The Crater Lake Incident

A CCORDING to a dispatch to the Portland Journal, Director Cammerer of the national park service, "has expressed regret to Senator McNary that a party of Georgia school teachers were turned back at Crater Lake park because of rules concerning exclusive privileges for sight seeing busses" and declares this incident will not be repeated."

This is good news. It should NOT be repeated.

No incident at the park in recent years, has called forth such universal condemnation from the press of the state, as this needless discourtesy to a large party of visitors from the south,newspapers from Portland to Ashland and from Astoria to the Snake river vigorously deploring such action.

THE consensus of press opinion was simply this; whatever the rules and regulations of the park regarding exclusive privileges to sight seeing busses, when any party of sightseers arrive at a park entrance,-having travelled thousands of miles and at great expense to see Oregon's great national wonder,-had themselves done nothing to merit exclusion, had made the trip in entire good faith,-they should not be made the innocent victims of BAD faith on the part of their managers or of park red tape,-the rules and regulations should be interpreted with sufficient liberality and good sense, to allow such visitors to SEE what they had come to see, and to go on their way rejoicing.

THAT this is essentially the view of Supt. David H. Canfield of Crater Lake park is indicated by his letter to R. W. Sawyer, editor of the Bend Bulletin explaining the incident, which was released to the state press yesterday.

For, states Mr. Canfield, only one third of the party from Georgia, was excluded from the lake. The other two-thirds were admitted,—members of the same party, travelling the same way, under the same management—"SPECIAL CONSIDERATION being given" as Mr. Canfield explains "in view of the fact the occupants were innocent victims, and no charge whatever was made as individuals."

THIS is as it should be. The national parks are set aside for the people, are the property of the people, and should be administered at all times, with one outstanding and constant aim in view, courteous and efficient service TO the people.

That this is the view of the national park service no one questions. That it is the policy of the present administration of Crater Lake park, no one denies,-but it is also undeniable that this turning back of the Georgia party, could only lead, to exactly a contrary interpretation.

THE regrettable feature is that the "special consideration shown two-thirds of the party, admitting them to the park, was not shown the "one third"-or if it was shown them, that the excursion managers, refused to accept one day, what they agreed to accept the following two.

The fact remains that over one hundred, citizens of this ountry, who had travelled thousands of miles to see Crater that broke the tie, and cinched the Lake, were turned back, and forced to continue their journey that broke the tre, and cinched the contest. The clout was a little drive of two city blocks, into right field, that tore loose a board on a barn.

The usual unusual weather, at this point of the calendar, has not showed up as usual.

As we see it, it makes no difference whether these visitors. The Elks cat is sick, due to eating a continue their journey, southward, without being extended the privileges they had been granted at Yellowstone, and Glacier national park, and the other members of their party WERE granted at Crater Lake.

As we see it, it makes no difference whether these visitors where the provided in the content of the content of came from Georgia or some other state; whether they rode in one type of motor bus or another, operated for profit, or only for educational enlightenment; whether the Southwestern Teachers college is really a college, or only a promoters junket on wheels, the fact remains the members of this first excursion were PEOPLE-citizens of the United States,-were in no way "Let none of you suffer as a were PEOPLE—citizens of the United States,—were in no way murderer, or as a thief, or an evil responsible for the technical errors of their managers,—carried neither sawed-off shotguns nor were victims of the bubonic plague-and under such circumstances should have been extend tripled the same courtesies that were extended their fellow travel lers in the next two busses, 24 HOURS LATER!

IF precisely the SAME courtesies WERE extended, and were rejected in a fit of pique, or because the official in charge wished to make the play of outraged innocence, then certainly all the fault for this unfortunate incident, can be placed upor
