

NRA FUTURE LIES WITHIN INDUSTRY SAYS ROOSEVELT

persons, he hoped, in the year future. This staff, he said, is determining results of the elimination of the codes by the supreme court decision invalidating NRA.

Most major industries he said, were shown by the survey to be living up to the code standards.

However, he added, some industries were breaking them down. The attempt now is to find out how far the chiseling extends.

He emphasized that results of the survey must be obtained before the future policy is outlined.

If industry can go along meeting fair trade agreements and providing adequate working conditions there will be no need for further action by the government, he continued.

If the chiseling element breaks down these attempts, he said, something will have to be done.

Up to industry Asked if the survey showed the chisels in command what would be done, the president quickly replied the first thing would be to find out from industry what it proposed to do.

Discussing works relief, the president said he expected to approve $200,000,000 in permanent public works projects to be submitted to him late today by Secretary Ickes.

Reading from a memorandum from Robert Fechner, director of the CCC, he said this showed that in the first six month period of CCC 19.2 per cent of the men had found employment upon leaving.

The president spoke hopefully of plans for the national youth administration, stating $27,000,000 has been made available to help boys and girls attend schools.

FIRST WITNESSES CALLED TO STAND IN FIREMAN CASE

The defense charges contributory negligence. Attorney Porter J. Neff, in the opening statement for the defense, said the testimony would show that young Robinson failed to seek a place of safety, and was "apparently oblivious" to the warnings shouted at him by a volunteer fireman and a hydrant tender.

He said Kanooze drove to the corner where Robinson was chatting with an acquaintance, intent on watching for traffic on Main street, and laying the hose to apply water to a fire in the Hotel Medford.

Attorney Neff stated a crowd of 50 spectators was across the street, watching the proceedings, and that "a move of five feet would have placed Robinson beyond danger."

Fire Chief Elliott was named as co-defendant, as the superior officer under whose orders Kanooze was acting. The defense also contends, as agents of the city of Medford, the city is the rightful defendant, and that the municipality was freed of liability by the payment of $1000 to the plaintiff. The trial is expected to last the better part of three days.

The leaves of Turkish tobacco are strung one by one like beads (see how it is done in the picture). After the leaves are strung they are packed in bales (see picture)—sometimes as many as 80,000 leaves to the bale.

We have on hand at all times for CHESTERFIELD cigarettes upwards of 350,000 bales of Turkish tobacco...

The pleasing aroma and flavor of Turkish tobacco is almost necessary if you want a good cigarette. Turkish tobacco is more costly when you take into account that you have to pay 35c a pound duty, but we have to have it to blend with our mild ripe home-grown tobaccos. It helps make Chesterfields milder, it helps give them better taste. Just try them.

Outstanding .. for mildness .. for better taste
