BELCASTRO PINS ESTES TO RETAIN COAST MAT TITLE

Bearded Grappler Takes Two Out of Three Falls in Hectic Main Event—Joe Hubka Defeats Savich

Pete Belcastro is still Pacific coast junior heavyweight champion, but he was a pretty worried title defender for a while last night at the Army when Toots Estes, sensational speedster from Honolulu, came so close to annexing the crown that 2000 fans sat on the edges of their chairs without knowing whether to boo or cheer until the final scuffle.

When the bearded defender of the silver and gold buckle came out of his corner after dividing the first two tumbles with the flashy challenger, the fans perked up to watch another stanza of the close, careful type of wrestling they had seen during the first two falls, but Belcastro was taking no chances with his newly-acquired crown, and in six minutes walloped Estes to the canvas with belligerent rabbit punches and knee lifts to decisively end that young man's title aspirations.

Despite the fact that Peter, completely forgetting his manners as the match began to get hot, made Toots look like the cork in a popgun, referee Ray Frisbie evidently considered the jarring knee lifts on the up and up. When he was through dusting off the islander's handsome chin, Belcastro systematically planted him to the mat with a body press.

Pete Gets Rough

The fans really admired Pete during the first two stanzas, when he stayed absolutely clean and completely outwrestled the title seeker, but some of the ringside referees thought otherwise about the knee lifts and elbow punches as Peter descended from his gentlemanly role and began to make sure that his handsome adversary got buckled in going to hold up his own pants at least a little while longer.

As they came into the ring on the first song, Belcastro was leery of the slick islander and settled down to clean, steady work. Toots, completely baffled, made his first mistake by using a couple of flying mares and laying himself open for two of the best drop kicks that Peter has ever pulled off in his drop-kicking career. That accounted for the first fall in 10 minutes.

Belcastro started to get tough with a rabbit punch as they came together for the middle session, but Estes put a stop to that by lambasting Peter in the midriff with the only closed fist of the tussle. Then Pete made his mistake. He tried to pull a Johnny Boos, but had just got started on a series of rapid-fire flying mares when Estes, giving Sir Malcolm Campbell a few pointers on speed, cuffed Pete on the chops and in the small of the back at the same time to pin him with a body slam in four sliding minutes for the second fall.

With the exception of flooring Peter on that occasion and eluding an Indian dashblock with a lightning-like dive between Belcastro's legs, Estes was outside throughout the match by the bewhiskered title defender. Both in clean wrestling during the first two periods and in the man-handling tactics that he employed to sew up the contest, Belcastro proved

Hubka Defeats Savich

Denny Savich of Utah lost the other half of the main event to Joe Hubka of Nebraska when he missed the Cornhuaker with a flying tackle and a dive head first through the ropes. Had he not grabbed the bump with one hand on the way through he probably would have plowed a patch through an entire section of seats, but as it was he smacked the floor so hard that they carried him out for the evening. Hubka refused to give him extra time and took the match.

The tussle had the earmarks of a good one as the two popular grapplers started in with speedy, aggressive holds. Savich won the first fall in seven minutes with a pair of Bon-neburgs and a double Irish whip-lock. Hubka saw his chance and teased Danny into another flying tackle, ducking as the ex-footballer from Salt Lake City precipitated himself out of the ring.

Bob Kennaston of Gold Hill, the challenging marine, won the opening bout when he clamped a reverse headlock on Frank Staley of Arizona after 14 minutes of meane wrestling.

PORTLAND PITCHER ROBBED OF NO-HIT RECORD BY ANGEL

(By the Associated Press.)

As far as Bill Radonitz, Portland pitcher, is concerned, Friday the 13th should have been yesterday.

It was a perfect jinx day setup for Bill yesterday, when he was cheated of a no-hit, no-run game by Marvin Gudat, Los Angeles left-fielder.

Gudat's sixth-inning single in the seven-frame second game of a Coast league doubleheader was all that kept Radonitz from entering the most exclusive hall of pitching fame. It was not enough, though, to keep Portland from winning the contest, 7 to 0.

The victory, although it was immediately preceded by the Angels' third straight win of the series, 8 to 4, enabled the Beavers to advance into undisputed possession of second place and gain half a game on the leading San Francisco Seals.

The Seals slipped to a three and a half game leadership by falling before the sixth-place Oakland club, 3-4, after winning the first two games of the series. The Oaks got to Jim Denareo early, scoring all their runs in the first three innings.

The San Francisco Missions dropped into third place before a betting onslaught by the Seattle Indians. The Indians hammered Otto Nischolas and Hal Sittler for 12 bingles, converted into as many runs. The Missions made eight tallies from 11 hits.

The Sacramento Senators turned on the last-place Hollywood Stars for a 5-0 shutout, after dropping the first two contests of the series.

PORTLAND TEAMSTERS FACE BOMBING TRIALS BEGINNING WEDNESDAY

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 13.—(AP)—After two months of delay nine members of the teamsters' union here will go on trial next week on charges growing out of a campaign of bombing and terrorism aimed at Portland beer parlors. The first of the series of trials will start Wednesday.

The defendants have been charged with malicious destruction of property.

Depositions were declared by police to have resulted from a jurisdictional quarrel between the teamsters' union and the brewery workers' union—both A. F. of L. affiliates. Each has declared beer made and delivered by the other is "unfair." Stores which handle the variously represented "unfair" beers were the objects of attacks.

The city attorney has charged that several accused bombers and window smashers were caught in the act of destroying property after union officials assertedly gained immunity for the automobiles of the window smashing gangs by declaring them to be used in co-operation with police.

The Texas Interscholastic league has ruled that football games in league competition can be played at night only by mutual agreement of the teams.

Meanest Horse in Rodeo

"Billy the Kid," one of the meanest man-killing horses in the rodeo circuit will be at the Medford American Legion rodeo here Sept. 21 and 22, it was announced today. Known by practically every cow-poke in the country, the "Kid" is not only a vicious buckler and plunger, but has decidedly murderous tendencies. His favorite trick is to plow his would-be rider on the ground, and then trample him underfoot.

In striking contrast to this animal will be "Little Buck," an experienced cow pony with brains and willingness. This horse works so nicely in bulldogging and roping that all of the punchers like to draw him in the rodeos. Both horses are used in the bigger rodeos by their owner, Norman Cowan, and both will be seen in action here.

"Billy the Kid" and "Little Buck" are both buckskin colored.

U. S. BOYS BUZZ AROUND BRITISH TENNIS BEAUTY

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Great Britain's Wightman cup tennis team journeyed westward today after a stop here, spent discussing Dizzy Dean—hunting a cinema "about gangsters and all that"—and finally repelling the too-numerous admirers of Kay Stammers.

Tim Horn—the team's captain, manager and chaperone—was kept busy looking after his charges. Besides Miss Stammers, they included Freda James, Evelyn Dearman, and Nancy Lyle. Several autograph seekers met the team at the station.

"It makes me feel just like your Dizzy Dean," said Miss James.

"We think Dizzy is wonderful," the other three girls offered.

The team recently saw Dizzy and the St. Louis Cardinals play the Braves at Boston.

Mr. Dean disposed of the girls put it up to Mr. Horn to find a movie.

"Isn't there a good cinema here about four gangsters and all that?" asked Miss Dearman.

"One with machine guns," added Miss Lyle.

"In Boston we had a fine robbery right by our hotel," contributed Mr. Horn. "The robbers used machine guns and got more than $80,000."

No gangster pictures being available, the group saw a Clark Gable number. Mr. Horn's troubles were added to by the number of young men who wanted to meet Miss Stammers. Miss Stammers has been described as the most beautiful girl England ever sent to this country to play tennis. Some critics have even said that the "to play tennis" was not necessary.

After the movie, the team resumed its trip west.

PORTLAND TEAMSTERS FACE BOMBING TRIALS BEGINNING WEDNESDAY

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 13.—(AP)—New business totaling 42,488,000 feet, about 16 per cent above the 3-year weekly average for September, was reported by the Western Pine association today for the week ending September 7.

Shipments were 49,328,000 feet, and production, 64,280,000 feet. For the corresponding week a year ago the same 108 mills showed orders of 39,005,000 feet, and production at 41,486,000 feet.

For the year to date orders have been 43 per cent greater than for the corresponding period last year.

Clarence (Ace) Parker, a triple-threat back, is said to be the only certain starter on Wallace Wade's Duke university football squad in the 1935 season.

45 GRID CANDIDATES WILL FACE CALLISON TOMORROW MORNING

EUGENE, Sept. 13.—(AP)—University of Oregon begins its preparation for the 1935 coast conference gridiron campaign Saturday morning when 45 varsity prospects are scheduled to report to Head Coach Frank Callison.

According to advance notices, 15 lettermen, seven of them regaining from last year, will be on hand for the opening session. The veterans are: Ross Carter and Clarence Codding, guards; Del Bjork, giant all-star tackle prospect; Stan RJordan, and Bud Jones, ends; Johnny Frieschman, blocking quarter; and Frank Mielke, crashing fullback and keyman in Oregon's famous cruncher play.

With power in the line except at one of the tackle posts, Callison's chief worry this year is the backfield. Wait Back, 190-pound triple threat, is slated for the left halfback berth which is the main cog in the Webfoot offensive combination. A reserve last year, Back this season holds the greater part of the answer to Oregon's scoring power as the pace he sets is expected to determine the march of the Ducks toward the top of the conference standings.

SPELATOR, N. Y., Sept. 13.—(AP)—What impresses you most about Max Baer's come-back efforts is his endurance. . . it used to be he was only good for about a minute and a half of fighting in each round . . . now he can step the entire round minutes at full speed. . . and he has been doing that for nine and ten rounds. . . he thinks he'll dispose of Joe Louis much sooner than that.

Max's camp is pleased. . . it is far back in the woods, about five miles from the village. . . once daily Max motors into Speculator for his public workout. . . then he is hustled back to the simple life. . . the rest of the time he is isolated with only his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ancil Hoffman and trainer Izzy Kline as company. . . Mrs. Max is at a cottage in Speculator. . . she usually motors out to the camp to have dinner with her husband. . . then right back to town.

There isn't even a radio in the forest retreat. . . Max asked for one but Hoffman turned him down. . . no every time a visitor arrives with a radio in his car, Max deserts his guest to sit in the car and listen to popular music until the visitor departs.

Hoffman says his former unruly charge is being a good boy. . . he hasn't been off the reservation at night since camp was pitched. . . just the same, Popper Baer is taking no chances. . . he carefully motors out to the camp every night and sleeps with the auto key under his pillow.

Max hasn't smoked a cigarette in three weeks. . . the other day he cut out the pipe. . . he says he can tell a big difference in his mind. . . the first week of his isolation was tough but now he actually likes it.
