KENNASTON FACES REAL OPPONENT ON COMING MAT CARD

To round out a wrestling card that will give local fans their first match when Toots Estes and Pete Belcastro meet in the main event, promoter Lillard announced today that for the 20-minute opener he has secured a man just as big and tough as his opponent, Bob Kennaston, the grappling marine.

The promoter announced that Sutey, a 190-pounder, is fast and aggressive, promising to be an ideal ringmate for the big marine. Last week Kennaston unmercifully whipped an opponent half his size, and the fans are anxious to see what he can do against a man of his own caliber. Sutey, a tall lad of about 28 years, is making his first visit this week to the northwest.

Getting the Belcastro complex, Kennaston notified the public that unless he was given a tough opponent, he would demand nothing less than a main event appearance.

A crimp in the possibilities for the title match was made known today with the announcement by Toots Estes that the Hawaiian wrestling association will not allow him to put up his title while away from the islands. Estes is negotiating with officials at Honolulu, and will know definitely before fight time. He said he is willing to stake his belt if allowed to do so.

Belcastro's belt is definitely at stake regardless of Estes' crown, and to seal the arrangement Pete has agreed to stake $100 that he won't back out. In case he does, the coin will go to charity.

In the other half of the main event, a close hand tilt is expected between Joe Hubka of Nebraska and Danny Savich of the University of Utah, who will meet for the fourth time to settle a two-out of three series that was knotted all the harder by a tie last week. Both are determined to win, but Savich is so confident this time that he said he was willing to wrestle for nothing if he loses.

Seats are already selling well, according to the promoter, and the opportunity of seeing the temperamental Italian defend his Pacific coast junior heavyweight championship promises to fill the Armory to capacity.

STATE FAIR EARNS LESS THAN IN 1934

SALMON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The 34th annual Oregon state fair, which closed here Saturday night, brought in cash receipts of $50,400 to the state exclusive of the pari-mutuel returns, Solomon T. White, state director of agriculture, reported. The figure was somewhat below that of last year.

Paid attendance for the eight-day show was 91,169. Probably 10,000 others viewed the fair on passes and courtesy cards, officials estimated. Last year's total attendance was estimated at 150,000 by Max Gehlhar, former director of agriculture.

physician and state police extricated him. He was rushed to the Community hospital, where it was reported he sustained possible skull fracture, several broken ribs, bruises and laceration. His attending physician said he had good chance of recovery. Murphy was not seriously injured.

The accident blocked traffic for the better part of an hour as scores of cars going in both directions stopped at the scene.

Four were taken to hospitals as the result of two head-on collisions which both occurred about 2:30 a. m. Sunday, at the same place on North Riverside near the intersection of Edwards street.

City police reported that a car driven by G. E. Phillips of this city, traveling south, reputedly swerved into the path of a northbound machine driven by J. A. Karkas of Rogue River, demolishing both autos. As pedestrians were removing the injured, a northbound auto driven by J. B. Klukker of Phoenix allegedly swung into the path of a southbound machine driven by L. C. McDaniel of Medford, the two machines colliding on the opposite side of the street from the first accident. Traffic was momentarily blocked by the four badly wrecked autos.

Phillips and Klukker were both arrested by city police for reckless driving.

The injured, besides McDaniel, who sustained face cuts, were all passengers in the four autos: Thelma Grove of Medford, who received head injuries and a serious face laceration; Gladys Gibson, also of Medford, who sustained cuts and bruises; and June Moore of Gold Hill, who sustained lacerations. Thelma Grove, Gladys Gibson and McDaniels were removed to the Community hospital, and June Moore to the Sacred Heart. Although at first it was feared that Thelma Grove sustained skull fracture, it was reported at the hospital this morning that she was not critically injured.

Klukker also reported at the hospital for medical attention, suffering from shock.

The city police blotter recorded several minor auto accidents over the week-end.

TED COY, GRID IMMORTAL IS VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Football followers of a quarter of a century ago today mourned Ted Coy, by many considered the greatest fullback in the history of the game.

He died yesterday of pneumonia at the age of 47. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at the Broadway Tabernacle church.

Coy played for Yale in 1907, 1908 and 1909, and was twice placed on Walter Camp's annual all-American team. Parke H. Davis and Camp both selected him for fullback on their respective all-time all-America teams.

"Ted Coy stands alone in his class," W. W. (Pudge) Heftefinger, a Yale football hero of an earlier generation, once said. "He ran with a high knee motion and was a powerful runner, being one of the hardest men of his day to down."

In the midst of Coy's career as a player, Walter Eckersall, himself a brilliant star of a few years before, nominated him as the greatest player of all time.

T. A. D. Jones, Yale's former head coach, called him "certainly Yale's greatest fullback."

Coy married three times, his second wife being Joanne Eagles, star of the play "Rain."

Edward Harris Coy was born in May, 1888, at Andover, Mass., where his father, the late Edward Coy, was a master at the Phillip Andover academy.

During the years that Coy was fullback for Yale, six games were played against Harvard and Princeton. Yale won all but one. In each instance he was the major factor in the victory.
