The body was found by reclamation workers. It had been buried in a shallow pit under a pile of rocks, remnants of a charred burrap bag, or burned rope, and of dress material were found.

DRUG STORE SANS BAZAAR FEATURES SEEN FOR FUTURE

have the nerve and commercial independence to say that unrelated commodities do not belong to his drug store.

"I think the public will realize that the pharmacist will be able to give better service if he doesn't have to divide his attention with general merchandise which has no connection with medicine.

"The original surgeon was a barber and the red and white barber pole you see today was the old emblem displayed by the doctor with the red stripes denoting the flowing blood and the white stripes the bandage. No one would expect his doctor to be his barber today."

Requirements Advanced

In 1923 two years of high school training followed by two years at a school of pharmacy were required for pharmacists. Requirements, gradually advanced, now call for four years of high school followed by four years in pharmacy college and a year of experience.

"Naturally this has the effect of limiting the number entering the field and in the future there probably will be fewer drug stores but better equipped and more specialized.... he continued.

"Pharmacists now are receiving fundamental and cultural training, including the social sciences, which will give them a better understanding of social relations and make them better able to solve human problems. They will be leaders."

In small communities, general merchandise will remain to help finance the meagre but necessary drug-vending activities, he predicted.

Dr. Fischella said the transition to the new and more specialized drug store will require probably 10 or 15 years.

Wider Skirts Proposed In Paris Fashion Shows

By ADELAIDE KERR Associated Press Foreign Staff

PARIS, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Wider skirts appeared today as winter fashion show openings reached their height.

Many stained velvet and changeable silk afternoon frocks were designed with fairly full skirts falling in soft folds. Crepe wool frocks had knife-pleated skirts.

The skirts in suits and many day dresses, however, retained their slender, tubular lines.

The dressier winter coats were generally black, designed in slender lines and often belted.

Black astrakhan was by far the favorite trimming, with broad-tail shaved lamb running second and foxes third.

Many black coats had big, black astrakhan and fox collars muffling the throat. Others had small, standing collars, many with flat fur applications.

There were pockets everywhere. Even afternoon coats sometimes had a pair of hipbone pockets, while suits and wool dresses often were designed with four pockets, two above and two below the waist.

Draperies appeared in the evening mode. Dark lace chignon gowns were designed with two long draperies hanging from each shoulder to the floor or sling draperies falling from shoulder to knee.

APPEAL IS FILED BY HIGH BROTHERS

A reply brief in the supreme court appeal of George High and Robert N. (Babe) High, each under four years sentence, on conviction of setting fire to the Balfour, Guthrie barn in Ashland in January, 1933, for $15,000 insurance, is being prepared by the district attorney.

The brief of the High Brothers was filed with the supreme court, August 5, and lists 22 errors of the court, in instructions and introduction of evidence and points of law, as basis for the appeal.

George High is at liberty on bonds and his brother is in the county jail, due to the withdrawal of his bondsmen two months ago. The brothers are well known in Ashland.

Two men, Joe Holland of Ashland and Theron Martin, plead guilty to the barn fire plot. Holland is on parole from a four-year prison sentence, and Martin was given a two-year sentence in the penitentiary.

START REBUILDING LOGGING TRESTLE

Work of rebuilding the 450-foot trestle on the Medford logging railroad, five miles west of Butte Falls, destroyed by fire of undetermined origin last Monday night, has been started. James H. Owen, manager of the Medford Corporation (Owen-Oregon company) said today, that material for the trestle had been ordered, and he did not anticipate that the trestle destruction would delay opening of sawmill operation more than two weeks. The sawmill is now scheduled to start about September 15. It was planned to start September 2.

Insurance adjusters completed survey of the trestle, and fixed the loss in the record time of 24 hours. Manager Owen said. Two policies were held on the trestle. No official estimate of the loss was made public, but it was said to be approximately $5000.

The fire threw a crew of timber fallers and cutters out of work for a week or ten days. They will be returned to their saws and axes, as soon as possible, to provide logs for the sawmill operation. The sawmill and logging camps of the Medford corporation, when in full operation will employ between 200 and 225 workers, in various capacities, it is said.
