

APPEAL TO HITLER DECIDED UPON BY CATHOLIC CHURCH

Will Ask Guarantee That German Will Remain Christian—New Fighting Slogans Provide Worry.

BERLIN, Sept. 3 (AP)—The Catholic hierarchy made it known today that it would appeal direct to Reichsfuehrer Hitler to guarantee that Germany would remain Christian.

The appeal was decided upon after the reading of a pastoral letter in all Catholic churches exhorting all members to "stand fast in the faith" and to resist the onslaught of the church's assailants.

The letter was the outgrowth of the recent conference of Catholic bishops at Fulda and was read in all the churches of the faith in Germany.

St. Peter's Word First
"The fourth commandment enjoins us to obey all authorities," the letter said, "but when the laws of the state come into conflict with natural laws and disclose the commandments, then St. Peter's word obtains: 'We must obey God rather than men.'"

The hierarchy informed the church members it had addressed a memorandum to Dr. Fuehrer calling his attention to "the misuse of new fighting slogans and other limitations of Christian freedom and interference with the Christian conscience."

The appointment of Hans Kerrl as deputy for church affairs was made impossible by Kerrl's personal personality, but Catholics expressed the hope that he would emphasize Christianity as the foundation of the third reich at the Nazi party congress in Nurnberg this month.

Deny Interference
Nazi Governor Jakob Sprenger of Hesse, in a speech at Giessen, hotly denied that the state was interfering in the religious education of the young, which he said was entirely the business of the church. But the education of how to become citizens, he added, was the prerogative of the Nazi party state.

The "away from Rome" movement of Nazi Catholics in their organ, Der Romfreunde Katholik, published in Essen, attacked the papal authority and accused the Roman Catholic hierarchy of "co-operating with Moscow and the Jewish reaction, the rich, safeguarding its economic interests."

The paper expressed itself as "not against Christ but for Christ and against the Paganistic Rome. Our bishops failed us and we must help ourselves."

HISTORY ASSURES RETURN OF CHRIST. DECLARES PASTOR

Speaking in the Church of the Nazarenes Sunday night, Fred M. Weatherford, pastor-evangelist, spoke from the topic "Current History Corroborates the Soon Coming of Christ."

He drew his text from Hebrews 9:28: "Unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time. Also Luke 19:13: 'Occupy till I come.'"

His message in brief follows: "It is not within my thinking tonight to pass on to you any speculation or strained fancies that I might propound. Such preaching has done more to bring this vital truth into disrepute than anything else. I am not date setting, nor am I attempting to tell you the anti-Christ shall be. I am concerned about the truth, that is certain."

"The text is positive in stating that he shall appear the second time. The context of the text affirms that. He came to bear the sins of the people, as the essential preparation necessary to His second coming."

"He cannot be comfortable in the presence of Christ, who has remaining with Him any personal or racial sin. The death of Christ made provision for the elimination of both. When a candidate subscribes to repenting of his sin and the dedication of his life to Christ and exercises faith, he has met the requirements incident to salvation."

"He is also ready, or in such an hour as ye think not, the Son of Man cometh," are the words uttered by the Christ. He also said 'When the Son of Man cometh shall He find faith on the earth.' A further statement from Him says, 'Iniquity shall abound; wicked men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, and the love of many shall wax cold.'"

"The faith of the church has waned, and who would question that wickedness is waxing worse and worse? And that many have grown cold as a dog's nose in the pursuit of vital Christianity?"

OREGON SPARED USUAL HOLIDAY AUTO TRAGEDIES

Between 350 and 400, and described the week end as "death's favorite holiday."

Rain in many sections was one factor which tended to reduce the number of deaths, as drivers proceeded more cautiously than usual. The weather also helped to reduce the number of cars on the road, relieving congestion on many usually crowded roads.

Another factor, safety experts said, was the widespread publicity urging motorists to use greater care in a campaign for safe driving.

Figures reported at 1 a. m. (C. S. T.) placed the death list at 283. No definite check could be made of the injured, but estimates placed the seriously hurt at more than 200.

Deaths from drownings and other fatal accidents, not included in the automobile figures, also tended to swell the grand total.

Eight states and the District of Columbia had clear records. Arizona, Delaware, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nebraska, North and South Dakota reported no automobile fatalities.

California headed the list of states with the greatest number of deaths—40. New York was second with 24 and Illinois next with 17.

RESCUE VESSELS HELD DISTANT BY RAGING WATERS

Dixie was pinned against the north end of French key, about 80 miles south of Miami.
French key is about eight miles from the position on treacherous Caryfort reef where the Dixie, carrying a crew of 129 and 229 passengers, was at first thought to have run aground.
Haze Hampers Rescue
Several other rescue boats engaged in the search - in - the - haze - search, hampered by the post-hurricane haze and laboring through heavy seas.
Because of the raging waters, the master of the Limon could not attempt to take off the stricken vessel's passengers.
Fears were expressed that the Dixie, a Morgan line coastal ship, might be battered to pieces before moderation of the storm made possible transfer of her passengers.
The storm which tossed the Dixie against the reef, swept over southern Florida and the keys, raged west and north over the west coast of the state and out into the Gulf of Mexico.
The hurricane caused considerable crop damage, submerged highways and keys and caused fears that lives may have been lost in the vicinity of Traverler.
Wake of Wreckage
There, the wind reached its greatest velocity, late last night, leaving a wake of wreckage. But one building, a general store, was left standing in the village, reported Fred S. Ghent, director of veteran relief at Jacksonville.
The small fishing village of White Harbor, he said, "is no more."
What happened to 630 ex-army men who were engaged in construction work in the devastated area was a mystery.
The storm, which Gordon E. Dunn, meteorologist at the Jacksonville weather bureau, said was an "average hurricane," missed large cities on the east coast of Florida.
Injuries incurred by passengers and crew members of the Dixie as the mountainous waves and powerful winds battered her on French reef were not serious, it was indicated in a message from the liner's skipper.

PHOENIX MAN'S HAND CRUSHED BY TRAIN IN TRAGICSIDE 'SLUMBER

John Parr, Phoenix, is in the community hospital today with a crushed hand received at 11 o'clock last night when a Southern Pacific switch engine ran over it while Parr was asleep on the right of way, with his left hand thrown over his head and resting on the rail. Police said that Parr had been drinking.
Hospital attaches stated today that Parr will probably not lose the hand, but that several fingers may have to be amputated. The engineer of the switch engine told police that he was taking a box car down the main line preparatory to dropping it in front of the Pinnacle No. 2 packing house. He noticed Parr lying alongside the track and thinking that he had been possibly hit by another train, brought the locomotive to a stop and jumped out.
The pony trucks on the front of the engine had passed over a part of his hand, and he was rushed to the hospital for attention. He was resting comfortably as could be expected this afternoon.
