E. R. Sleight Has Guests From Washington
Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Sleight of 49 North Peach street have as guests this week Allen Lephman and Avis Rerat, both of Colville Valley, Wash., who are passing through Medford after concluding an extended motor tour of Oregon, Idaho, Utah, Nevada and California. Miss Lephman, who is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Sleight, is returning to her home in the north and Miss Rerat will leave for San Francisco to make her future home.

The tour which has included Zion Canyon, Tijuana, Mexico and the exposition at San Diego as the most interesting points, has occupied six weeks. For the past three weeks they have been visiting Miss Lephman's cousin, Dick Sleight of San Francisco, who is expected to return to his home here next Sunday.

They arrived in Medford Monday and will leave tomorrow, after a visit to Crater Lake.

Hensley-Rostel
Wedding Date August 31
Through an error, the wedding date of Miss Margaret Hensley and Ernest Rostel was stated yesterday as being an event of September 31. It will take place at Crater Lake, on August 31. E. S. Bartham of the Episcopal church will officiate, and attendants are to be Mr. and Mrs. Bernhard Rostel.

E. B. Adamson Leave After Visit
Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Adamson left Sunday morning for their home in Salem after spending the past two weeks in Medford and vicinity. They spent several days at Lake O' the Woods, and while in Medford visited their daughters, Mrs. Ted GeBauer and Mrs. Marvin Albert.

No-Host Party For John Willis
A small group of his friends entertained John Willis Saturday evening with a treasure hunt in honor of his twenty-first birthday.

Guest of Miss Haskins Here
Miss Marjorie Bayless, of Klamath Falls is spending the week in Medford as the guest of Miss Dorothy Haskins.

SMALL FIRES LAY SMOKE COVERING OVER LARGE AREA
Although 30 men are at work mopping up the embers of the 700-acre forest fire at Lake of the Woods, which has been smoldering under control for the last several days, there are no other fires with present, officials stated. The state fire patrol announced that in its territory there have been no fires yet this week. Smoke from previous fires, kept down by weather conditions, continues, however, to make the skies hazy.

(By the Associated Press)
Small grass, brush and forest fires dotted Oregon today and spread a film of smoke over most sections. Across the Columbia river in Washington William Maxwell, 18, Chicago CCC worker, was struck by a falling snag while fighting fire and died enroute to a hospital. CCC workers attempted today to check a fire which swept uncontrolled through timber six miles west of Corvallis last night. Reinforcements were moved onto the fire lines.

Some relief was predicted from yesterday's heat which reached 97 degrees at Portland and 101 degrees at Salem.

EUGENE, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Fire being fought in the Horton area near Triangle lake late yesterday. Jumping fire lines and destroyed the house and barn on the Ray Condon place. Condon was engaged in fighting the fire and returned to find his buildings and some of the contents burned. The Horton postoffice was in the house and many records were believed lost.

CHASE BANK VISIT ENJOYED BY BOYS WHILE IN GOTHAM

By Irwin Doty
Gazing from the tops of the world's tallest building gives one a lump in the pit of the stomach. This was the sensation of most of the scouts of Crater Lake council as they stood on top of the Empire State building and looked down on New York spread out below them. The ascent of this building was made in an elevator traveling at the rate of a thousand feet a minute. A wonderful view of New York can be had from the observation tower on top of the Empire State building. Cars on Fifth avenue far below look like ants darting this way and that.

At docks on the Hudson river could be seen many ocean liners and pleasure boats, chief of the ocean liners was the Normandie, from France. This was a very large boat and it brought with it a troop of French scouts who are going to tour some of the United States. The descent from the Empire State building was made in a few minutes. At 2:00 p. m. a large bus picked the scouts up at the hotel and took them to Wall Street to visit the Chase Bank of New York, the largest bank in the world. A guide took us through the entire building from the vaults to the bookkeeping departments.

While in the safe deposit vaults, the boys had a chance to see thousands of dollars. I might say that the bank officials seldom let anyone into their big vault, but we had special permission to enter and look around. The boys were shown through all the different rooms where things are recorded and filed. The main attraction of the tour was the collection of coins and money in one of the rooms. This is the most complete of any collection in the world, including all foreign and United States. Among the coins could be seen ancient coins of the time B. C., while also there was wampum, and all types of currency. The coins of the United States included many kinds of money. There was the "wildcat" currency of the old revolutionary days. Also a specimen of every type of United States coin ever minted. One in particular was a silver dollar worth $100,000. The boys were each presented with a souvenir of the bank.

At 4:00 p. m. all the scouts marched to Jack Dempsey's restaurant to eat dinner. This was quite a thrill to most of the boys to meet a real prize fighter. He shook hands with every one of the group and gave each a boy a postcard. During the evening the boys were given free time to do some looking around on their own. This ends this chapter in the experiences of Crater Lake council's trip for tomorrow we get on a train for Washington, D. C. where the scouts will visit the capitol and have the privilege of shaking hands with the president of the United States.

The scouts of Crater Lake council today spent their first day in Washington, D. C. Monday the boys left on the 8:10 electric train from New York for the capitol. They didn't do much after arrival; at 12:35 they looked around on their own and finally ended up in bed fairly early. Next morning the boys were up early ready to start out to see the beautiful city.

As a starting place, we picked Smithsonian Institute, immense museum of many buildings. All morning was spent here and still there were many things to be seen. The exhibits took in everything including every phase of natural life to the rarest of old relics. We saw the skeleton of a large dinosaur in one section, which makes a person standing alongside feel very small. Another interesting exhibit was Colonel Lindbergh's airplane "The Spirit of St. Louis," suspended ed from the ceiling in one of the main halls of Smithsonian Institute. After lunch a bus took the scouts out to what was going to be the jamboree camp site. The boys spent some time in looking at some of the tents which were still standing. While at the camp site one of the interesting things present was a Boy Scout from India. He has traveled from India by bicycle as much as possible. He started in 1934 on a tour of the world in the study of scouting. He had ridden about 7,000 miles on a bicycle so far. He rode his bicycle to China and took a boat to San Francisco. From this point he rode to St. Louis where he left it to come to Washington, D. C. He was friendly and could talk the English language well. He plans to put all his experiences in a book entitled "World Scouting." Another item of interest was arrival at the camp site of a troop of Chinese Boy Scouts, sent by the government of China. They were very friendly and gave us an interesting program consisting of native songs and stunts. They had an orchestra made up of all instruments of China and gave us some weird music. One boy of this group gave a sword dance with two swords. All the audience agreed that he could have the right of way in the dark with two swords. In the daytime of course they could see and use their feet. Following the program the Boy Scouts of America gave the scout handicaps to the Boy Scouts of America.

At the jamboree campsite were many newspapermen and cameramen who took pictures for every paper in Washington, D. C. After about two hours at this place, the scouts of Crater Lake council went back to their hotel to clean up for dinner. After dinner most of the boys went to hear the United States marine band play at the Lincoln memorial. There are so many places in Washington to see that most of the boys are afraid that they won't get to see all of it. Tomorrow we take a trip to Mount Vernon, Georgetown and Arlington cemetery.

NEED HOP PICKERS IN G. PASS REGION
GRANTS PASS, Aug. 27.—(Sp1)—With four major hop yards along the Lower River road asking for a total of more than 500 pickers, relief officials were Monday planning to check their rolls with those of growers to make certain all able persons who have been on relief are availing themselves of the labor.

Mrs. Glenn Tucker, social service supervisor, said Monday she and another member of the relief office staff will go to the growers Wednesday to conduct the check. C. H. Demas, chairman of the county relief committee, said if it is found persons who have been on relief are not taking advantage of the picking there will be steps taken to remove them from the relief rolls when relief resumes.

3 PLEAD GUILTY TO INDICTMENTS
Three men charged with crimes, yesterday waived grand jury indictment and entered pleas of guilty before Circuit Judge H. D. Norton. Sentences will be passed next Saturday. Peter Jackson Frye and Ezra Johnson, Ashland men just 60 years of age are charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors. Fred S. Roseborough, of this city is charged with larceny of livestock. He allegedly stole a calf belonging to Kay Looesley, stockman, butchered the animal, retained half of it, and sold the balance to a meat market, first obtaining a license to sell from the sheriff's office. Roseborough has relatives living in the Grants Pass district. He acted as an auto salesman in this city for several weeks last spring.

FILIBUSTER ENDS CONGRESS BEFORE FUND BILL VOTED

After the aged and crippled, arose to point an accusing finger at the Louisiana senator and say: "It is now a minute before midnight. I ask whether or not because of his selfish desire for publicity, the senator from Louisiana hasn't defeated the hopes, the aspirations, and the desires of millions of people." Before Long could yell his oft-repeated "that ain't so," the big clock's hand moved to 12 and Vice President Garner's gavel cracked. "The senate is adjourned sine die," Vice President Garner proclaimed. (The two houses, hours earlier, had passed resolutions for automatic adjournment at midnight.) The galleries, silent a minute before Garner's gavel fell, burst into a roar. Senator Long walked out of the chamber, alone. Across the capitol, in the house chamber, leaders had turned their clock back in the half expectation that perhaps the senate might do likewise, wear Long down, and speed the deficiency bill to enactment. But when it became certain that nothing like that was to be done, the house too adjourned. It was 12 midnight by its clock when that happened, but actually it was 12:09 a. m., eastern standard time.

Historic Session
Thus ended the historic session which saw such measures passed as the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill, largest appropriation of all times; the far reaching social security measure; a new, if only temporary, neutrality policy for America; a bank bill giving a reorganized federal reserve board more centralized control over money and credit; amendments to strengthen AAA and TVA; a $200,000,000 new tax bill; utility regulation, and a list of other major items. It also saw the supreme court strike down the new deal's number 1 experiment, NRA, starting a constitutional debate sure to echo in the 1936 campaign, and it saw the senate vote down American adherence to the world court despite administration efforts.

All in all, expenditures authorized during the session totalled some $10,250,000,000. Financing Uncertain
There was some uncertainty today about the financing of social security and other measures during the interim until congress meets again next January. During the heat of the Long filibuster last night, the Louisiana had pointed to assertions that the Roosevelt administration could get the money from the $4,800,000,000 work relief funds. Senator Robinson of Arkansas, democratic leader, replied that Comptroller General McCarl, czar of federal expenditures, had indicated otherwise. Robinson emphatically charged Long with "deliberately killing" a bill "carrying funds for the aged and crippled."

As the fur of debate subsided, however, other leaders indicated a belief that sufficient money could be found. Chairman Buchanan (D-Tex) of the house appropriations committee, said the president could finance "everything necessary between now and January" through executive orders.

To this, Rep. Taylor (D-Colo.), the acting democratic floor leader, added: "The president told a bunch of us down at the White House this morning, and I supposed it's no secret, that he could take care of things if the deficiency bill didn't pass."

TOMATO OUTLOOK GOOD IN VALLEY

ASHLAND, Aug. 27.—(Sp1)—A far healthier and bigger tomato crop this year makes prospects for canning companies in this area particularly bright, stated Manager Ralph Kooser, manager of the Bagley Canning company here. Blight and other diseases that usually infect local tomatoes were present this year to only a nominal degree, increasing the prospects of advantageous sales to a large degree. Canning will continue for approximately 60 days, with a crew of about 150 men and women on the cannery's payroll. Some fruit may be handled at the plant a little later, but the market outlook for the luxury produce is inferior to vegetables, believes Mr. Kooser. Primary reason is low buying power coupled with a carry-over of pears from last season.

ATMOSPHERE 'STICKY' AFTER TRACE OF RAIN

The first precipitation .01 of an inch, was recorded last night by the weather bureau since last July 23, when .10 of an inch of rain fell. The brief shower late yesterday slightly relieved the high humidity, but the weather today continued to be nearly as "sticky". Humidity yesterday reached 84 per cent at 3 p. m., which is 15 to 18 per cent higher than usual. Yesterday's maximum was 91 degrees, and the minimum temperature was 67. The forecast was cloudy and unsettled tonight and Wednesday, not much change in temperature.
