

WIN FOR HAMMOND GIVES PERMANENT CUP POSSESSION

Two-Time Winner of Southern Oregon Golf Trophy Joins Other Former Winners in Coming Tourney

Bob Hammond, Jr. of this city, who will be one of the leading title seekers in the Southern Oregon golf tournament next week-end at Rogue Valley course, has twice held the title, and has been in semi-final competition four times in the six previous tournaments. If he wins once more, he will have permanent possession of the cup.

History of the tournament is as follows:

1929—Bob Hammond, Jr. won the title by defeating Dick Near of Eugene.

1930—Don Clark won the title by defeating Bob Hammond, Jr.

1931—Bob Hammond, Jr. won the title by defeating Dick Near of Eugene.

1932—Leslie Leal of Eugene won the title by defeating Bob Hammond, Jr.

1933—Henry Pringle won the title by defeating H. B. Bentley of Ashland.

1934—Ed Simmons won the title by defeating Henry Pringle.

All of the foregoing contestants are expected to take part in the 1935 tourney, with the exception of Pringle, who recently sustained a back injury while at work that will prevent him from playing.

Hammond, Jr. is a strong contender this year, having just returned from the Gearhart tournament where, by shooting sub-par golf, he was a slight winner. Leal, the 1932 winner, recently won the Washington state amateur title.

The championship trophy was originally won by Don Clark and Fred Jack Huston, whose efforts have built up the tournament to one of the most outstanding in the state. The championship trophy was originally donated by Larry Schade, and the medalist trophy, one of the most important of the many other prizes, is donated each year by H. D. McCaskey.

STARS AND BEARS CLASH THURSDAY IN VIVID SETTING

Throng of 80,000 Fans Expected for Collegian-Grid Battle — Neither Squad to Pull Punches

By William Weekes (Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—(AP)—If the quality of football presented matches the splendor of the setting, a throng of 80,000 or more spectators will see action in lavish quantities tomorrow night when the college all-stars and Chicago Bears clash at Soldier field.

Three bands will play. A force of 350 ushers will direct the flow of traffic into the stands.

The Bears will concede the former college stars a big edge in uniforms. The acres of the 1934 gridiron wars will wear a color scheme of gold and silver. Helmets and jerseys are gold colored with black numerals, back and front.

The pants are silver hued and the socks gold and silver striped. The professionals will wear their regular combination of white jerseys and socks and brown pants.

A new lighting system—100 thousand watt lamps—has been installed, an improvement of about 40 per cent over the old one.

To fit into the background, both head coaches, Frank Thomas, (Alabama) of the Collegians, and George Halas of the Bears, promised that there would be no pulling of punches. Thomas said his team would level from the start, passing up the idea of employing the Notre Dame shock troop system.

Halas said his professionals, determined to make the fans forget last year's "disgrace," the scoreless tie which they were held by another band of collegians, not only would be out for victory, but for a lot of points.

Neither side had announced its starting lineup.

SACRAMENTO KIDS LOSE FIRST GAME

GASTONIA, N. C., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Smartering under a 10 to 4 defeat by Gastonia's Junior Legion team, Sacramento, Calif. sought to even the "Little World's" series, count in the second game today.

Fighting a nip and tuck battle for the first six innings, which found them only one run behind going into seventh, the western champions lost Wakefield, their star pitcher, when he was struck on the arm by a pitched ball, and the Gastonia sluggers soon had them routed.

The first game, watched by between 11,000 and 12,000 fans, saw the Sacramento youngsters held to five hits by Lefty Dellinger of the entertaining club, and also saw Cole Moss, Gastonia outfielder, tie three singles and two doubles together for a perfect day at bat.

The national championship goes to the team first to win three games.

CLUTE HOP YARDS PUT 300 AT WORK

What has developed in the past few years into one of the major summer industries in this district sees 300 men and women at work in the Clute hop yards on the Applegate this morning.

There are 250 pickers starting there today, and 50 others, engaged in sorting, arranging for drying, and other work. Most of the big crew will be busy for the next three weeks in harvesting the crop, which, when dried, will net approximately 45,000 pounds, or 22 and a half tons of hops!

The Clute yards are the largest in Jackson county, consisting of 90 acres although there are several in the Grants Pass district of Josephine county as large or larger.

The hop yards are an imposing sight at this time of year. The Clute yards are reached by driving down the Applegate river past the Applegate store, for a mile and a half, without crossing the bridge.

BROPHY GETS COYOTE WITHOUT EXPENDITURE OF POWDER OR POISON

There are ways and ways of killing coyotes, including shooting, trapping, poisoning and running to death with dogs, not to mention placing them between two pieces of wood and squashing them to death, the system made famous in the old bed-bug joke, but perhaps the easiest way was devised by Vern Brophy Sunday, while driving in the Brownsboro district with Mrs. Brophy.

While putting down the road, a coyote broke for cover just in front of him and ran across the road. A cliff on that side didn't afford very good footing and the coyote scrambled wildly to get over, but slipped back onto the right of the highway, who doesn't like coyotes anyway, found it but the work of a moment to turn his car and run over the animal.

Leaping out of his car, he secured his prize and high-tailed it for the Brownsboro store, where the proprietor, H. W. Wright, deals in the pelts. Entering the store holding his catch aloft by the brush, Vern proudly displayed his day's work and sold it to the merchant for a handsome profit, considering his outlay for ammunition.

J. E. Glase, who witnessed the transaction, vouches for the authenticity of the "kill," a good look at the deflated animal showing him that it had been run over and not shot.

Now Vern is happy because he killed the coyote, Mrs. Brophy is happy because he didn't turn the car over in making his catch, Wright is happy because he made a profit on the hide by turning it in for the mount. Glase is happy because he got to see the proud look on Brophy's face, and the Brownsboro people are happy because there is one less marauder to kill their chickens and sheep. In fact, every one is happy, with the possible exception of the coyote!

ACORN DEBACLE RETURNS SEALS TO TOP OF HEAP

(By the Associated Press)

Aided by a bit of Oakland strategy that failed to pan out, the San Francisco Seals were back on top of the Pacific Coast league today—but it was a narrow and uncomfortable perch.

Clutch upon their heels, the farthest only two and a half games behind, were four other teams, all mathematically capable of reaching the leadership in three days of play. Nearest were the San Francisco Missions, only two percentage points in the rear, and the Portland Ducks, half a game away.

The Seals gained the top spot yesterday by beating the Oaks, 6 to 5, while the Missions were losing to Seattle. The winning run was scored in the last half of the ninth, after Lee Powers tripled and Ken Douglas, Oak hurler, deliberately walked Joe Dimaggio and Joe Marty.

Hank McDonald relieved Douglas, but apparently he had caught the habit, for he walked Steve Barath, forcing in the final tally.

Dick Barrett, Seattle pitcher, shut out the Missions with six hits as the Indians pounded Otho Nicholas for an 8-0 victory which bounced the erstwhile leaders into second place.

Portland clung close to the top with a handy 6-1 defeat of the last place Hollywood stars, while Los Angeles was forced to go 13 innings before beating Sacramento, 4 to 3.

The Boston Red Sox were 35,000 customers behind their 1934 home schedule attendance at the halfway mark this year, but expected to pull better than even before the end of the year. One 25,000 crowd was rained out.

HUBKA PROMISES OLD TIME SPEED TO DUMP SAVICH

Is Joe Hubka, well-liked grappler from the University of Nebraska, slipping?

For some time this capable, speedy leg-hold specialist has been eyed by the fans as one of the best all-around matmen in circulation, and whenever he has been lined up for wrestling matches at the Armory, the betting odds have stacked up decidedly in his favor. Recently, however, Hubka has not looked so good.

In last week's match with Al Kazanick he never once hit his usual fast stride, but instead seemed to lag through the match at half speed. He usually resembles a steamed-up locomotive going down grade. In a recent match at Portland he lost to Danny Savich, highly-touted wrestler from Salt Lake City, which is also deemed unusual, although the University of Utah star is no slouch.

When Hubka meets Savich tomorrow night at the Armory, however, the Cornhusker claims he will tear in with all the old time vim and effort to offset the Portland defeat and renege himself with the local "raslin" fraternity. The outcome will probably be nothing short of a grudge match.

In the other half of the main event Pete Belcastro, the Weed Avalanche, will meet Toots Estes, champion of the Hawaiian Islands. Russ Riley of New Mexico will meet Roland Warren of Klamath Falls in the opener.

LONG SHOT NAG WINS GRESHAM INAUGURAL

GRESHAM, Ore., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Mid a fury of flying feet and flashing manes, Oregon's 1935 horse racing season was opened here last night before 10,000 spectators.

A 10 to 1 shot, Tabour, galloped to a two length victory in the six-furlong inaugural handicap, feature to pay $28.20 to win, $7.92 place and $4.48 to show. The winning quinella totaled $76.40.

Favorites won most of the other races.
