APPLAGATE AREA FEELS BRUNT OF YOUNG TORNADO

The wind, at the Fred Offenbacher ranch a walnut tree four feet through was snapped off near the base. Hundreds of smaller trees were uprooted.

Hop Yard Suffers Clute's hop yards, where 300 pickers started work this week, were flattened by the gale and heavy rain, which totaled approximately half an inch in a few hours.

Water flooded into the house and barn, destroying the latter, at the William Smith ranch. A huge oak tree was uprooted, falling across the road in front of the John Offenbacher home. The storm struck the Applegate area about four o'clock in the afternoon.

Twenty-one small forest fires, scattered through the higher sections, were started by lightning in Rogue River national forest, but all were under control today, officials reported. Four strikes but no fires were reported in state land.

The driving rain, which totaled .85 in the Dutchman Peak section of the Applegate, put out most of the lightning fires soon after they started.

Phones Put Out In an area of five miles surrounding Medford, 48 telephone lines were out at 10 p. m., but all were back in use except 13 early this morning, according to the telephone company.

One telephone cable on the east side was made useless by the rain, which soaked through and shorted the wires. The California Oregon Power company reported power lines temporarily disrupted in some sections, with one direct lightning hit on a high tension line near Central Point.

The storm started in Medford about 2:15 and passed at 7:30, leaving a precipitation here of .30 of an inch, according to the weather bureau. The wind in this vicinity, which stripped leaves and small limbs from trees, reached a velocity of 30 miles per hour.

GOVERNOR LONDON CHOICE OF CURTIS AS G. O. P. NOMINEE

has declared he was a candidate, friends have kept active on his behalf.

There had been reports in Washington that Curtis and other old organization leaders in Republican circles were joining the Knox movement.

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Alfred E. Smith the "happy warrior" of many a political battle, today had been put forward as a 1936 presidential possibility by his long-time enemy, William Randolph Hearst.

Declaring that Smith, who was the Democratic presidential nominee against Herbert Hoover in 1928, is "the accredited leader of the genuine Democratic party," Hearst said he thought the New Yorker "would make a powerful candidate."

Referring to published reports that he would support the candidate of a proposed "constitutional" Democratic party, Hearst said he did not know what party he would support. He said, however, he thought there "should be a Jeffersonian Democratic party in the field."

The availability of Smith to lead an independent ticket or oppose Franklin D. Roosevelt for renomination has been discussed in some quarters for months. The former New York governor, however, has taken no public notice of the efforts in his behalf, and instead has appeared as a critic of new deal policies.

ROOSEVELT PLANS BALANCED BUDGET BY 1939 IS CLAIM

Investment mean what it was intended to mean, and at no point will he give an inch in his support of the SEC and its right to regulate stock exchanges and to drive against swindlers.

Creel asserted that opposition to the new deal had been neither strong nor intelligent but merely abusive and obstructive and that never at any time had opponents come forward with alternative proposals to Roosevelt policies.

"On the whole, however," wrote Creel, "he retains his amazing serenity, not underestimating his task, but addressing himself to it with all that he has of courage, conscience and ability, sustained by the thought that the American people are his sole judges, and that their judgments are based on results."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Neither the White House nor Secretary Morgenthau would comment today on an article by George Creel saying President Roosevelt plans a balanced budget in 1939.

A man giving the name of Edward H. Pesley, 37, is being held in the city jail to await word from the federal department at Sacramento on a car theft charge. He was arrested here last night driving a car with no license plates, and no temporary permit.

He was accompanied by two women, one of whom he declared to be his wife. The woman denied this, but said she was hitch-hiking, as was the second woman, to Portland, and that the man had given them a lift. An inspection of the machine revealed a pair of 1935 California tags under the seat, so the local police sent a telegram to Sacramento for a check-up.

A report received this afternoon indicated, according to city police, that the car, a 1934 Chrysler sedan, had been stolen from a Sacramento used car lot.

Although the man claimed that his name was Pesley, papers found in his possession led the police to believe that his name was Willard H. Garner. Among his possessions were several driver's permits, issued to that name in Washington, D. C.

The California authorities advised the local police that if the federal agents didn't send someone for the man, the Sacramento officers would do so. Transportation of a stolen auto across a state line is a violation of the federal Dyer act.

After investigation, the two women were released.

953 ARRESTS BY STATE POLICEMEN

SALEM, Aug. 29.—(AP)—State troopers participated in 953 arrests for traffic law violations during July, resulting in fines of $7,213.01, Charles P. Pray, superintendent of state police, reported today.

Approximately 350 of the persons arrested had failed to obtain oper-

Chester Morris in Craterian Hit

"In Public Hero Number 1," opening today at the Craterian theater, Morris and Joseph Calleia (who has been lauded as the star find of the year with his characterization of the public enemy) are seen in parts prototypical of which are prominent in the daily headlines of every newspaper of the country.

The new picture, an enthralling drama of the newest phase of the government's war on crime, has thrilled on thrill, including a spectacular jail break involving 5,000 prisoners.

A distinguished cast includes Lionel Barrymore, Lewis Stone, Jean Arthur, Paul Kelly and George E. Stone.

There were 223 arrests in the general law enforcement division and 63 arrests for violation of the fish and game codes. State police investigated 399 complaints of which 97 were reported as cleared.

Fifteen persons arrested were held for other law enforcement agencies.

BRITISH MARINES LOAD EQUIPMENT FOR MALTA

PORTSMOUTH, England, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Royal marines today began loading guns and other warlike equipment aboard the S. S. Bellerophon, chartered by the war office to strengthen the anti-aircraft defenses at Malta.

The sailing date of Bellerophon was not known but the S. S. Neurlia was scheduled to leave September 3 for Malta with the main bodies of the troops to bring the garrison up to full strength.

Kiddies Matinee Friday Afternoon Rialto's Feature

Tomorrow afternoon will be "kiddies afternoon" at the Rialto theater, with a Popeye Matinee as the big event.

Every child attending the matinee showing of "The Raven" with Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi starred, will be given a free Popeye balloon through the courtesy of the J. C. Penney store. In addition the Rialto will have two Popeye cartoons augmenting their usual short subjects.

The regular price will prevail, but children are asked to remember this free balloon offer will be good only for the matinee show tomorrow.

"The Raven," suggested by Edgar Allan Poe's masterful poem, combines the thrills of "Dracula" and "Frankenstein" with the stars of those two super-thrillers appearing in the leading roles. Together for the first time, with Poe's epic to serve as a reminder of the thrills which to expect, the picture should prove a popular one, not only with the younger element but also among the adults.

Irene Ware heads the supporting cast of "The Raven," which will be the feature attraction at the Rialto both tomorrow and Saturday. "Jalna," picturization of Mazo de la Roche's $10,000 prize winning novel, closes tonight.

Sharp Visits—Phil Sharp, superintendent for the United Airlines at the Medford airport until two years ago when he was promoted to the same position at San Diego, Calif., was visiting in Medford today while on his annual vacation. He left this afternoon for the Prospect region, where he will stay tonight, continuing on to Seattle tomorrow. While here he renewed many old acquaintances.
