt. Elmer Jackson of San Francisco, who is associated with the Shipowners and Merchants Tug Boat company of San Francisco, Earl A. Jackson, of Rogue River, and Leonard W. Jackson, of the U. S. Navy; also one brother, Almonzo Bingham, and two sisters, Mildred Boler of Callahan and Eudora Henry of Vancouver, Wash.

COMPLETE FOREST ROAD SURVEY IN LAKE WOODS AREA

A highway location survey party of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, under M. L. Harshberger, completed the survey of a forest-development road project for the Rogue River National Forest for the U. S. forest service. The proposed road will extend from Ashland to Fort Klamath, via Dead Indian creek, Lake of the Woods, and Rocky Point at the extreme northwest end of Klamath lake. The road is constructed for a distance of approximately 25 miles from Ashland easterly, and from Fort Klamath southerly to Rocky Point, a distance of 24 miles. The new survey covered the intervening section of 24 miles, over which only a crude wagon trail exists at the present time.

A 22-foot roadway is planned for the new section. Although primarily intended for forest protection developments and administration, the area opened up by the new road offers a wide variety of recreational possibilities. The Cascade range is crossed at an elevation of 5200 feet, with Mt. McLoughlin, numerous other peaks, and Lake of the Woods as features of special scenic interest.

The survey party moved to Crater Lake National park to complete the survey of the rim road from Kerr Hotch to Sun Notch.
