

PAIR NABBED FOR FORGING NAME OF AUTO KING'S SON

Two men accused of having forged the name of Jack P. Chrysler, son of Walter P. Chrysler, auto manufacturer, on several American Express company travelers' checks in Aug., 1933, were arrested near Grants Pass Sept. 7, and have been bound over for action by the grand jury, state police revealed here yesterday.

The men's names were given as Jack A. Wilson, 28, and Arthur G. Norman, 40, both residents of the Grants Pass district, said to have been leading a transient existence in southern Oregon for the past several years. Norman was released on $500 bond and Wilson was being held in jail at Grants Pass.

State police reported that checks in the amount of $1100 were stolen from Chrysler's dress coat in his car, as it was parked in Grants Pass two years ago during a tour of Oregon. Several of the checks, in various amounts, totalling about $700, were passed in this vicinity, some during the Diamond Jubilee in June, 1934 according to state police, and it was reported here that some of the checks were also passed in Portland and Idaho. The rest of the checks are believed to be still out, state police said.

Investigation of the case has been underway for the past two years, and the two suspects are being questioned regarding other possible crimes in this vicinity.

Theft of the checks was reported to the police by Chrysler when he missed the currency shortly after leaving his car to register in Grants Pass.

STEWART SEIZED JOSEPHINE HILLS FOR PLATE THEFT

State police disclosed yesterday that Earl Stewart, 35, who claims to be a native of New York, was arrested in the mining district near Grants Pass last Tuesday on charges of having switched plates on a 1935 Plymouth sedan, believed to have been stolen in San Francisco. Stewart was given a 30-day jail sentence, and California authorities are expected to arrive shortly to take him into custody on a grand larceny warrant issued at San Francisco.

Stewart was arrested about 35 miles back in the hills from Grants Pass, where state police had to travel on horseback to arrest him. He was doing special fire labor there. A load-gun was found in his bunk. State police stated that Stewart had put facsimile license plates on the car, made of box shoox, and painted to represent Oregon plates. According to the officers, he drove the car only at night, when the license plates looked real, and then ran the car into the brush to hide it during the daylight hours.

Inspector William F. Johnson, of the San Francisco police, left the bay city Friday to take the man into custody.

DAN HOWARD HURT WHEN PLANE FALLS TEACHER KILLED

Brewer Tractor and Equipment company, his three children, Herbert, 15, Dale, 13, and Thelma, 10, are at home on Spring street.

He and Mrs. Howard took off from the local airport early Wednesday morning, landing safely at Grangeville in a stubblefield near the home of Mrs. Howard's father, Jess Woods.

Mrs. Howard remained in Grangeville while Howard flew to Red River, where he was to pick up Mrs. Martin Stanbury and take her to Grangeville for the week end. In taking off from a field at Red River, motor trouble caused the plane to crash killing Mrs. Stanbury, who was in the front cockpit, and seriously injuring Howard.

Howard's older son said he believed Mrs. Stanbury was his mother's step-sister, and a daughter of Ed Hiles of Grangeville.

Word received here Saturday said that Howard was taken to a hospital at Lewiston, Ida., from the CCC camp at Red River near which the crash occurred.

Howard, an aviation enthusiast, has taken flying lessons at the local airport for the past year, making his solo flight last spring. He has had a considerable number of hours in the air, taking several successful long flights, and was known here as a competent private licensed pilot.

The plane which crashed was an O-X Travelair belonging to Brewer who loaned his partner the ship for the flight. It was this plane in which Howard had learned to fly, and he used it on several previous trips.

Howard, a well known resident of the community and a prominent member of the Medford American Legion post, came here from Marshfield, where he had been employed for several years as a mechanic. Upon his arrival he was employed as a mechanic at the C. E. Gates garage, and later went into partnership with E. R. White of the White Machinery Co. For the past few years he has been salesman for the Hardie Manufacturing Co. with headquarters with Brewer at 128 South Riverside.

Howard has two brothers, Raymond and Perry and families, living at Bend, Ore.

At the time of the accident, Howard's partner, Brewer, was in Klamath Falls, and was expected to return here yesterday afternoon.

Coming Out Party for Safeway Staff

Employees of Medford's Safeway store are shown above in an informal pose the last day of the Pioneer sale campaign which ended September 10 as a complete success for the Safeway organization. The men were parting with their month-old beards when this picture was taken. The following are included in the group: Jack Bickler, market manager; Ernie Wallace, salesman; Kenneth McCoy, Oscar Ross, vegetable buyer for store No. 41; Johnnie Clark, originator of the Pioneer days idea; J. F. Haws, manager of the Safeway store on North Central avenue; Howard Schreengost, A. G. Anderson, manager of store No. 471 on Main and Holly; Oral Havill; Lytle Rurrell; Fred Mantz, vegetable buyer for No. 471; Fred Schreengost; Harry Hansen, market manager.

"We wish to thank our southern Oregon friends for their generous patronage during our Pioneer sale and for their enthusiastic interest in the entire event," Mr. Haws said yesterday. He has another reason to be pleased. Although no prize was offered for the thickest and longest beard, it was generally conceded that the handsome manager of Safeway store No. 41 walked away with all honors, including a package of bologna from Dick Huber.

The oldest pioneer who registered at the North Central store the last day of the sale, September 10, was Phylander McEntyre, who will be 100 December 24, 1935. He was presented with a sack of sugar as was H. C. Applegate, 92-year-old Medford resident, who registered as the West Main Safeway store on Saturday.

eastern Oregon or away out west in Curry or Josephine counties. Optimistic boosters paint rosy pictures of conditions in the Cascades but most of our local hunters show a noticeable preference for other ranges. There are reasons, for instance:

News items usually read something like, "Red Hat and wife returned from Lakeview with two, fine mule bucks." "Party of nine return with limit from eastern Oregon." One must look up the Twenty Years Ago news to read of local success.

Unless better protection than prevails today is given the deer in Jackson county it won't be long before all hunters must go elsewhere to get their buck.

The entire length of the Cascades in Oregon is deficient in game refuges. This condition could be easily remedied as the entire range is forest reserve land. And why not make primitive areas really primitive by protecting all non-predatory animals within their borders?

Cooperative effort by forest service and game commission could easily prevent the valuable Columbia black-tailed deer from becoming more of a rarity—at practically no expense to the public. Are we going to do something about this or close the gate when it is too late?

BETTER BUSINESS SIGNS REPORTED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A fall buying movement "which has been gaining momentum since Labor day," was reported by the commerce department today to have "responded" in both retail and wholesale trade in the week ended Wednesday.

In its weekly survey of conditions in 33 cities, the department noted that the "forward trade movement," was based largely on this background:

"Favorable weather, stimulated buying power in agricultural sections, sustained activity in building and construction, and gradually improved employment conditions brought about by WPA allotments and increased industrial production."

REVISED BALLOT TITLE FOR ROGUE FISH BILL FILED

SALZEM, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A revised ballot title for the initiative measure which would permit limited Rogue river commercial and repeal the prohibitive law, was issued here today by the attorney general.

The revised title was made following complaints to the other title by both proponents and opponents. The new title which follows, was said to clarify the proposed measure.

"Purpose: Repealing 1935 act which forbids all fishing in Rogue river and tributaries, except angling, permitting fishing for trout and salmon with driftnets having mesh not under 8 1/2 inches, in that part of Rogue river approximately between mouth of Lobster creek and Doyle's rock, from March 15 to June 30, with Sunday closed periods; forbidding any other fishing therein except angling, and any fishing for trout or salmon within three miles outside river's mouth, selling trout, selling, possessing or transporting for sale any fish from Josephine, Jackson and Curry counties caught during closed season; trout to include steelhead."

The initiative was instituted by commercial fishermen.

Announcing Hubbard-Wray Co.

A New Firm to Represent Three Famous Lines of Farm Equipment

"Recognizing the growing importance of this city as an implement distributing center, and having in mind the necessary limitations placed upon the implement department of Hubbard Bros., Inc., because of the wide divergency of lines, we have formed a new company to take over and concentrate on farming machinery and equipment.

"The new firm will be housed in the present building of Hubbard Bros., Inc. . . . but as a separate and independent institution. Management of the Hubbard-Wray Co., will be in the hands of Mr. M. T. Wray, a man who grew up in the implement business and whose entire training has been along the lines of applying money-saving machinery to farm operation. He is a man we can recommend . . . both as to ability and high character. We take pleasure in introducing him to this community and, in the same breath, turning over to him a department which has existed since the inception of our business."

"Caterpillar" Track-Type Tractors and Combines

We feel particularly fortunate in starting our new enterprise to have as one of our major lines the world famous "Caterpillar" Track-Type Tractors. Nearly four hundred of these machines are now in use in this valley . . . and nothing we could say for "Caterpillar" Tractors could be so thoroughly convincing as the satisfaction expressed by this family of owners.

John Deere Wheel Tractors and Farm Implements . . .

For more than 54 years this store has been headquarters for John Deere farm implements. Many times during these years we have been offered competing lines. We have continued to concentrate on John Deere implements because we believe there is no other line that approaches it in quality, completeness, reliability, low cost and high value.

John Bean Spray Machinery and Fruit Equipment . . .

Products of the John Bean Mfg. Co., need no introduction to this territory . . . Farmers use Bean Spray Rigs . . . a great many of them. Bean products are represented in most of the fruit packing plants. We're mighty proud of the line. It will be some weeks before we will be able to present a good "front" . . . alterations are now in progress . . . meantime, we promise to extend ourselves to give you good service on all the above lines. Come in and get acquainted.
