

PASTOR PLEADS FOR FIRM TRUST IN GOD'S GRACE

Rev. Wolford A. Dawes of the First Baptist church, read for the Sunday scripture lesson, Psalm 112, and took for his text, two statements from the psalm. "His heart is fixed, trusting in the Lord," and "His heart is established, he shall not be afraid."

"The result," said the pastor, "is untold blessings coming to the man whose heart is established in God."

"No longer a victim of circumstances, a heart fixed in God leads a happy life. Religion is based on circumstances. In the last few years many have found their faith fixed on man, not on God."

"Many in days of plenty wandered from God; others in time of want have found they are not fixed."

Rev. Dawes said he knew a man who had been "favorable to God" but when the test came, he went away from God, even cursing Him.

"Job was an outstanding example, his heart was fixed in God. In the first five verses of the story, he was a man of great wealth, but that did not affect his heart. Job was great-est of all men of the east. He feared and revered God. He hated evil, shunned evil. Job could not and would not forget his God."

"He was a religious leader in his family. How many of us have taken our children to God as Job took his children? Wealth did not estrange him from God."

"Poverty did not turn him when possessions and children were taken from him, but grief did not turn him from God."

Rev. Dawes said he knew of a mother who "demanded that God spare her sick son. God spared him and that mother lived to see that son die in an electric chair."

"In the book of Job, a conversation is shown between God and Satan. God sets a limit. The devil could only go so far. Our God is above all."

"Many turn from God when friends are taken. In Job's life, through every kind of suffering and trouble he stood firm for God."

"An old lady, helpless, not able to move or feed herself, was an inspiration to others because her heart was fixed in God. May we ever rest 'With our hearts fixed in God.'"

WELLEN DISTRICT ROAD NEEDS EYED

The county court yesterday visited the Buzzard mine in the Elk Creek district, now in operation, and the Wellen-Big Sticky section relative to road matters.

Residents of the Wellen district told the county court they were ready and willing to co-operate with the county in establishment of a year-round road, to assure a rural mail delivery and route. County Judge Earl B. Day said today a way would be worked out to accede to the request. Postal regulations require that mail route roads be open to travel the year around without interruption.

The Buzzard mine road improvement rests with the forest service as the mine is located in a forest reserve. The forest service has expressed a willingness to assist if the mine is a producer. The road is reached partly by county roads. Members of the county court said much development and improvement has been made to the mine, including a mile-long shaft and a stamp mill.

Hearing before the state supreme court on the appeal of George A. High and Robert N. (Babe) High, under a sentence of four years in state prison on conviction of setting fire, in January, 1933, to the Balfour-Guthrie barn near Ashland, for the insurance, has been set for October 2, the district attorney has been advised.

The same date has been set for hearing on the appeal of Kyle Pugh of Josephine county, under a five-year sentence for conviction of criminal syndicalism. Pugh was convicted by a jury last December.

Pugh was specifically charged with the distribution and attempted sale of communistic literature advocating the overthrow by force of the American form of government.

ROAD-BRIDGE WORK AND RELIEF MAIN BUDGET FACTORS

Road and bridge improvement and maintenance, and relief, will be the main problems confronting the 1935 budget committee, County Judge Earl B. Day said today. First meeting of the committee is scheduled "within the next week or ten days."

The budget committee is composed of the county court, and the appointive members, J. W. McCoy of Ashland, H. A. Thierolf of Medford and D. B. Stone of Table Rock.

"It is imperative that action be taken relative to a number of bridges in the county," said Judge Day. "During the depression they have deteriorated and are now in dangerous condition. If anything should happen the county would be facing a damage suit, entailing more expense and cost than saved by putting off needed repairs. When bridge timber starts to rot and weaken, there is nothing to do but put in new timbers, as a matter of good business and safety to the public."

The relief fund the past year has approximated $80,000, and Judge Day estimates it will be the same for 1935. Some federal and state aid will be received, but the main burden will still rest with the county. The county judge also states the old age pension will be a large item, with larger payments, and more applicants.

The Lake Creek secondary highway will also receive consideration from the budget committee, and consideration is being given to a plan to make it a WPA project. The county court and state highway engineers recently conferred on the project without definite conclusion. The road now represents a heavy investment, both to the county and state. Continuance of the rural road oiling project will also be a vital road problem.

County offices and departments are now preparing their budget for the coming year.

SCHOOL BUSES EYED AS SAFETY MEASURE

The law provides all equipment on school buses be standard and vehicles equipped with reliable brakes in first class condition.

ACCUSED MEXICAN TAKEN ROSEBURG

Pete Chavez, 17-year-old Mexican arrested here Saturday morning on a charge of assault with intent to rob, was taken to Roseburg this morning by state police to face that charge. The case will be heard at Roseburg, because it was near that point that the Mexican attacked and brutally beat 51-year-old Jack Slater about the head with an iron tie spike, while the two were riding on a southbound passenger train en route here.

Slater is recovering satisfactorily from the vicious cuts about the head inflicted with the spike, it was announced this morning by Sacred Heart hospital attaches, although it was stated Saturday that had the man not been discovered and treated when he was, he would probably have died from the effects.

DINNER, LECTURE AT PRESBYTERIAN WEDNESDAY NIGHT

At 6:15 Wednesday evening the Presbyterian church will sponsor a church night, with a covered dish dinner honoring Rev. David P. Martin of Oaska, Japan. At 7 o'clock Rev. Martin will give an illustrated lecture on Japan, showing motion pictures of the work of the Presbyterian church there and of the customs and scenery of that country. The pictures have been well received in Jacksonville and Grants Pass where recently shown. The plan is that the program will conclude at 8:30 o'clock, thus enabling those having engagements to keep them.

All members and friends of the church are cordially invited to this dinner and program. Those coming to the dinner are asked to bring a covered dish, sandwiches and table service. If it is inconvenient to come to the dinner, an invitation is extended to the lecture.

ROBINSON'S SUIT IS POSTPONED TO INDEFINITE DATE

The damage suit of Robert Robinson, 15, for $50,000 compensation, against Fire Chief Roy Elliott and Fireman Ed Kanooce, as the result of an accident August 3, 1934, in which the youth sustained injuries necessitating amputation of a leg, has been postponed indefinitely.

The case was called before Circuit Judge H. D. Norton yesterday, but by agreement between counsel for both sides, it was postponed until a future date. The jury was called and excused by the court, until Thursday.

Robinson charges negligence on the part of the firemen, in stringing hose during a minor blaze in the Hotel Medford. The defendants claim contributory negligence, on the grounds Robinson did not seek a place of safety.

The damage action of I. L. McReynolds against the Medford Domestic Laundry and A. Hamilton, laundry truck driver, for $7500 damages and $200 for medical services, has been set for Thursday, before a jury.

The suit grew out of an auto accident on the Crater Lake highway, two miles from the lodge, on July 13, 1934.

McReynolds, a guest passenger in the laundry wagon from Prospect to Crater Lake, alleges that Hamilton drove the truck on the home trip down the steep mountain road at a reckless rate of speed, causing the auto to plunge over a cliff at a curve. He alleges he sustained a crushed chest, three broken ribs and injuries to his heart, lungs, shoulder-blade and collarbone, as a result of the accident.

The defendants in answer assert that McReynolds was a gratuitous passenger, that Hamilton permitted him to accompany him at his own request, and that the accident was caused by the approach of a truck, at a rapid rate, and that Hamilton, in attempting to avoid it, pulled the machine to close to the edge of the road, causing it to topple over.

PILOTS SAY ACT WAS NECESSARY TO AVERT CRASH

Detroit, covered with blood and the pilot scarcely scratched.

The airman told Constable Wethered that Koenecke, sent home from St. Louis by the Dodgers yesterday to make way for fresh talent, appeared under great stress when they started their flight from Detroit to Buffalo, New York.

Had Been Drinking
Constable Wethered said Mulquoney told him Koenecke had been drinking, but was quiet for the first few minutes after the takeoff, sitting at the front of the plane with the pilot.

For no evident reason, Mulquoney said, the baseball player then began to nudge him with his shoulder.

"I told him to cut it out, that I had no time to play," the pilot said. "But when he kept up the horseplay I told him to get into the back seat with Davis."

Koenecke began to poke him in the shoulder again, Mulquoney said, and Davis, sitting near the outfielder, attempted to quiet him, only to precipitate a struggle.

The ball player and the pilot's assistant, locked in a bitter grip after Koenecke bit Davis in the shoulder, went to their knees on the floor of the plane.
