Younger Set Plans Large No-host Party At French Chateau

One of the most interesting social events of the early fall season promises to be the no-host supper dance to be given at the Chateau, Saturday night, by a large group of the younger set. The dance will be the first of entertainments planned by local young couples and will also bid goodbye to the many who will leave for college next week. Dancing will be from 9 to 1.

Several groups are planning to meet before going on to the dance. Among these hostesses will be Miss Barbara Hauk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hauk, who will have 10 guests for dinner.

Missionary Society Honors Rev. Martin.

The Women's Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church is sponsoring a covered dish supper honoring Rev. David Martin of Japan, who is visiting relatives in Grants Pass. Supper will be served at 6:15. At 7:00 o'clock, Rev. Martin will show motion pictures of his work in Japan. Those who are unable to attend the supper are invited to come in for the illustrated lecture at 7:00 o'clock. It is planned to close the meeting at 8:00 o'clock, enabling those who desire to do so to meet other engagements for the evening.

McFarland's Guests At Getchell Home

Mrs. G. H. McFarland and daughter, Miss Marcia, arrived yesterday to be house-guests for a few days of Mrs. Delroy Getchell and daughter Gloria.

Miss McFarland is being welcomed by friends and acquaintances made when she was a guest of Miss Getchell two summers ago.

Chauncey Brewer Leaves for School.

Chauncey Brewer, Jr., is leaving tomorrow morning for Menlo Park, Calif., where he will enter his first year at the Menlo Junior college.

Comment on the Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS.

HENRY PERKINS OF Klamath Falls

Addressing a Southern Oregon service club the other day, gave a picture of Ethiopia that was genuinely interesting to all his hearers. Because the Ethiopian crisis is one of the most significant subjects in the world today, an effort will be made here to pass on some of the high lights of this picture.

YOU have heard of Ethiopia and of Abyssinia, the terms being used interchangeably. So perhaps you have become confused. They are one and the same. Ethiopia is merely the older and longer established name.

ETHIOPIA has the oldest—that is, the longest established—government in the world today, Emperor Haile Selassie tracing his descent back to King Solomon.

Keeping the same government that long is something of an achievement. At least it indicates a considerable degree of stability on the part of the Ethiopian people.

If you'll notice, the peoples who have overthrown their governments oftenest are by no means the farthest advanced or the best off.

BUT, you'll say immediately, Ethiopia, as judged by modern standards of progress, isn't very far advanced.

True enough. In part, Mr. Perkins explained why.

Ethiopians are the only FREE people of Africa, all the others being governed, or dominated in some way, by the so-called "enlightened" nations of Europe. These enlightened nations, whose colonies ring Ethiopia around, have by a sort of common consent, kept the instruments of modern progress out of Ethiopia.

Thus the Ethiopian farmer still plows his ground with a crooked stick. ETHIOPIA, located almost on the equator, is a high plateau with an elevation of some 7000 or 8000 feet. Its climate, therefore, is surprisingly similar to the temperate zone.

In order to reach it, invaders must cross either burning deserts or hot and marshy lowlands, where the temperature sometimes reaches 105 degrees. Then the mountain passes must be climbed.

Mussolini, you see, won't have all easy sailing if he sacks the job. SUPPOSE, you ask, he elects to bomb the cities from the air.

Well, it is said, according to Mr. Perkins, that in Addis Ababa, the capital, the buildings of the foreign legations are more valuable than all the rest of the property put together.

So Mussolini's planes would merely destroy the property of other European nations, along with the native huts, and the population would take to the brush.

DR. W. P. CHISHOLM OF GOLD HILL DIES OF HEART AILMENT

Dr. William P. Chisholm, a resident and practicing physician of Gold Hill for nearly 40 years, passed away at his residence in that city at 5:45 p. m. Thursday, following a severe heart attack which lasted but a few days.

Dr. Chisholm was born at Hamilton in Ontario, Canada, November 4, 1865, and was aged 69 years. He graduated from the University of Toronto and immediately entered the Trinity Medical college at that place and received his medical and surgical diploma in 1888.

Soon after this, he came to the states and practiced in Denver, Colo., and other places before coming to Oregon, where for a few months he practiced at Eagle Point before locating at Gold Hill. He bears a wide acquaintance throughout southern Oregon, where he has given the greater part of his life to suffering humanity.

Besides his wife, Mary O. Chisholm, he leaves six children by a former marriage, James, Thomas, Stuart and John Chisholm, Jean Gardner and Janet Chisholm, all of Gold Hill. Also three grandchildren, Jean Smith, Donald and Betty Jean Chisholm, also of Gold Hill.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Conger chapel by Rev. Weston Shields, at 2:30 Sunday. Pallbearers will be selected from the Southern Oregon Medical association. Interment will be in the Gold Hill cemetery.

ROGERS RELEASED ON BOND IN DEATH OF TORCH SINGER

after counsel for Rogers and the district attorney had agreed upon the amount.

The bonds are to assure the presence of Rogers and Kelly at the inquest next Thursday night into the strange death of the 25-year-old actress.

It was explained there are no charges against either man.

In announcing that bail would be allowed, District Attorney William Parke cautioned that the two men must not leave Pennsylvania without special permission from him. This permission has not yet been sought, he said.

Still in Farm Clothes. Rogers was still wearing the farm clothes he had on Wednesday night when, after hours of drinking and quarreling, he was found, supported by two men, on the lawn of the farm house, in an upstairs bedroom of which the girl lay dead.

His necktie and belt were taken from him last night, following expressions of fear he might attempt to take his own life. The girl's parents, however, and many of her friends refuse to accept the suicide theory, despite the circumstances of the girl at her death and the evidence that she was alone in the room at the time.

SUPERSTITIOUS WORRY! TODAY IS FRIDAY, 13th

Folsom, state cop formerly stationed here, always carries a rabbit foot with him. Sgt. Ellenburg of the state police carries a lucky coin from Monte Carlo, and Syd Newton always has a lucky coin, given him just before he won the state trap shoot. He won't shoot without it now.

Fearless spirit that he is, D. T. McDonough, engineer, writes nothing about Friday the 13th—he was born on that day, in 1893. Another fearless trail-blazer is Ernest Scott, who started construction on his new house today. Vic Tengwald won't open a roll top desk on any day, but chiefly because he catches his fingers, he says. M. N. Hogan considers this his lucky day of all days. As a former sailor, Roy Lee firmly believed that scratching the mainmast always brought him a fair wind, on the old wind-jammers.

Harry Hansen is firmly convinced that the only way to catch fish is to spit on the bait. Pete Belcastro likes a certain corner when wrestling and Mack Lillard likes the horseshoe over the shoulder stunt. Arthur Perry, Mail Tribune columnist always carries a horseshoe in his car. Otto Caster, county commissioner, will never start a job on Friday that he can't finish, and if he finds a horseshoe he either hangs it up on a tree or fence, or carries it back to the house with him.

Among the ladies, Mrs. John Jensen picks up pins pointing towards her, and Edith Nichols doesn't like black cats crossing in front of her. Leneve Simkins takes an umbrella along to keep it from raining, and Edna Ebert won't open one of the things in the house. Joan Buchter turns from black cats and Elaine DeVries worries about them but prefer to devote her attention to looking for good luck tokens, such as four leaf clovers.

Neva Samuels always looks at a new moon over her left shoulder, won't walk under a ladder even if she can't walk around it, and won't stand for black cats crossing her path. Mrs. Nell Franklin doesn't walk under a ladder unless she has to, shudders when she breaks a mirror, and absolutely cringes when someone rocks an empty rocking chair, for this means a death somewhere. Another subscriber to the rocking chair worry is Mrs. P. B. Bigelow.

Madeline Snyder, in charge of one of the new PWA programs, has only one superstition—that is that Friday

SEVEN TRAFFIC ARRESTS MADE

Seven men, charged with violation of traffic rules, were enmeshed in the coils of the state police yesterday. They were Donald F. Meadows, charged with having improper license, and given a fine of $5 and costs of $4.50 in justice court this morning. Upon payment of the costs the fine was revoked; Richard Milestone, route 1, no trailer license, $5 and costs; Melvin O. Wright, speeding a truck on the Sams Valley road, $5 and costs.

Joseph T. Rosen, Ashland, charged with operating a car with improper license; Garrett Rommerde, Medford, charged with operating a truck with no clearance lights; Wayne H. Harris, Medford, operating a truck with no clearance lights, and William G. Alexander, Santa Rosa, Cal., no operator's license, are all scheduled to appear in justice court later.

A king mackerel weighing 18 1/2 pounds, landed at Pensacola, Fla., recently by Miss Jean Sintes of New Orleans, was labelled the biggest catch of the season by a woman angler.
