

HUEY CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENCY COLLEAGUES TOLD

If Long would run to take "radical" votes away from the Democrats. One western Republican senator, whose state has gone Democratic in the past two elections, said there was no doubt it would go Republican today, if Long should run. He said the Louisiana would easily take enough votes from the Democrats to deliver the state's electoral ballot to the Republicans, as La Follette did in 1924.

Retaining the Long reports in capitol attention were denials by Senators Glass and Byrd that they would bolt the Democratic ticket next year. Taking notice of published intimations to that effect (not carried by the Associated Press), the Virginians no doubt it would go Republican today, if Long should run. He said the Louisiana would easily take enough votes from the Democrats to deliver the state's electoral ballot to the Republicans, as La Follette did in 1924.

Enter State Primaries Long told his senatorial colleagues that he would enter many of the state primaries and give President Roosevelt as much of a hat as he could as possible. He said if the president was renominated he would then decide whether to run independently or join forces with the Republicans.

If the president should be opposed by former President Hoover or some one of that type, Long said he would run independently. He predicted he would take such states as Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas, Mississippi, Georgia and Florida away from the Democrats.

But Long added, his colleagues said that the Republicans should nominate Borah or some one of that kind, he would jump party lines and throw his support to the liberal Republican candidate.

Though Long's plans excited Republicans to high hopes for 1936, they were not without their critics ahead of time. They realized it was possible for him to change his mind. And some wondered whether his strategy was not entirely designed to influence the Republican nomination.

Capper Confident Meanwhile, comments in the political field engaged the capital's interest. One was a statement by Senator Capper (R., Kas.) that any of a number of Republican presidential possibilities could defeat Mr. Roosevelt next year.

Another word coming from administration circles, indicating that Roosevelt may have something to say on constitutional questions and other matters in his forthcoming trip to the west coast.

As for Senator Long, politicians have long been speculating about what he would do next year. He has been the administration's fiercest critic in the senate since shortly after the inauguration of President Roosevelt, after working hard for Mr. Roosevelt's nomination at the convention.

Administration leaders have said patronage was back of the break. Long's friends have replied that the Louisiana senator broke with the president over economy legislation and patronage was denied him because he refused to "go along."

Another Capper, who has been eyeing the Washington scene since 1892 when he was a reporter for the Topeka Capital, analyzed the position of the Republican party today and found it good.

People Turn to G. O. P. "The trend is now our way," he said. "The people are turning toward the Republican party. They are tired of watching the administration spend money and get little or nothing for it."

In reply to a query he continued: "Yes, Senator Borah (Idaho) would make a good president. Any of those mentioned prominently Senator Vandenberg (Mich.), Col. Frank Knox (Chicago publisher), would make a good president. So would Governor Landon of my state."

"I am very much interested in him."

"What about Herbert Hoover?" he was asked.

"I don't want to discuss that aspect of the situation," he responded.

Other fighters held their own on major blazes today

With one exception, fighting crews reported they had control of the larger blazes, scattered from the Pacific coast to Montana and Wyoming. Fire conditions grew steadily worse throughout the area, however, with humidity low and high temperatures searing the timberland.

More than 800 men struggled through the night to trench it, but it remained out of bounds.

FATE OF SPANISH VETS BILL VEILED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Conflicting reports that the president was going to sign and veto the Spanish War Veterans Pension bill reached the capitol today.

None expected that a veto would be sustained

The bill originally passed the house unanimously. In the senate the vote was 74 to 1. New Dealers expressed doubt that there would be more than 40 house votes to uphold the veto.

Today was the last day on which the President could veto or sign the bill

If the day passed and he did neither, it would automatically become a law.

The bill would increase by $1,789,000 to $45,581,000 the federal expenditures for Spanish War veterans.

able temperatures, was described by the weather bureau here today as "on the wane." Nevertheless, the prediction was for rising temperature in the interior of the west portion of Oregon tomorrow, although the eastern part of the state was expected to be cooler.

Humidity to Rise

Higher relative humidity throughout Oregon was forecast and widely scattered thunderstorms in the Blue mountains were probable.

All of western Oregon, except the coast communities, was hot yesterday

Even the higher altitudes, usually sought for heat relief, had the unusual experience of seeing the mercury climb to surprising heights. Mountain stations reported abnormally high temperatures throughout the day. At Slakiyu summit, for example, the reading was 96 degrees yesterday at 5 p. m.

DETROIT, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The case of William Lee Ferris and three women on trial with him for the holding-slaying of Howard Carter Dickinson, New York attorney, was given to a recorder's court jury of six men and six women this afternoon.

Judge John A. Boyle said that four separate verdicts were possible in the case of Ferris—first or second degree murder, manslaughter or acquittal.

Florence and Loretta Jackson and Jean Miller, he said, could not be convicted of manslaughter, but any one of the other three verdicts were possible regarding them.

MacDonald said he replied that it did not look like him.

He said Goff then took him back to the station and told District Attorney Fickert.

"Charlie, he identified him."

Told Prosecutor

The witness said he told Fickert that afternoon Mooney was not the man with the suitcase, identified as containing the deadly bomb.

MacDonald's next testimony was that he had never seen Warren K. Billings before viewing him in the jail cell a few days later and had never picked either Mooney or Billings from a police lineup.

MacDonald testified at their trial.
