

SILVER WORRIES TWO POLITICIANS

CASTLE, Mon.—(UP)—Residents of once populous mining town are watching current maneuvers in world markets with keen interest.

Rising prices are likely to bring the city to life again and that would totally disrupt the present political setup.

The situation is a bit peculiar. Back in the '30s and '40s, Castle was a booming mining camp. The depression of 1929 and the demonization of silver started a decline. But higher silver prices are expected to cause a revival of mining operations and the town may resume some of its former activity.

And, as has been said, that would disrupt the political situation.

You see, under the peculiar political situation Mayor Joe Martino and ex-Mayor Joe Kipp each control the same number of votes. So they've reached an agreement. Last year Kipp held the office as mayor, this year it was Martino's turn, and next year Kipp is supposed to take over the office again, etc.

New voters would upset this balance of power.

Mayor Martino and ex-Mayor Kipp are the only residents.

New Deal Hens.

PORTLAND, Ore.—(UP)—Oregon farmers received $4,280,000 from 231,000,000 eggs and 2,479,000 chickens sold last year, according to federal statistics. It was a 31 per cent increase over 1933.

GRUMBLES PROVE PROSPERITY BACK

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(UP)—Growing, grumbling gourmets yell prosperity in loud tones to Howard E. Baughman, Nashville hotel manager.

"Way back when everything was going great guns and everybody had plenty of money, or thought he had, there was hardly a meal went by that someone didn't raise Cain in the dining room because the steak was too rare or too well done, or the salad dressing was too sour, or that a breeze was blowing on the back of their neck on an August day," Baughman reminisced.

"Then, all of a sudden the crash came, depression was upon us and the dining room grumbler faded out of sight. He had become humble in mind and pocket. The old spirit and self-assurance that prompted him to hurl napkins at the head waiter had gone along with his paper profit. Serenity and lower food prices predominated in the dining room."

"But now, happy days are here again. The dining room grouch is returning. I've heard at least two sounding off recently. If their disappearance was symbolic of depression, then their reappearance must mean good times."

Big Time-Teller.

LAFAYETTE, Tenn.—(UP)—The largest sun dial in the world is in the yard of E. H. White, Macon county. It weighs over 10 tons and the shadow bar is 25 feet long.
