Welcome Rainfall Recorded—The valley was dampened yesterday morning by a rainfall of .28 of an inch, which came with a welcome in the valley, despite the fact that fruit picking was temporarily hampered. The rain aided late farm crops, however, and served to slightly relieve a serious forest fire hazard, and aid hunting conditions. The forecast was for unsettled weather with occasional rain today and Monday.

Stars at Roxy

May Robson, grand old lady of stage and screen, is starred in "Grand Old Girl," at the Roxy theatre for today and Monday. Toby Wing and Fred MacMurray head the supporting cast in this dramatic story of a fighting school teacher always ready to take upon her shoulders the many problems of "her children."

"Welcome Home" on Rialto Screen

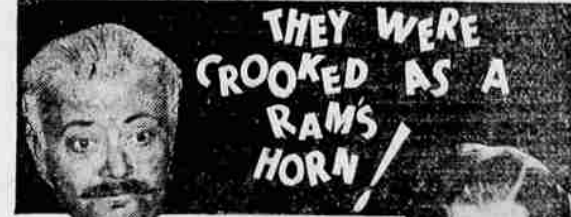

What mirthful situations can arise when a group of slick "con artists" swoop down on a small rural village with every intention of trimming the natives, only to find their schemes backfiring on them, are hilariously brought to the screen in "Welcome Home," playing today and Monday at the Rialto theatre. James Dunn, as "Dickie," Arline Judge as "Gorgeous," Raymond Walburn as "Giltedge," and William Frawley as "Painless" head the cast which also includes Rosina Lawrence, Charles Sellon, and the old-

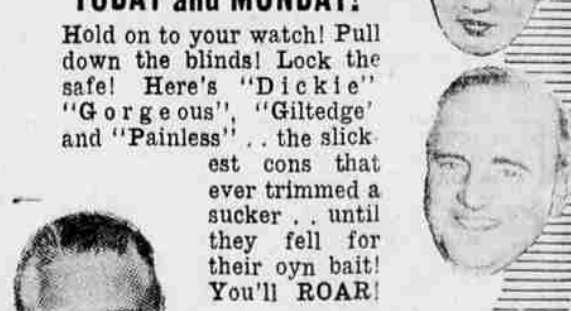

Outstanding Films Coming This Week

This week promises to be an outstanding one in film entertainment. With the opening today of the Crawford-Montgomery picture, "No More Ladies," the Craterian will have Maurice Chevalier in "Folies Bergere" for the Wednesday show and, starting Thursday, Will Rogers, America's beloved humorist and screen favorite of millions, in "Steamboat Around the Bend."

TODAY and MONDAY!
Hold on to your watch! Pull down the blinds! Lock the safe! Here's "Dickie" "Gorgeous", "Giltedge" and "Painless" . . . the slickest cons that ever trimmed a sucker . . . until they fell for their own bait! You'll ROAR!

have Maurice Chevalier in "Folies Bergere" for the Wednesday show and, starting Thursday, Will Rogers, America's beloved humorist and screen favorite of millions, in "Steamboat Around the Bend."

"Folies Bergere" which has Marie Oberon and Ann Sothern in featuring roles, is the screen version of Paris' famous show of the same name, the show to which Chevalier has in the meantime returned. Gay and tuneful, it serves as a fitting background for France's most popular musical comedy star.

Will Rogers, whose untimely death was a shock that was undoubtedly felt more keenly than by the audience of any other public figure, has the sort of part in which he de-

The Pathway to Health

Going to market is a pleasure if one enjoys fresh air and a brisk walk. The housewife finds time to shop, to romp with her children, to comfort her husband,—to do all the myriad of little things of everyday life. She must, above all, avoid exhaustion, and it is imperative that she consult her physician at frequent periods.
