CANADIAN ROCKIES INTEREST SCOUTS ENROUTE TO EAST

By Irwin Doty

Those who have never seen the Canadian Rockies at this time of the year have missed something of beauty which can hardly be equalled anywhere else in the North American continent. It was the privilege of the Scouts of Crater Lake council to see this beautiful scenery of heavy timbered mountains and high snow-capped peaks. After reaching Vancouver, B. C., the Scouts marched several blocks to a store, where they ate dinner. Scouts from Portland and Walla Walla are with us.

Following dinner each patrol of the troop started out on an excursion trip around the city of Vancouver. Points of interest visited were the large hotels, the main street of Vancouver, and the large boats in the harbor. At 5 P. M. all Scouts from Portland, Walla Walla and Crater Lake council got aboard a special train for Lake Louise.

Upon awakening the next morning we would notice that the train was rushing along through high tracks. This was the Thompson river which flows from a series of lakes. Some of them are: Kamloops, Adams and Shuswap.

The train made stops at Kamloops, Sicamous, Revelstoke, Glacier, Golden and Field. At Revelstoke the railroad passes over the Columbia river and the Scouts could see in a distance the mountains which form the headwaters of the Columbia river. Just out of Revelstoke a ways Dick Roberts and Ivan Thicker seemed to want to take it easy. They could be seen in their seats stretched out with one arm on the window sill of the train window, and sleeping peacefully.

Also on this same strip of railroad, Dale Brockmorton and Robert (Moon) Mullins were trying to impersonate Indians. They didn't know, of course, but our local artist, LaVerne Dalenborg, had painted them out while they slept.

Just on the other side of Glacier the train entered Connaught tunnel. This tunnel is five miles in length. The train coasts through by force of gravity.

Next thing of attraction was the Kicking Horse river. It roars down a narrow canyon and the railroad track goes along fairly close to the water. The noise of the train and the roar of the river makes a deafening roar that seems queer in a country of such solitude and stillness.

The train, after leaving the city of Golden, began to ascend rapidly and in a short time was among the gigantic peaks that compose the Great Divide.

Within 25 miles of Lake Louise are the spiral tunnels. These tunnels go into the mountain at one spot and make a complete turn under ground and come out directly over the place of interest.

A few miles beyond is the Great Divide—a spot where a stream of water splits and one branch flows into Columbia river and thence to the Pacific ocean, while the other branch flows into the Hudson bay and then into the Atlantic ocean.

Just beyond the Great Divide is Banff, close to Lake Louise.

MEET THE WIFE

MRS. FIORELLA LA GUARDIA

A wise and shrewd young woman was Marie Fisher. She was the best secretary Fiorella LaGuardia ever had. She ran his law office when he practiced, and she ran it again when he was deputy state attorney general. When he went to Washington and to congress, she went along... she became indispensable. . . . And now she runs the LaGuardia home on Fifth avenue. If the mayor of New York has any breath left in him when his day's work is done, he may play a while on the cornet. Then Marie plays the accompaniment. She attends the symphony with him and sits "upstairs." She likes to go to ball games. But social affairs? No, thank you! The mayor's wife has a husband to look after, and the mayor needs rest.
