

New Osteopathic Clinic and Hospital Will Open in Medford Thursday

PUBLIC INVITED TO INSPECT NEW LOCAL HOSPITAL

Dr. Howard and Dr. Sherwood Head Venture — Latest Equipment Features Modern Structure

A major step forward in the medical progress of the community will be made Thursday, August 1, with the official opening of the Osteopathic clinic and hospital, which has been newly completed after four months of construction and modernization, at 215 East Jackson boulevard.

Doors will be opened to the public at 2 p. m. and a cordial invitation is extended to everyone interested in a modern, complete and beautiful hospital to inspect the building throughout. Visitors will be received during the entire afternoon and the open house will be continued at 8:30 in the evening.

Attractively situated in a quiet residential section, surrounded by lawn and shaded by large trees, and yet centrally located, the hospital has been constructed in the former Luke Ryan home, which has been completely readjusted inside and out. A neon sign situated so as to be visible along Bartlett street, identifies the building.

The hospital is the realization of two years of planning and endeavor by Dr. W. W. Howard, manager, and Dr. Russell R. Sherwood, resident physician. They purchased the property at the first of the year from J. W. Jacobs. Construction was begun in April.

The visitor is immediately favorably impressed upon driving up to the newly painted white building, around which there is a minimum of traffic hazard. The driveway has been thoughtfully prepared to accommodate at least 12 cars at once, only a few steps from the doorway. The reception room reveals the taste that has been employed throughout the hospital in decoration and furnishing in attractive colors.

At one side several new rooms have been added, including Dr. Howard's suite of offices. These, as well as Dr. Sherwood's suite, comprise consultation, dressing and treatment rooms. Also on the first floor is the dining room for the hospital staff, and the physio-therapy room.

In the hospital proper, situated on the second floor, is a modern surgery, the nurses' quarters, a utility room and the wards, which are equipped with the latest three-way suspension spring beds, a great improvement in comfort over the flat type. The surgery includes an operating table and large hospital sterilizer. An important safety factor is that the surgery is painted with flame-proof paint and is equipped with explosion proof fixtures to safeguard the patient during use of either or gas. Equipment throughout the hospital is electrically operated.

A sanitary feature is that all possible dust catches have been eliminated. Every room is decorated with colors at once pleasant and restful to the patient.

Over Dr. Howard's offices a solarium or sun-porch has been constructed, to allow ambulatory patients to enjoy sunshine and outdoor recreation. The floor of the solarium includes a foot-thick layer of fire-proof insulation to insure coolness during the summer in the quarters below.

The building is equipped with a 1300 heat-feet fully automatic oil burner for regulation of temperature in every room in the winter, and the same equipment is used during the summer for complete air-conditioning. Besides being heat-proof and cold-proof, all new portions of the building were constructed of sound-proof material.

The Osteopathic clinic and hospital will handle all types of cases, and through an open staff will be available at all times for all reputable physicians of the valley.

Besides Dr. Howard as manager and Dr. Sherwood as resident physician, the hospital staff will comprise two graduate nurses, also a cook and a maid.

PORTLAND WOMAN ACCUSED BEATING HER HIRED GIRL

PORTLAND, Ore., July 30.—(AP)—Charges of binding and beating her hired girl in attempts to make her confess to theft of $20 were faced today by Mrs. Millen F. Kneeland, 30, wife of a Portland attorney.

The complaint, served late yesterday, was signed by the alleged victim, Miss Marian Shortridge, 21.

In the complaint Miss Shortridge alleged that Mrs. Kneeland once "told me that my legs were blue and said: 'do you know I can kill you at any minute?'"

"The marks of the rope were quite plain on her wrists when I first saw her at the hospital," declared Detective Herman Horack.

He said Miss Shortridge told him she went to the Kneeland home about 1:25 p. m. Wednesday and that about 1:40 o'clock Mrs. Kneeland threw a rope about her neck.

"She tied me up, beating me and almost strangling me," the girl stated in her complaint. "If I hadn't managed to work my fingers into the folds of the rope around my neck, I think I would have been strangled to death."

"She had her little daughter Joyce tie my legs, but they evidently weren't tight enough so she retied them herself."

PAY DRAWING BAN ON COM. BENNETT

PORTLAND, July 30.—(F)—Drawing in advance on the next salary is a thing of the past for City Commissioner J. E. Bennett and other city of Portland employees "unless there is a real emergency."

That was the decree of City Auditor Funk, who admitted he had quite a heated argument in refusing Bennett's request for a $100 advance on his next salary check. Peace is restored now, Funk said, pointing out that the city began a twice-a-month pay system some time ago to halt this "vicious practice of time warrants."

Entertainment and contests are planned and prizes will be awarded for best attendance of young democrats.

MISSOURI U HEAD, JOURNALISM AIDE, TO LAST REWARD

COLUMBIA, Mo., July 30.—(AP)—The long, brilliant journalistic and educational career of Dr. Walter Williams has been ended by death.

Dr. Williams, 71, president of Missouri university until July 1 and founder of its widely known school of journalism, died at his home here last night after a long illness.

With Dr. Williams at the time of his death were his second wife, Mrs. Sara Lockwood Williams, author and former journalism school instructor; and two children by a former marriage, Edwin Moss Williams, New York, and Mrs. John F. Rhodes, Kansas City.

Dr. Williams' career was bound by close ties to journalism from the age of 15, when he obtained his first newspaper job at Bonnyville, Mo. He was a member of the board of curators of the university here and editor of the Columbia Herald in 1908 when he was asked to take charge of the infant school of journalism. The curriculum he devised has been copied widely.

He became president of the university in 1931, and resigned only a month ago, due to failing health.

Author of a half dozen books devoted principally to journalism and Missouri history, Dr. Williams also was known as America's "ambassador of good will" because of his efforts toward friendly international relations in the course of wide travels.

STATEHOUSE FUND PLEA FILED SOON

PORTLAND, Ore., July 30.—(AP)—Oregon's application for a $3,500,000 PWA loan and grant for a new capitol will be completed by the Oregon planning board early this week and submitted to the state board of control for official action, Secretary O. R. Bean of the planning group said today.

The public works committee of the planning board will re-check the application as soon as Van Buren Stanbery, executive secretary of the board, returns from eastern Oregon, Bean said.

Application for the loan would then be made by the board of control through C. C. Hockley, Oregon director of the public works administration.

Too Bad.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 30.—County Relief Director Lester Wickliff has a new problem. Richard and Lester Bradford, negroes, have filed suit asserting $5500 damages. Each charged that dropping him from relief rolls caused him to "go around dirty and seek his own living."

BOXCARS BOMBED, HOME IS TARGET, TACOMA WARFARE

TACOMA, July 30.—(AP)—Two freight cars on the Tacoma Municipal Belt line were dynamited early this morning presumably as an outgrowth of the lumber strike. The detonations were particularly loud and awakened persons four miles away in the north end of the city.

A flat car loaded with lumber was considerably damaged and some of the lumber splintered and disarranged. The second bomb splintered an empty box car.

A bomb was thrown on the back porch of C. H. Turvall shortly after 11 o'clock last night. Turvall, employee of the Defiance mill, kicked it off the porch and it exploded, tearing a hole in the sidewalk. He was uninjured.

Continued negotiations between striking mill workers and mill operators here was forecast, following the decisive rejection by the workers Saturday of a peace proposal. Seventeen local mills continued to operate with more than 2000 men.
